By FRED SWIFT

Ten nonprofit organizations in Hamilton County will share nearly two million dollars in public funds next year. The County Council has approved the grants and County Commissioners will approve Monday when they meet in regular session.

Funds are disbursed annually to organizations that provide services to the public. The money is granted in the belief that most of these services would have to be directly provided by local government were it not for the organizations that take on the tasks. The money is included in the 2018 county budget.

The largest grants will go to Janus Developmental Services, $725,000, and the Janus Hamilton County Express bus service, $431,601. Next largest amount goes to Primelife Enrichment, $240,000.

Prevail will receive $180,000, the Hamilton County Economic Development Corporation, $175,000, Hamilton County Humane Society, $111,337, The Cherish Center and Chaucie's

Leaf pickup underway in Noblesville

The REPORTER

The Noblesville Street Department is in the process of their annual leaf pickup program, which will continue weekly until Friday, Dec. 15. There are two methods that residents may use to dispose of leaves:

1. Placing leaves in free, biodegradable bags; and
2. Raking loose leaves to the grass area next to the curb.

The bagged leaf method is the quickest method of pickup since bagged leaves are picked up weekly. There can be a waiting period of up to three weeks between loose leaf pickups because street crews make a continuous circuit of the city with the leaf vacuums and street sweepers.

Police badge found during OWI investigation

The REPORTER

An investigation by the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office resulted in the arrest of an individual carrying a police badge for operating while intoxicated. The incident occurred shortly before 1:30 a.m. on Thursday, Oct. 19 in the area of Cumberland Road and 96th Street in southern Hamilton County.

According to a Sheriff's Office report, a deputy patrolling on 96th Street stopped to check on a gray Honda Pilot along the side of the road. The female occupant in the driver's seat appeared to be asleep with a seat belt on as the deputy also noticed what appeared to be vomit on her shirt. Concerned for the woman's welfare, the deputy made contact with the occupant and noticed an odor of an alcoholic beverage coming from her as they spoke. She agreed to field sobriety tests and was taken for a certified breath test that showed a breath alcohol

During the course of the investigation, a Lawrence Police

The incident has been turned over to the Hamilton County

Prosecutor's Office for a final determination of charges. Requests for any further information in the case should be directed to that office.

Organization representatives expressed appreciation to county officials for the money which in most cases is seen as essential to continuing the current level of services. County officials have said they are pleased that the county's healthy financial condition allows such disbursements.

In their meeting Monday, commissioners are also expected to consider hiring a county public relations officer. Creation of that position was announced earlier and will be done on a contractual basis. Commissioners will also likely approve two bridge projects on Strawtown Avenue. The White River bridge west of Strawtown will be replaced and a smaller structure over Dyer Creek east of Strawtown will be replaced. Work will likely be done next year.

Likely in a November meeting, commissioners will receive a recommendation from the County Emergency Management Board on hiring a new director for the agency. The commissioners' Executive Director Dan Stevens said there are 13 applicants being considered for the position which is currently vacant. Carl Erickson is acting director.

Fall leaf pickup in Noblesville will continue weekly until Friday, Dec. 15.

Bagged leaves will be picked up on the same day as residents' regular trash day but not necessarily the same time, since leaves are collected by the street department and not Republic Services. Please make sure that leaves are only bagged in biodegradable or compost bags and are placed separately from trash containers. Residents may set out as many biodegradable bags as necessary. Bags with grass clippings and other debris will not be collected and should be discarded in trash containers.

Biodegradable bags are available free of charge to Noblesville residents at all Noblesville fire stations, City Hall (16 S. 10th St.), Noblesville Street Department (1575 Pleasant St.) and the Hamilton County Household Hazardous Waste Center (1717 Pleasant St.).

"If residents choose to rake their loose leaves, they must be collected as close to the edge of the street as possible without placing leaves in the street and obstructing the roadway," Noblesville Street Commissioner Patty Johnson said. "Loose leaves with brush, grass, litter, and/or other debris will not be picked up, as this will damage equipment. Both bagged and loose leaves are recycled into compost."

Leaf pickups will only be in front of a resident's house until Dec. 15. After that date, if residents have bagged or loose leaves for pickup, they will need to contact the street department and provide their address. The street department will continue to pick up leaves after this date as weather permits. Residents are strongly encouraged to bag their leaves after Dec. 15 because loose leaves run the risk of freezing, which then makes them unable to be picked up by the leaf machines.

