Noblesville's Megan Wiles seeks Luke Kenley's seat

The REPORTER

Monday, Noblesville Common Council President Megan G. Wiles announced her intention to run in the Republican caucus to replace Senator Luke Kenley in State Senate District 20.

"Hamilton County has been very fortunate to have Senator Kenley's leadership at the Statehouse for many years," said Wiles. "After careful consideration and discussions with my family and several community leaders, I have decided to run for the Indiana District 20 Senate seat."

Megan Wiles has been an active volunteer with many Hamilton County organizations for decades. "I am seeking this office because I believe it's important that we have local leaders serving us at the Statehouse who understand the challenges that are facing our communities," stated Wiles.

Wiles cited her role on the Noblesville Common Council as an important perspective to take to the Indiana General Assembly. "I understand how Statehouse decisions affect local communities and our citizens," explained Wiles. "I am committed to listening to diverse points of view and ultimately making decisions I believe are in the best interest of our community and our State."

Stating her priorities, Wiles continued, "I intend to focus on job creation, keeping taxes low, and making sure our growing schools and communities have the resources they need."

The Indiana Republican State Committee will oversee the caucus as Republican precinct committee members will vote to select the next State Senator for District 20. "I look forward to talking with the precinct committeemen and women, as well as voters of District 20, to discuss their priorities and how I may use my experience and skills to best serve this district and the State of Indiana," Wiles concluded.

About Megan Wiles

Megan G. Wiles grew up and is raising her family in State Senate District 20. She is currently serving as the President of the Noblesville Common Council after taking office in 2016. Megan is also the Executive Director of the Riverview Health Foundation which benefits Riverview Health, the county hospital of Hamilton County.

Prior to joining Riverview Health Foundation, Megan was President of Legacy Fund, the Community Foundation of Hamilton County for more than eight years. While in that role, Megan worked with community leaders to identify and address local issues and help direct resources to provide a positive impact in Hamilton County. Megan is a member of the Noblesville Mid-Day Rotary Club and DG Chapter of the P.E.O. Sisterhood. Megan has been a community volunteer with such organizations as the Conner Prairie Alliance (past Board Chair), Girl Scouts of Central Indiana (Cookie Mom), numerous committees with the Noblesville Schools and Guerin Catholic High School, and her lifelong church, St. Michael's Episcopal Church in Noblesville.

Megan is a graduate of the Hamilton County Leadership Academy as well as a graduate of Noblesville High School and Ball State University. Megan and her husband of more than 20 years, Greg, live in Noblesville with their high school aged children Garrett (Guerin Catholic) and Grace (Noblesville High).

No decision expected soon in fate of Nickel Plate Rail Line operator from Iowa Pacific was originally rejected as late filed, but documentation was provided showing a snafu in filing the paperwork at the courthouse.

The first four proposals have been scored and the Iowa Pacific proposal now must be scored. The Authority will conduct a special meeting at 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 18, releasing the scores of all five proposals received.

Authority President Mike Obergfell says once the scoring is completed and the Authority approves it, the proposals will go to the owners of the line for final approval. The owners include Hamilton County as well as the cities of Noblesville and Fishers.

That means we are at least weeks, maybe longer, from a final decision on the future of the Nickel Plate Line.

Fishers and Noblesville have announced plans to create a trail along the rail line from 96th Street north to Pleasant Street in Noblesville. The Authority sent out requests for proposals so that all the options on the future use of the rail line can be considered.

Meanwhile, the Indiana Transportation Museum has filed a request for a restraining order from the federal 7th Circuit Court of Appeals allowing them to run the Indiana State Fair Train between Fishers and the state fairgrounds this year. A decision by the court is expected within 10 days.

Noblesville: "No merit in HUD investigation"

The REPORTER

Federal authorities with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) are investigating housing discrimination complaints against the city of Noblesville and Hamilton County over the lack of low-income housing.

Noblesville and Hamilton County governments receive federal funding aimed at helping communities reduce poverty. The complaints allege both entities violated the fair housing requirements associated with the money.

Hamilton County has a total of 330 subsidized housing units. Of those, Noblesville has 325. Hamilton County Area Neighborhood Development (HAND) operates 96 subsidized units throughout the county, with most of those servicing seniors.

According to the complaint a recent study by a development and consulting firm estimated Hamilton County communities need approximately 11,000 additional housing units.

"The City of Noblesville does not see any merit in the claim against the city filed with HUD," Robert Herrington, Public Affairs Manager for the City of Noblesville, told The Reporter. "Noblesville has more subsidized housing than any other community in Hamilton County even though we have less than 25 percent of the total county population. Also, the city is in the process of amending ordinances to accept certain types of federal Housing Choice Voucher Programs throughout the city. The city is home to a variety of housing levels and claims to the contrary are unsupported by the evidence. We continue to evaluate our procedures and are diligently preparing our response to the complaint."

