Reporter, WISH-TV join forces to keep you covered

The REPORTER

The Hamilton County Reporter is proud to announce our news-gathering partnership with WISH-TV Channel 8 in Indianapolis.

After visiting the WISH-TV studios to finalize the agreement, Jeff Jellison, publisher and owner of The Hamilton County Reporter, said, "To be able to sit across the table from some of the best television news producers in Indianapolis was a humbling experience."

In January, WISH-TV expanded their own local news programming to include four hours of coverage each weekday. Likewise, this year has seen a great deal of growth in The Reporter's reach and coverage of Hamilton County.

We have added Indiana's Weatherman, Paul Poteet, who also has a WISH-TV connection, to our team. We have the best local sports coverage in Hamilton County. We offer more video and a larger reach on social media than any paper in the county. Our readership and reader engagement has been growing every week for several months.

4-H, Harvest Food Bank are 'Meating the Need'

The REPORTER

Meating the Need, a joint project between Hamilton County 4-H Beef, Dairy, and Swine Projects and Hamilton County Harvest Food Bank, will provide over 2500 pounds of local beef and 450 pounds of local pork to our friends and families in need, right here in our own community. This is the second year for this joint project.

On July 25 at the 4-H Livestock Auction the Food Bank will purchase, with help from donors all across our county, six beef and dairy cattle and five hogs from local 4-H members. Meating the Need donations go towards the sale of the animals and to the 4-H members as they pursue their 4-H, education and life goals.

This year our HCH Food Bank ACTS (A Chance to Serve) youth board members have taken on Meating the Need as their main project. In their words, "We are seven-year 4-H members and Meating the Need helps provide meat for families in our own community who need it."

Noblesville Preservation Alliance supports Nickel Plate Railroad

The REPORTER

The Noblesville Preservation Alliance supports the preservation of the Nickel Plate railroad and train as integral to the history and heritage of Noblesville and the state of Indiana. It is our hope that a viable solution to present challenges will include the continuous operation of this unique historic treasure – from Noblesville to Indianapolis and to northern Hamilton County communities.

We encourage careful consideration of the increasing rarity and value of such trains, potential for economic benefit to our community and vital contribution to the enjoyment and education of current and future generations. Noblesville is distinguished and admired for its singular achievement of successfully managing growth while developing into a highly desirable modern community that has preserved its unique character and historic appeal.

Fortunately, Noblesville does not need to recreate the charm of the past – only to continue to value and preserve the meaningful things we have not lost. We are very proud of our beautiful city, and view the train as an essential component of its character and appeal. Please consider preserving this irreplaceable community asset.

The aisles of memory lane at Kenley's

Columnist

JANET HART LEONARD

Funny how when you read about someone it brings back an entire grocery store of memories. That happened this week when I read about the retirement of Luke Kenley from the Indiana State Senate.

You see it was in the fall of 1971 when I was 16 years old that I applied for a job at Kenley's Supermarket on South Tenth Street in Noblesville. I was a cashier for two years, until college.

Back then they had a Quick Check for people who had 10 items or less (and who paid attention to the sign . . . no more than 10 items). I would tap the keys on the cash register and hit the large + key and then the total. When the customer gave me the cash I would then have to count out the change. No scanners and no automatic calculations on the register back then. No debit or credit cards.

I enjoyed my job earning just under $2.00 an hour. That was minimum wage back then.

We earned raises for a job well done.

To this day I can figure change quickly when I am given the total of what I have purchased. While I usually use a debit card, I am amazed at the clerks who struggle to make change when cash is given as a payment.

My ex-husband worked there as did Emily and Brandon and even my mother. Mom was the popular lady who handed out the food samples. It was definitely a place where families worked.

I think many of us who grew up in Noblesville had our first job at Kenley's Supermarket. The men wore white shirts and ties and the women wore blue smocks.

It was definitely a different time back then.

I remember the first time that I asked Howard for a job he told me that they did not have an opening. I was persistent. The day a friend told Howard and the head cashier, Helen Monihan, that she was quitting I went back and asked and was hired.

Most days after school and on Saturdays I'd be there. Oh the stories I could tell. Funny stories and not so funny stories. Lifetime friendships. Work ethics learned. Five star customer service because people really cared.

I worked for Luke when he took over for his dad. He was always fair and good to his employees. What a lot of people do not know is the generosity of the Kenley family.

Fishers BP gas clerk speaks out after wrongful arrest

WISH-TV Channel 8

A Fishers gas station clerk said Friday that newly released surveillance video proves he was wrongly accused of pulling a gun on a shoplifter.

A little more than two weeks ago Fishers police arrested the clerk for intimidating and drawing a gun on the suspected thief.

