Noblesville's Prairie Lakes held prom night for seniors

By CHRIS THOMPSON
Reporter Columnist

With the sound of saxophone in the air and corsages on their wrists, some very special seniors experienced prom and recaptured an amazing night they may have long since forgotten. Friday, May 12, Prairie Lakes Health Center, Noblesville, helped their residents live prom night all over again.

Memories, new and old, were alive and well this weekend.

I was honored to be invited to visit with the residents and share in this event. I also got to meet some amazing people, like Ima Beth Peacock, 94, who got to experience prom and a limousine ride for the first time. Peacock, who graduated in 1941, told me that she didn't have a prom where she went to school. "They would have a nice dinner, and then they would take a trip," she said. She was never afforded this experience until now.

Virginia Farmer, 96, said she missed her high school prom because her boyfriend had exams and was unable to attend. She too was able to re-capture the night she had missed so many years ago.

I had a very special conversation with Gina Schlotterbeck, who attended this prom with her mother, Jene Keith. Schlotterbeck told me that her mother was so very happy to be able to be part of this.

Like the other guests, Keith enjoyed the makeover, getting to wear a prom dress, riding in the limo and a very nice meal, which she was enjoying while we spoke.

Noblesville graduate receives National Ag Scholarship

The REPOTER

Kyle Schmidt, a 2014 Noblesville graduate, has been awarded a $1,500 scholarship from the America's Farmers Grow Ag Leaders program, sponsored by the Monsanto Fund. The Grow Ag Leaders program, which seeks to support students in ag-related fields of study and raise awareness of the job prospects in agriculture, has awarded more than a half-million dollars in scholarships to students across the country in 2017. Nominated by a farmer in their state, the awarded students can use the scholarship to pursue an education in ag-related fields of study, including agronomy, education, engineering and others.

Kyle Schmidt, who received one of the scholarships to put toward his education, has recently completed his program requirements in Animal Science: Pre-Veterinary Medicine Concentration at Purdue University. Kyle will begin his first year of Purdue University College of Veterinary Medicine in the Fall of 2017 to pursue his passion of becoming a mixed animal veterinarian and establishing a farmstead goat dairy.

"I am honored to represent my farm family heritage, my school and Hamilton County in growing the future of agriculture. From my first year of 4-H showing swine, sheep and goats to interning at a farmstead artisan goat cheese dairy and creamery, I am passionate about science and the veterinarian's role in animal health and welfare."

impromptu meal. Our family has been eating at Jim Dandy for over fifty years. Four generations.

I had just taken a bite when Emily responded with, "Funny that you should say that, Drew accepted a new job today . . . we will be moving to Tampa."

Having a mouth full of food allowed me time to chew and process the news. Emily and I aren't just mother and daughter. We are friends. If you have been reading my thoughts that I have written for the past eleven years then you know that the day after I took her to college at Indiana State, I was admitted to the hospital with chest pains. ISU is only two hours away. Now Emily will be sixteen hours away. So will six year old Aiden and four year old Leah and my son-in-law Drew, who I love as well.

I saw the excitement in my daughter's eyes. I heard the joy of adventure in her voice. I smiled and told her, "Well, we have lots of stuff to get done." She said the biggest request she had of me was . . . "Mom, please pray that the house sells quickly so we can get down to Tampa before school starts."

And so I began to pray, words of a prayer I had hoped would never be said.

A couple of Sundays ago I stood in church and as I sang the worship songs, I began to wipe tears. Every song seemed to speak to my heart about surrender. I believe God has plans for each and every one of us. I wanted my plans for Emily to be part of God's plan, to keep her near me. It doesn't always work that way.

When I arrived home I noticed the framed quote on my kitchen counter. It was from one of my first columns that I wrote many years ago.

"God writes a much better story than we ever could . . . if only we trust Him with our pen." I heard a question in my head. "But do you trust me with Emily's pen?"

I wiped more tears as I had an amazing peace come over me. I smiled and I knew that I could pray the prayer that Emily asked me to pray.

"Lord, help the house to sell quickly." Now we wait.

I am soaking in every moment I have with them. Yes, we often go to Tampa as Chuck's sons and their families live there. Our time together will be very intentional.