Riverview Health installs free sunscreen dispensers at Grand Park

The REPORTER
Riverview Health has installed 10 sunscreen stations throughout Grand Park Sports Campus, offering sun protection to its 1 million annual visitors from across the country.

"Riverview Health is a great partner with the city of Westfield," says Mayor Andy Cook. "As Riverview embarks on completing its building on the corner of SR 32 and US 31, the city was honored that Riverview wanted to expand its partnership by offering free sunscreen to Grand Park visitors."

"One in five Americans will develop skin cancer in their lifetime, which is an alarming statistic," says Dr. Jeffrey Klak, family physician at Westfield Medical. "We always encourage the use of sunscreen when outdoors whether it's cloudy or sunny. For young families on the go with kids, it's an easy thing to forget. But for long-term skin health, it's important to get in the habit of sunscreen application at a young age."

The dispensers are located at the seven concession stands, the Grand Park Events Center and both sports administration buildings. Each dispenser contains BrightGuard sport sunscreen lotion SPF 30 that is specially formulated to withstand vigorous activities. It provides superior broad-spectrum

UVA/UVB protection that resists wear off from water, rubbing, sweat or wiping. Riverview will also provide the sunscreen refills throughout the year to ensure its availability to Grand Park visitors.

Soccer to generate $12.2 million for Westfield

The REPORTER

US Club Soccer – a prominent member of the U.S. Soccer Federation and the leading organization developing soccer clubs across America – estimates a $12.2 million direct economic impact for Westfield from its 2017 league-based and cup-based national championships.

The 2017 NPL Finals, held from July 13 to 17, is the targeted destination for 22 regional NPL member leagues across the country in 13U through 19U boys and girls age groups. Hosted from July 21 to 24, the National Cup XVI Finals serve as the culminating event of US Club Soccer's cup-based countrywide championship series, welcoming 13U through 19U boys and girls squads. In total, more than 300 teams and 8,000 of America's top youth players will participate in these prestigious youth soccer competitions.

"US Club Soccer is proud of the economic impact that our national championships are expected to provide to Westfield," says Kevin Payne, US Club Soccer CEO. "We hope all participants and families have an unforgettable experience on and off the field during the events. Once again, Grand Park and the City of Westfield have graciously hosted our national finals, and we look forward to working with them this month and in the future."

In 2017, the National Association of Sports Commissions confirmed US Club Soccer as host to two of the largest youth sports events in Indiana. The estimated monetary injection includes direct spending attributed to nearly 12,000 total hotel room nights, $550,000 in rental car expenses and $425,000 in food and beverage consumption, among others. By comparison, the National Softball Association Girls Fast Pitch 'B' World Series produced $2.1 million in direct economic impact for the state in 2016.

"We are thrilled to welcome US Club Soccer back to our home for the second time in three years," says Andy Cook, Mayor of Westfield. "Hosting these tournaments provides a unique opportunity to raise awareness of our city to a coast-to-coast audience and significantly help our economy prosper at the local level."

All National Cup XVI Finals and NPL Finals matches will take place at Grand Park, which is suited well for a national championship setting. It has 31 soccer fields, 26 baseball/softball diamonds and a pair of indoor facilities spanning more than 400 acres. US Club Soccer hosted the 2015 NPL Finals and National Cup XIV Finals at Grand Park two summers ago.

'More Light' at Conner Prairie

The REPORTER

The latest creation in a growing museum theater collaboration between Conner Prairie and an Indianapolis youth theater organization begins a five-day run July 27.

"More Light: Douglass Returns" is a full-length play written by Indiana playwright Celeste Williams and inspired by the historic return to Indiana by prominent American abolitionist, writer and speaker Frederick Douglass.

The play came about after Williams, a former Indianapolis Star journalist, wrote a non-fiction piece in 2014 about Frederick Douglass for an area arts journal. That article recounted an appearance by Douglass in Pendleton, in 1843, when he was severely beaten as he attempted to give a speech against slavery. That incident of violence contrasted with the reception Douglass received in 1880 — some 37 years later — at a political rally in Noblesville.

"By then, the Civil War had been fought. Douglass gained his freedom and became one of the most famous orators of his time," Williams said. "Race relations in the 19th century were still fraught with problems but by the time Douglass returned to Indiana for a speech in 1880, he was welcomed with enthusiastic crowds of people who lauded his position as a statesman."

"More Light: Douglass Returns" is a Main Street Production in association with the Roberts Settlement and is directed by Cheryl Fesmire, a historical interpreter at the Indiana Historical Society. The play is supported by the Christel DeHaan Family Foundation and is part of the Giving Voice Initiative, which focuses on the African-American presence in Indiana history.