Soon after all charges against the clerk were dropped. Friday, for the first time, the clerk told his side of the story. He said he's speaking out because he wants to clear his name after being arrested for following the law.

It started with a man seemingly stealing cigars from the store June 20. The store owner and the clerk, Ahmad Al-Rafie, confronted the man.

"He actually was not responsive when we tried to talk to him. He ignored us and was trying to reach for something the whole time," he recalled.

Afraid it was a gun, Al-Rafie said he showed his firearm, which he has a permit to carry.

"I'm very responsible when it comes to guns," he said. "So I know the laws of the city and the state."

But Al-Rafie said he never pulled it out. Al-Rafie checked the license plate, and the man drove away.

"There was no physical contact," he said. "The gun never came out of the holster."

When Fishers police showed up, Al-Rafie spoke with officers briefly. But then they came back and arrested Al-Rafie for pointing a gun and intimidating the alleged shoplifter, which is a felony.

"I was actually very, very shocked."

Up until then his worst crime was a speeding ticket. Now he was locked up in jail overnight.

"I didn't eat. I didn't drink. I couldn't go to sleep. My blood pressure was off the roof," he said. "Even for a whole week after that my body wasn't acting right."

The Hamilton County prosecutor's office quickly dropped both charges.

"I have no idea. To be honest with you, if they actually saw the evidence, it is very clear in the video what happened," he said, when asked why he thinks he was arrested.

Al-Rafie is an U.S. citizen from Jordan. He served multiple tours as an interpreter for U.S. forces in Iraq and was shot twice on missions.

"I would be more than happy to die for this country," he said.

A man willing to sacrifice. A man also willing to forgive, holding no grudges against the Fishers Police Department. He just has a request for the officers.

"I just hope next time the cops actually do a little more investigating before arresting someone

The Fishers Police Department declined to comment for this story.

Al-Rafie's attorney didn't rule out future legal action. Right now, the concern centers on Al-Rafie's arrest record being public. That could impact him looking for a new job, visiting his family in Jordan, or renewing his concealed carry permit. It doesn't matter that he wasn't charged.

A couple years ago, though, the Indiana legislature changed the law to allow people to seal arrest records as long as the charges are dropped.

Al-Rafie's attorney said he plans on appealing for the case to be sealed, so the arrest does not affect Al-Rafie in any way moving forward.

At Christmastime, we loaded up grocery bags full of food and after work one evening we all climbed into cars and took them to families that would not have had much for Christmas, if anything. I'll never forget walking into a home on the river which was not much more than a tiny shack filled with several little kids. I knew then just how Santa must have felt.

I remember Sally, Luke's wife, coming in to shop when their boys were toddlers. John would be dressed in red and Bill in blue. Funny the things you remember.

I will never forget the blizzard of 1978 when Luke opened the store to all who could walk there.

I also remember the day that Kenley's closed. It was a sad day. I was there. Every good thing must come to an end. I still struggle to go into the big box stores to buy our groceries.

The thing about the Kenley family is that they always left a good legacy in all their endeavors. I do know that Noblesville and the state of Indiana will always be better because of him and his family. Thanks Luke. Thanks Kenley family. I sure enjoyed my walk down the aisles of memory lane.

Enchanted Forest Swim Meet...

Six FAST swimmers collect Day 2 wins

Day 2 of the Noblesville Swim Club's Enchanted Forest Swim meet was a busy one.

In addition to the regularly scheduled swims Saturday at the Forest Park Aquatic Center, the 1500 freestyle race, originally set for Friday, took place under the lights. It was worth the wait for Aaron Frollo of the Fishers Area Swimming Tigers, who cruised to victory in the Boys Open division, finishing with a time of 17:00.33, over 58 seconds ahead of second place.

Frollo was one of six winners for FAST on Saturday. Madelyn Christman won two Girls 13-14 events: The 50 free and the 100 backstroke. Also winning were Tommy Mybeck in the Boys 8 and under 100 butterfly, Molly Robinson in the Girls 11-12 100 breaststroke, Lydia Reade in the Girls 13-14 200 butterfly and Jackson Carlile in the Boys 13-14 200 free.

Westfield-based Viper Aquatics had a couple wins. Erin Verbrugge swept the 200 freestyle and the 200 breaststroke in the Girls Open category, while Colin Cammack tied for first in the Boys 9-10 50 free.

Rachel Ang of Southeastern Swim Club won the Girls 9-10 100 backstroke. Noblesville's Sam Holl was first in the Boys 8 and under 200 freestyle.

Top 20 results for all Saturday events follow. The meet continues today.