I see God opening doors as well as windows as He works out all the plans beyond what we could ever pray for. Emily had no idea that her job would be able to transfer her to Tampa.

In the next few months, I will have my moments. You will have to bear with me as I help Emily and Drew pack up their Indiana stuff and I see the taillights of the moving van pull out of their driveway. Tampa bound. My thoughts always make their way to my writing.

My heart strings will be stretched but they will never break.

When I rocked my baby Emily, some thirty five years ago, I sang her lullabies and said many prayers over her. I still pray one of them,

"Lord, please keep my daughter safe and guard her footsteps . . . wherever your plans take her."

A shorter schedule, continued ridership, revenue growth . . .

An even better Hoosier State train

The REPORTER

A faster schedule is in effect starting this month for Amtrak Hoosier State train passengers, as Amtrak and the Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) also announce continued growth in local ridership and revenue for the service between Indianapolis and Chicago.

According to the Amtrak Passenger Service Notice, the southbound Hoosier State (Train 850) is scheduled to depart earlier from its intermediate stops and arrive 11 minutes earlier into Indianapolis. The northbound Hoosier State (Train 851) is scheduled to arrive five minutes earlier in Chicago.

The new schedule for the Hoosier State, which operates four days weekly, is also reflected in the schedule for the Amtrak Cardinal (Trains 50 & 51). Together, the Hoosier State and the Cardinal provide daily service between Indianapolis and Chicago with intermediate stops at Dyer, Rensselaer, Lafayette and Crawfordsville. Previously-booked customers were notified of the changes.

The Hoosier State train transitioned to modern Amtrak railcars and locomotives on March 1. Both ridership and revenue rose in March and April, with ridership up double-digits in both months and revenue also up versus year ago levels.

On-time performance is nearly 85 percent since October, including more than 90 percent in March.

The Hoosier State is operated by Amtrak under contract with INDOT with a unique partnership of state and local funding. The Indiana General Assembly included $3 million per year for the Hoosier State in the two-year state budget, which was signed into law by Gov. Eric Holcomb and begins July 1.

Amtrak employs more than 700 Indiana residents, with more than 500 Hoosiers at the railroad's principal heavy maintenance facility in Beech Grove. The Hoosier State train is often used to bring railcars and locomotives to the plant southeast of Indianapolis and to take them to Chicago.

Transforming lives, providing opportunities

By ANGIE TYLER
President and CEO, Tangram, Inc.

Earlier this month, Governor Eric Holcomb signed Senate Bill 390 into law. This bill, focused on the employment of individuals with disabilities, promotes competitive, integrated employment as the “first and preferred option when providing services to individuals with disabilities who are of working age.”

As the President and CEO of a United Way agency that has been providing services to individuals with disabilities for more than 30 years, I view this as a positive step for our state.

Traditionally, sheltered workshops have been the first place individuals with disabilities have been placed for employment. Sheltered workshops provide many individuals with opportunities they would not otherwise have; i.e. paid work, establishing friendships, and building transferable skills. While these options can certainly be a good fit, not all individuals prefer this type of work over competitive community employment, and they may not be aware any other type of employment is an option.

Senate Bill 390 focuses on providing opportunities for individuals with disabilities who want to work in competitive, integrated employment by promoting this as the first option.

What I find appealing about the new legislation in Senate Bill 390 is that it, a.) advances Indiana by allowing us to join the ranks of 34 other states with Employment First legislation, b.) emphasizes the right for individuals with disabilities to make an informed decision about what type of employment they would like for themselves, and c.) establishes a study group to identify and resolve barriers to employment that individuals with disabilities face, in addition to other functions.

Now is the perfect time for this legislation to have passed. As of March 2017, the unemployment rate for individuals with disabilities (10.6 percent) was more than double that of their non-disabled peers (4.3 percent), according to the Bureau of LaborStatistics. There are almost 1 million individuals with disabilities living in Indiana and statistics show that their labor force participation is significantly lower than the labor force participation for individuals without disabilities.

What Tangram has found with clients utilizing our Employment Services, either through Vocational Rehabilitation or Ticket to Work, is that achieving community employment results in an increase in confidence, a sense of community with their coworkers, and more self-dependency as they realize an increase in income. This bill will transform the lives of individuals with disabilities and give Indiana an economic boost. As more individuals secure competitive, sustainable employment, these individuals with have less reliance on government benefits—in fact, they will become taxpaying citizens, contributing to these benefits and using less of them.