Performances are 7 p.m. on July 27, 3 p.m. on July 29, 7 p.m. on July 30, 3 p.m. on Aug. 5 and 7 p.m. on Aug. 6. All performances are in Lilly Theater inside the Welcome Center at Conner Prairie, located at 13400 Allisonville Road in Fishers.

Tickets are $5 and can be purchased the night of show, in advance online at www.connerprairie.org or by calling (317) 776-6000.

Asante Children's Theatre educates, challenges and inspires young artists ages 6 and Understanding our president, Donald J. Trump

Dear Editor:

Our president, Donald Trump, reminds me of the men of the 1950's. These men who just returned from WWII were tough, not afraid of hard work and commanded respect, discipline and no nonsense. They were not afraid to speak their minds, the opposite of being politically correct. These men became fathers and raised functional families. They moved back into the communities and became the future principals, teachers, public servants, doctors, construction workers, farmers, community leaders and more. They were everywhere in the lives of children who looked up to them for discipline and leadership.

Our president is tall and has broad shoulders, shoulders that are carrying a very heavy load of trying to sew back our divided country, set the record straight to other countries that we won't take any nonsense from them and the load of bringing back the middle class which is the pillar class holding up our country.

During the 2016 Presidential Campaign from the primaries to the final two contenders, President Trump shared information that was not commonly known to the average American such as other countries not paying their fair share of promised debts and the recent Paris Climate Change Agreement. Just these two examples show billions of dollars being sucked away from our middle class.

Even though our president is a Billionaire, he does understand the needs of the hardworking American and their families. He is trying to bring back our country to what it was during the 1950's where our country hummed with jobs and growing families. The United States was respected worldwide at that time and we need to get back there again.

Thanks for keeping our 'Hawk' in the air

Dear Editor:

Both personally and on behalf of 4th Hawk and The Reporter, I extend deep gratitude to all the great people in Cicero, Jackson Township and the Lights Over Morse Lake crew who made the 4th one of those rare versions of hard work that was also great fun.

If you were in Cicero for Lights Over Morse Lake on the 4th of July, you may have noticed an aerial photography drone flying around. There was more than one, but the one I am talking about is named Hawkeye 1 and it belongs to my company, 4th Hawk Consulting.

4th Hawk does a good deal of work with The Hamilton County Reporter. Recently that evolved to include aerial photography and video.

When preparing to film the fireworks show, Rusty and Chris Miller were absolutely vital in bringing this project together. Without their help in establishing contacts and making arrangements, this would have been a logistical nightmare.

Cicero Fire Department Chief Lance Overholser and Jackson Township Fire Department Chief Jeff Muszar were great to work with. Cicero Fire Department Assistant Chief Steve Smith did a wonderful job of making sure Hawkeye 1 stayed safe in the air. Cicero Police Major Jim Hunter was kind enough to meet well before the 4th and to set aside a launch pad for us that was in the perfect location.

Oh yes, and Jerrald Hawkins' work mowing "USA" into the hill overlooking the fireworks show made for a popular image in The Reporter's daily edition. Well done, sir!

Those of you (over 16,000 at last count) who have watched, shared, liked and commented on the video on The Reporter's Facebook page deserve thanks as well. It is a bit of an ego boost to see our work enjoyed by so many.

Keep watching the skies; there will be more Hawk's Eye Views of Hamilton County coming to The Reporter.

Enchanted Forest Swim Meet wraps up...

Seven victories for FAST, Viper’s Verbrugge a double winner

The Noblesville Swim Club's Enchanted Forest Meet finished up Sunday at the Forest Park Aquatic Center.

Among the Hamilton County clubs participating, the Fishers Area Swimming Tigers had the most victories on Sunday, with five swimmers taking home seven first-place ribbons. That included two wins for two 13-14 swimmers: Madelyn Christman won the girls 100 butterfly and 200 backstroke, while Jackson Carlile was first in the boys 200 individual medley and 200 backstroke.

Other FAST first-place swimmers were Tommy Mybeck in the boys 8 and under 50 butterfly, Molly Robinson in the girls 11-12 50 breaststroke and Nicole Rueff in the girls open 100 butterfly.

The Southeastern Swim Club picked up a pair of victories. Rachel Ang won the girls 9-10 50 breaststroke, and Blake Ratliff finished first in the boys open 200 backstroke.

Westfield-based Viper Aquatics' Erin Verbrugge was a double winner, taking the girls open 200 IM and 100 freestyle.

Here's a complete list of top 20 finishers.

Fishers’ Morgan Lewis wins Southern Junior Masters

It's been a big week for Fishers' Morgan Lewis.

Earlier this week, the Tigers senior-to-be committed to continue her golf career at Ball State University. On Tuesday, Lewis followed that up by winning the Indiana Golf Foundation's Southern Junior Masters, which took place at Sultan's Run Golf Course in Jasper.