For more information about the leaf program, contact the Street Department at (317) 776-6348 or view the educational video at youtu.be/mUDZXf-d\_gM.

Rails, trails and rail banking

Persistence often pays off in any political battle and the people with the Save the Train movement would get an "A" grade from me for their persistence. However, in this case, it is my view their persistence will not pay off in the end.

At Monday night's City Council meeting, a group of about 10 Save the Train supporters sat in the council meeting holding "Save the Train" signs. There was nothing on the council agenda that related to the rails vs. trails issue, they just wanted the mayor and council members to see they were there.

If you are not familiar with the issue, Fishers is planning to convert the Nickel Plate rail line within the city to a trail and Noblesville plans to convert the train tracks from downtown south to Fishers into a trail.

The Save the Train group has been pushing to keep the Nickel Plate Line a train track. Most are familiar with the Nickel Plate as the rail line used in the State Fair train from Fishers to the Indiana State Fairgrounds for many years. It was also used for other excursions, such as the Polar Express.

In order to convert the rail line to a trail, there is a process called Rail Banking that must be completed through a federal regulatory process. One agency that is part of the Rail Banking process is the Surface Transportation Board. Save the Train has been urging its supporters to send comments to the Surface Transportation Board asking that the rail line be preserved. The group is also asking its supporters to send messages to their federal elected officials to preserve the rail line.

LarryInFishers

In a recent statement, Save the Train pointed to an extension of the Surface Transportation Board comment period and emphasized that 73 comments had been submitted supporting the rails.

It is fair to say there is a well-organized and very loud opposition to converting this rail line to a walking and biking trail. You see their signs around Fishers and you couldn't miss them at the Fishers City Council.

I continue to admire the work done by Save the Train. It is democracy in action and it is good to see people with strong feelings about an issue organize for what they think is right.

However, having said all that, I do not believe Save the Train has much of a chance succeeding here. Save the Train emphasizes that the rails to trails plan for the Nickel Plate is not a done deal. That is technically correct, the regulatory process does continue.

Those supporting the conversion of the Nickel Plate Rail Line to a trail have been working hard as well, but have not been doing their work publicly. I have it on good authority that local officials have been in touch with Indiana's congressional delegation pushing for the trail project.

Here is one fact that must be emphasized in all this – the Nickel Plate Rail Line is owned by three government entities – Fishers, Noblesville and Hamilton County. Elected officials made the decision to convert the rail line to a trail. If you own the track and want to Rail Bank and convert the rail line to a trail, any federal body, including the Surface Transportation Board, will give the owners a great deal of weight in this debate.

That leads me to believe federal regulators will not stop the effort by local government officials to construct the Nickel Plate Trail. The rail supporters are doing all they can, but it does not look good for their cause.

Save the Train is doing what it can to get its view known by the feds, but they are fighting an uphill battle. I'm not saying Save the Train will lose. I am saying they are not likely to win.

State Workers' Comp rates reduced

The REPORTER

On Friday, Oct. 13, Indiana Department of Insurance Commissioner Stephen W. Robertson approved an average 12.8 percent reduction for Workers' Compensation rates to be effective Jan. 1, 2018. The approved rate decrease will result in savings of approximately $102 million dollars for Indiana businesses.

"The significant savings will help support Indiana businesses and encourage continued job growth for Hoosiers," said Indiana Department of Insurance Commissioner Stephen W. Robertson.

Workers' Compensation rates in Indiana have been on a downward trend for the last five years. This decrease in rates can be attributed to a drop in frequency of worker injuries due to an increased emphasis on safety in the workplace and better case management when injuries do occur. The robust job market also plays a key role as payrolls increase and the economy grows, creating a larger base for collecting premiums.

Indiana Workers' Compensation rates consistently rank second lowest in the United States, according to the Oregon Workers' Compensation Premium Rate Ranking report. The Information Technology and Research Section in the Oregon Department of Consumer and Business Services has examined state rates on a biennial basis since 1986.

"We are proud that Indiana continues to produce some of the lowest Workers' Compensation rates in the nation. With overall rates decreasing in 2018, Indiana intensifies its tradition of offering employers a welcoming and responsive business environment," said Robertson.

Workers' compensation insurance covers medical costs associated with workplace injuries and provides wage replacement benefits to injured workers for lost work time.