Not only will individuals with disabilities benefit from this bill, but so will employers. With more individuals with disabilities looking for competitive community employment, more employers will have the opportunity to witness first-hand the benefits of hiring individuals with disabilities.

Numerous studies have shown that businesses that successfully recruit, hire, advance, and retain individuals with disabilities realize bottom line benefits like lower turnover, decreased absenteeism, increased productivity, and improved employee morale. It’s a fact that many businesses today grapple with those challenges, which is why Tangram recently launched consulting services to help companies develop and implement robust disability inclusion initiatives.

Senate Bill 390 will empower these businesses to take advantage of the untapped pool of qualified job seekers with disabilities, providing a boost to their bottom line while also increasing labor force participation for a large segment of the population.

I applaud Governor Holcomb and the Indiana legislature for taking steps to ensure all Hoosiers have the opportunity to pursue competitive employment and actively participate in building a brighter future for our state.

Angie Tyler is the President and CEO of Tangram, a United Way non-profit serving individuals with disabilities and their families in Central Indiana. Since 1985, Tangram has been a leader in creative solutions for individuals with disabilities. Tangram Business Resourcing, the consulting arm of Tangram, provides consultation and training to businesses on disability inclusion and is working with companies in nine states across the U.S.

Schlotterbeck kept saying how grateful she was. It truly couldn't have been said better. She told me that there were many people who came together to make this event as wonderful as it was.

Nadine Graham, Life Enrichment Director at Prairie Lakes Health Campus, said, "It takes a village."

Graham told me that the dresses were donated by the girls in the Lawrence High School Honor Society. Jockish Florist donated 10 dozen carnations that were used to make the corsages for the event. The Noblesville football team, along with Coach Jason Simons, came to be stand in dates for these special seniors. The guys were joined by the girls of the Noblesville Key Club.

All these young people came dressed for prom and ready to be part of something special.

Too many times the news media tells us what is wrong in our world. Today, I am humbled to tell you a story of something very right. Good people, working together to do good things.

When I was speaking with Schlotterbeck, she told me her mother doesn't re-

Daly finishes 17th...

Power breezes to second INDYCAR Grand Prix victory

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor
Will Power went back and forth with the lead at Saturday's INDYCAR Grand Prix, but eventually won the race.
Power dominated the Grand Prix in beautiful weather at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, leading 61 of 85 laps. Power is now going back and forth in the history books with Simon Pagenaud - the Frenchman won the race in 2014 and 2016, only to cede it to Power in 2015 and 2017.
"It's a good track for me," said Power. "I think every track is now. My oval results over the last year and into this year have been better than my road course. I feel like everywhere I go, I have a shot."

Reporter photos by Kent Graham

ABOVE: Conor Daly races in the INDYCAR Grand Prix Saturday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. The Noblesville native got as high as eighth before finishing in 17th.
BELOW: Will Power celebrates after winning the Grand Prix for the second time.

This year's Grand Prix was uneventful. There were no caution laps, so it was flat-out racing from start to finish. Power led the first 23 laps, then Helio Castroneves took over on Lap 24.
Power regained the lead on Lap 46, with Castroneves heading back in front on Lap 64 when Power pulled into the pits. But Power took the lead back two laps later, and cruised to the win.
Power finished the race in 1:42:58. Believe it or not, the time wasn't the fastest ever at the Grand Prix. Power's 2015 victory was 16 seconds faster.
The win was Power's 30th, and he reflected a bit on how experience and life changes - Power became a father during last year's IndyCar off-season - have helped him on the track.
"Last year definitely had a few health issues to deal with, and I think that's just how life is," said Power. "You have good and bad times. Bad doesn't last forever. You can't have continually good runs."
Scott Dixon finished second, while Ryan Hunter-Reay placed third. Pagenaud finished fourth.
Noblesville's Conor Daly finished the race 17th. Daly started the race strong, getting as high as eighth early on, but fell back midway through the event.

Jaylah Guillian tossed five strikeouts while pitching a complete game.