Lewis finished with a two-day, 36-hole score of 154, making one birdie each on both days. Next in line was Margaret Wentz, a senior-to-be at Westfield, who was the runner-up with a 156. Wentz totaled three birdies for her two rounds.

Lewis

Fishers had three more girls in the Top 10. Kennedy Brooker placed fifth and Sophia Alexander tied for sixth; both will be Tiger seniors in a few weeks. Brooker had two birdies for the tournament. Sydney Hruskoci, a Fishers resident who will be a senior at Cathedral, also was part of the tie for sixth place. She had seven birdies over the two-day event.

In the boys competition, Carmel junior-to-be Cole Harris tied for sixth, with four birdies over the tournament. Fishers junior-to-be Daivic Akala tied for eighth; he had three birdies and made an eagle on hole No. 9 in his second round. Incoming Carmel freshman Shoji Fujita also tied for eighth, making four birdies.

Elliott expects stage racing to shuffle NASCAR deck at Brickyard

The Brantley Gilbert Big Machine Brickyard 400 is one of the biggest races in the Monster Energy NASCAR Cup Series, as every driver covets the chance to kiss the Yard of Bricks as the race winner.

This prestigious race takes place on one of the biggest tracks in the sport, the 2.5-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Only the 2.66-mile Talladega Superspeedway is longer among ovals on the Cup schedule.

And the way Hendrick Motorsports rising star Chase Elliott sees it, the new stage racing format introduced this year into the Cup Series will create even bigger opportunities for teams and drivers to gamble on different strategies at IMS than shorter tracks.

This year's 160-lap race will be divided into three stages. Stage 1 takes place from the green flag through Lap 50. Stage 2 is set for Laps 51-100, with Stage 3 unfolding from Lap 101 until the checkered flag.

"When you have a scheduled caution, that opens up so many ways to play strategy," Elliott said. "I think guys are starting to see that. Guys that have seen it, and they're starting to play with how they can maximize that and make the most of their day."

"The big tracks like here, when you can come down pit road and you're close enough to the leader or you are the leader that you won't go a lap down on pit road, that's huge. To me, the strategy play becomes massive. There are risks you take with that, but I think it puts on a good show and mixes up the field."

Elliott, 21, from Dawsonville, Georgia, visited IMS and Indianapolis on Thursday, July 6 to promote the Brantley Gilbert Big Machine Brickyard 400 on Sunday, July 23. He took a helicopter tour of the city, threw axes at logs at Bad Axe Throwing in downtown Indianapolis, met with local media, raced a kart against IMS President Doug Boles and met and chatted with young USAC .25 competitors racing July 5-9 at the Battle of the Brickyard at IMS.

IMS has been a special place for Elliott since Aug. 4, 2002, when he was just 6 years old. That day his father, NASCAR legend Bill Elliott, pulled off a stunning, dominant win toward the end of his NASCAR Hall of Fame career by capturing the Brickyard 400. Young Chase was at IMS that day, standing on the Yard of Bricks in a race team shirt for photos with his mother and father and the race trophy.

"I feel like that was one of the biggest victories of his career and one of the only ones I was around for as far as really big victories," Chase Elliott said. "It was very cool to be here and be a part of that in a small way, be in the pictures, at least. We have talked about it, and it's always a special place because of that."

IMS also is special because it's one of the trickiest balancing acts between power and handling in NASCAR. The front and back straightaways require horsepower to cover their respective 5/8ths of a mile as quickly as possible. But a good-handling car is required to navigate the four turns, banked at a relatively flat nine degrees.

"Finding that middle road is important here," Elliott said. "Power is key, also aero balance in the car and long straightaways, making sure the car is not too draggy. You want to maximize that. On the same front, if you don't get through the corner well, the straightaway is never going to be good."

"It's a fine line, for sure."

Elliott also continues to learn about the razor-thin line between winning and finishing second in the ultra-competitive Cup Series. He has 11 top-10 finishes in 18 starts this season in the No. 24 NAPA Auto Parts Chevrolet, second only to Martin Truex Jr. in that department.

But Elliott is still searching for his first win and arguably tops the list of NASCAR's most eligible first-time winners.

If that victory came at the Brickyard, Elliott and his father would form the first father-son duo to win this race. Hendrick teammate Dale Earnhardt Jr. also has that chance this year in his final start at IMS, as Dale Earnhardt won in 1995 at IMS.

"We've had some good weeks and bad weeks and everything in between," Elliott said of his 2017 performance. "We just haven't had a fantastic week yet. That's obviously the goal. We'll keep after it."

"This has been a fun place to come to, and it will always be special."

The Brantley Gilbert Big Machine Brickyard 400 will start at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, July 23, featuring all of the stars of the Monster Energy NASCAR Cup Series.