Hamilton Heights to cut ribbon on new construction

The REPORTER

The greater Northern Hamilton County community is invited to attend a special Open House and Ribbon Cutting ceremony at 5 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 26 at Hamilton Heights High School.

Hamilton Heights High School students, faculty, staff, board members and project professionals are excited to share in the completion of construction projects transforming the business, agricultural, engineering, band and choir areas into 21st century learning environments.

The celebration will begin with a ribbon cutting ceremony led by the Northern Hamilton County Chamber of Commerce followed by student-guided tours to showcase the newly renovated areas.

This open house offers district families and members of the community the opportunity for an up-close and personal view of the latest upgrades designed to enhance the learning environment by creating more effective, usable and aesthetic spaces.

“We are very excited to share these newly renovated areas with parents, local businesses, and organizations,” said Jarrod Mason, Principal, Hamilton Heights High School, who will be serving as the Master of Ceremonies. “I think the updates on the first and second floors are impressive and something worth taking the time to see. We think our entire commu-

The Brooke's Place Legacy of Hope breakfast is an annual fundraiser that coincides with National Children's Grief Awareness Day. Occurring yearly on the third Thursday in November, National Children's Grief Awareness Day spotlights children's grief and honors grieving families during the often difficult holiday season. Noel accepted a scholarship to attend DePauw University with a double major in music and psychology. While attending college in the Indianapolis area, Noel became a volunteer facilitator at Brooke's Place. It was during her time at Brooke's Place that she began to fully comprehend the amount of healing and grief work that she needed herself. She credits her volunteer experiences at Brooke's Place as the reason that she was able to return to Littleton and Columbine High School where she works as a school counselor.

Brooke's Place has been providing grief support services since 1999. Brooke's Place provides support groups, therapy services and community education to empower children, teens, young adults and their families to help them thrive in the midst of grief. Since its inception, Brooke's Place has provided services to more than 9,000 individuals. For more information, please visit the website brookesplace.org.

Small groups get big results at Carmel Clay Parks & Recreation

The REPORTER

Join small group training at Carmel Clay Parks & Recreation (CCPR) and see big results. Beyond the increased personal attention, small group training has other benefits that set it apart from working out on your own. Small group training participants reportedly lose more weight and save money.

"All of our small group training classes are taught by certified personal trainers, so it's a way to get smarter while getting stronger," said Ryan Mosley, personal trainer at the Monon Community Center. "It's a chance to meet new people who have similar interests, plus it is fun improving your quality of life in a group setting."

Small group training programs have a minimum of four and a maximum of eight participants. The small class sizes allow more personal attention for each participant while facilitating a camaraderie amongst the group.

Kim Decker has taken several small group training classes at the Monon Community Center including TRX. She said it helped her build confidence and work at her own pace.

"The instructors are like your own personal cheerleaders," Decker said. "No matter what level you're at or if you have an injury, they can create a work around. Because the class is so small they are able to show you how to do the move and then physically help you try it out."

CCPR offers a variety of small group training opportunities for the community. Now through December programs include Kettlebell Power & Core, TRX Training and Small Group Personal Training.

• Kettlebell Power & Core: Power up your strength with this workout that uses iron-cast kettlebell weights.

Experience whole-body movements that will build lean muscle tissue and increase your flexibility and cardio strength.

• TRX Training: Get a full-body workout in a non-impact format. This one-hour, suspension-based format will work every major muscle group. Suspension straps allow you to choose the intensity level of your workout, so all levels are welcome.

• Small Group Personal Training: Work together in a small group with a certified Personal Trainer. Workouts are designed to help everyone get the best results. To learn more or to sign up for small group personal training, email personaltrainers@carmelclayparks.com.

To register for any of these small group training opportunities, visit carmelclayparks.com. Keep an eye out for more small group training opportunities during the winter/spring season.

Clowns have twisted into menacing icons, says professor

The REPORTER

The simple sight of a clown is scary to many people. Originally created with the innocent intent of entertaining children, the image of clowns has been twisted into that of perverted icons, says Adam Lueke, a psychological science instructor at Ball State University.

"First of all, they are not supposed to be scary. Their purpose is actually quite innocent," says Lueke. "But fear of clowns has become so common, it even has a name: coulrophobia."

"We know to be scared of snakes and spiders and heights because danger is built right into them, and that danger is predictable," he says. "When the innocent becomes dangerous, that essentially turns the world upside down, giving the sense that nothing in this world is safe because it is unpredictable."

Popular culture has profited from people's fear of clowns. The remake of Stephen King's "It" recently was a major hit at the box office. The film's star is an evil clown named Pennywise who terrorizes children. A red balloon is his calling card, which Pennywise uses to attract his young victims.

In 2016, America was seemingly overrun by reports of "scary clowns" — pranksters who were spotted spooking people from coast to coast. Now, thanks to Pennywise, these same pranksters may be preparing to haunt America's streets this Halloween season, Lueke cautions.

"Every year people are out to scare others," he says. "Clowns are one way to accomplish that."

Volleyball

Millers preparing for regional

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

On Saturday, the Noblesville volleyball team will do something it has waited a long time to do: Play in a regional.

The Millers broke a 15-year drought by winning their own sectional last weekend. Their reward was a nice trophy, and a chance to play in the Muncie Central regional, which is arguably the toughest of the four regional sites in Indiana.

How tough? Go by the rankings. Indiana volleyball teams are using the MaxPreps computer rankings this season, and all four of the teams playing at the Muncie Fieldhouse are rated in the top 15. Noblesville is 13th and opens the day at 10 a.m. by playing No. 10 Fort Wayne Carroll. Following that is a match between No. 1 Yorktown and No. 4 Zionsville. The championship is set for 7 p.m.

While the Millers may be the underdog in Muncie, winning their own sectional proved that they can play with the big schools.

"I think that we need to realize that we're there for a reason," said senior libero Brenna Everingham. "We've worked hard and we have talent. We just really need to play with confidence and not feel like we're the odd man out."

The Chargers' top hitters are experienced: Senior Arianna Bolinger has hit 364 kills, with junior Jordan Martin putting down 276 kills. Another senior, Makaela Lochmueller has 229 kills for the season.

Bolinger has served 71 aces, with Lochmueller making 84 blocks for the season. On defense, senior Ellee Ruskaup has collected 403 digs. Carroll's setter is a freshman, Taya Haffner, and she has dished out 1003 assists for the year.

Noblesville has quite a few solid players as well. Sophomore Lexi Almodovar has spiked 508 kills for the season, with seniors Alexa Roberts and Emily

A celebration 15 years in the making: The Noblesville volleyball team reacts after winning match point to claim their own sectional last weekend at The Mill. The Millers will play in the Muncie Central regional this Saturday, taking on Fort Wayne Carroll in the first semi-final at 10 a.m.

Kiser hitting 249 and 207 kills respectively.

"Being outside, you get bad balls, you get good balls," said Roberts on her role as an outside hitter. Roberts noted that there are several pieces of information a hitter has to process when she's going up for a ball: 1) Know your shots, 2) Know what's open, 3) Listen to your teammates behind you - "it's a lot going through your head," said Roberts.

"When I go up, I think I'm going to get this kill, whether it's a shot or whether it's a hard ball driven to the ground, and I have to do it for my teammates," said Roberts.

Kiser has been a force at the net, with 70 blocks. Seniors Grace Harris and Lexie Bowler have 48 and 38 blocks respectively. Kiser said when it comes to blocking, Noblesville coach Steve Hawthorne gives his team an easy job description.

"He wants us to terminate the ball," said Kiser. "He's pretty much saying 'Make it hit the ground.' That's pretty much my mindset. Or at least slow down the ball to help out my teammates."

As for serving, Almodovar leads that category too, with 49 aces. Senior Stephanie Meysembourg is right behind with 48 aces, and Everingham has served up 47.

Everingham has 548 digs to her credit, with Almodovar collecting 329 for the season. Senior Maddie Hine has handed out 951 assists.

Noblesville's last appearance at a volleyball regional was at Center Grove back on Nov. 2, 2002. That season was the first for rally scoring in the IHSAA after years of "side-out" scoring. In that format, teams played best two out of three sets to 15 points, but only the team that was serving could score.

Teams played to 21 points in the first season of rally scoring, but they had to win the set by two points. The Millers defeated Center Grove 20-22, 21-18, 21-18, 23-21 in their semi-final, then lost to Cathedral 21-9, 21-12, 21-15 in the championship.

Noblesville's Maddie Hine (7) and Lexie Bowler (23) go up to make a block.

Arrive early to avoid Ball State Homecoming Parade traffic

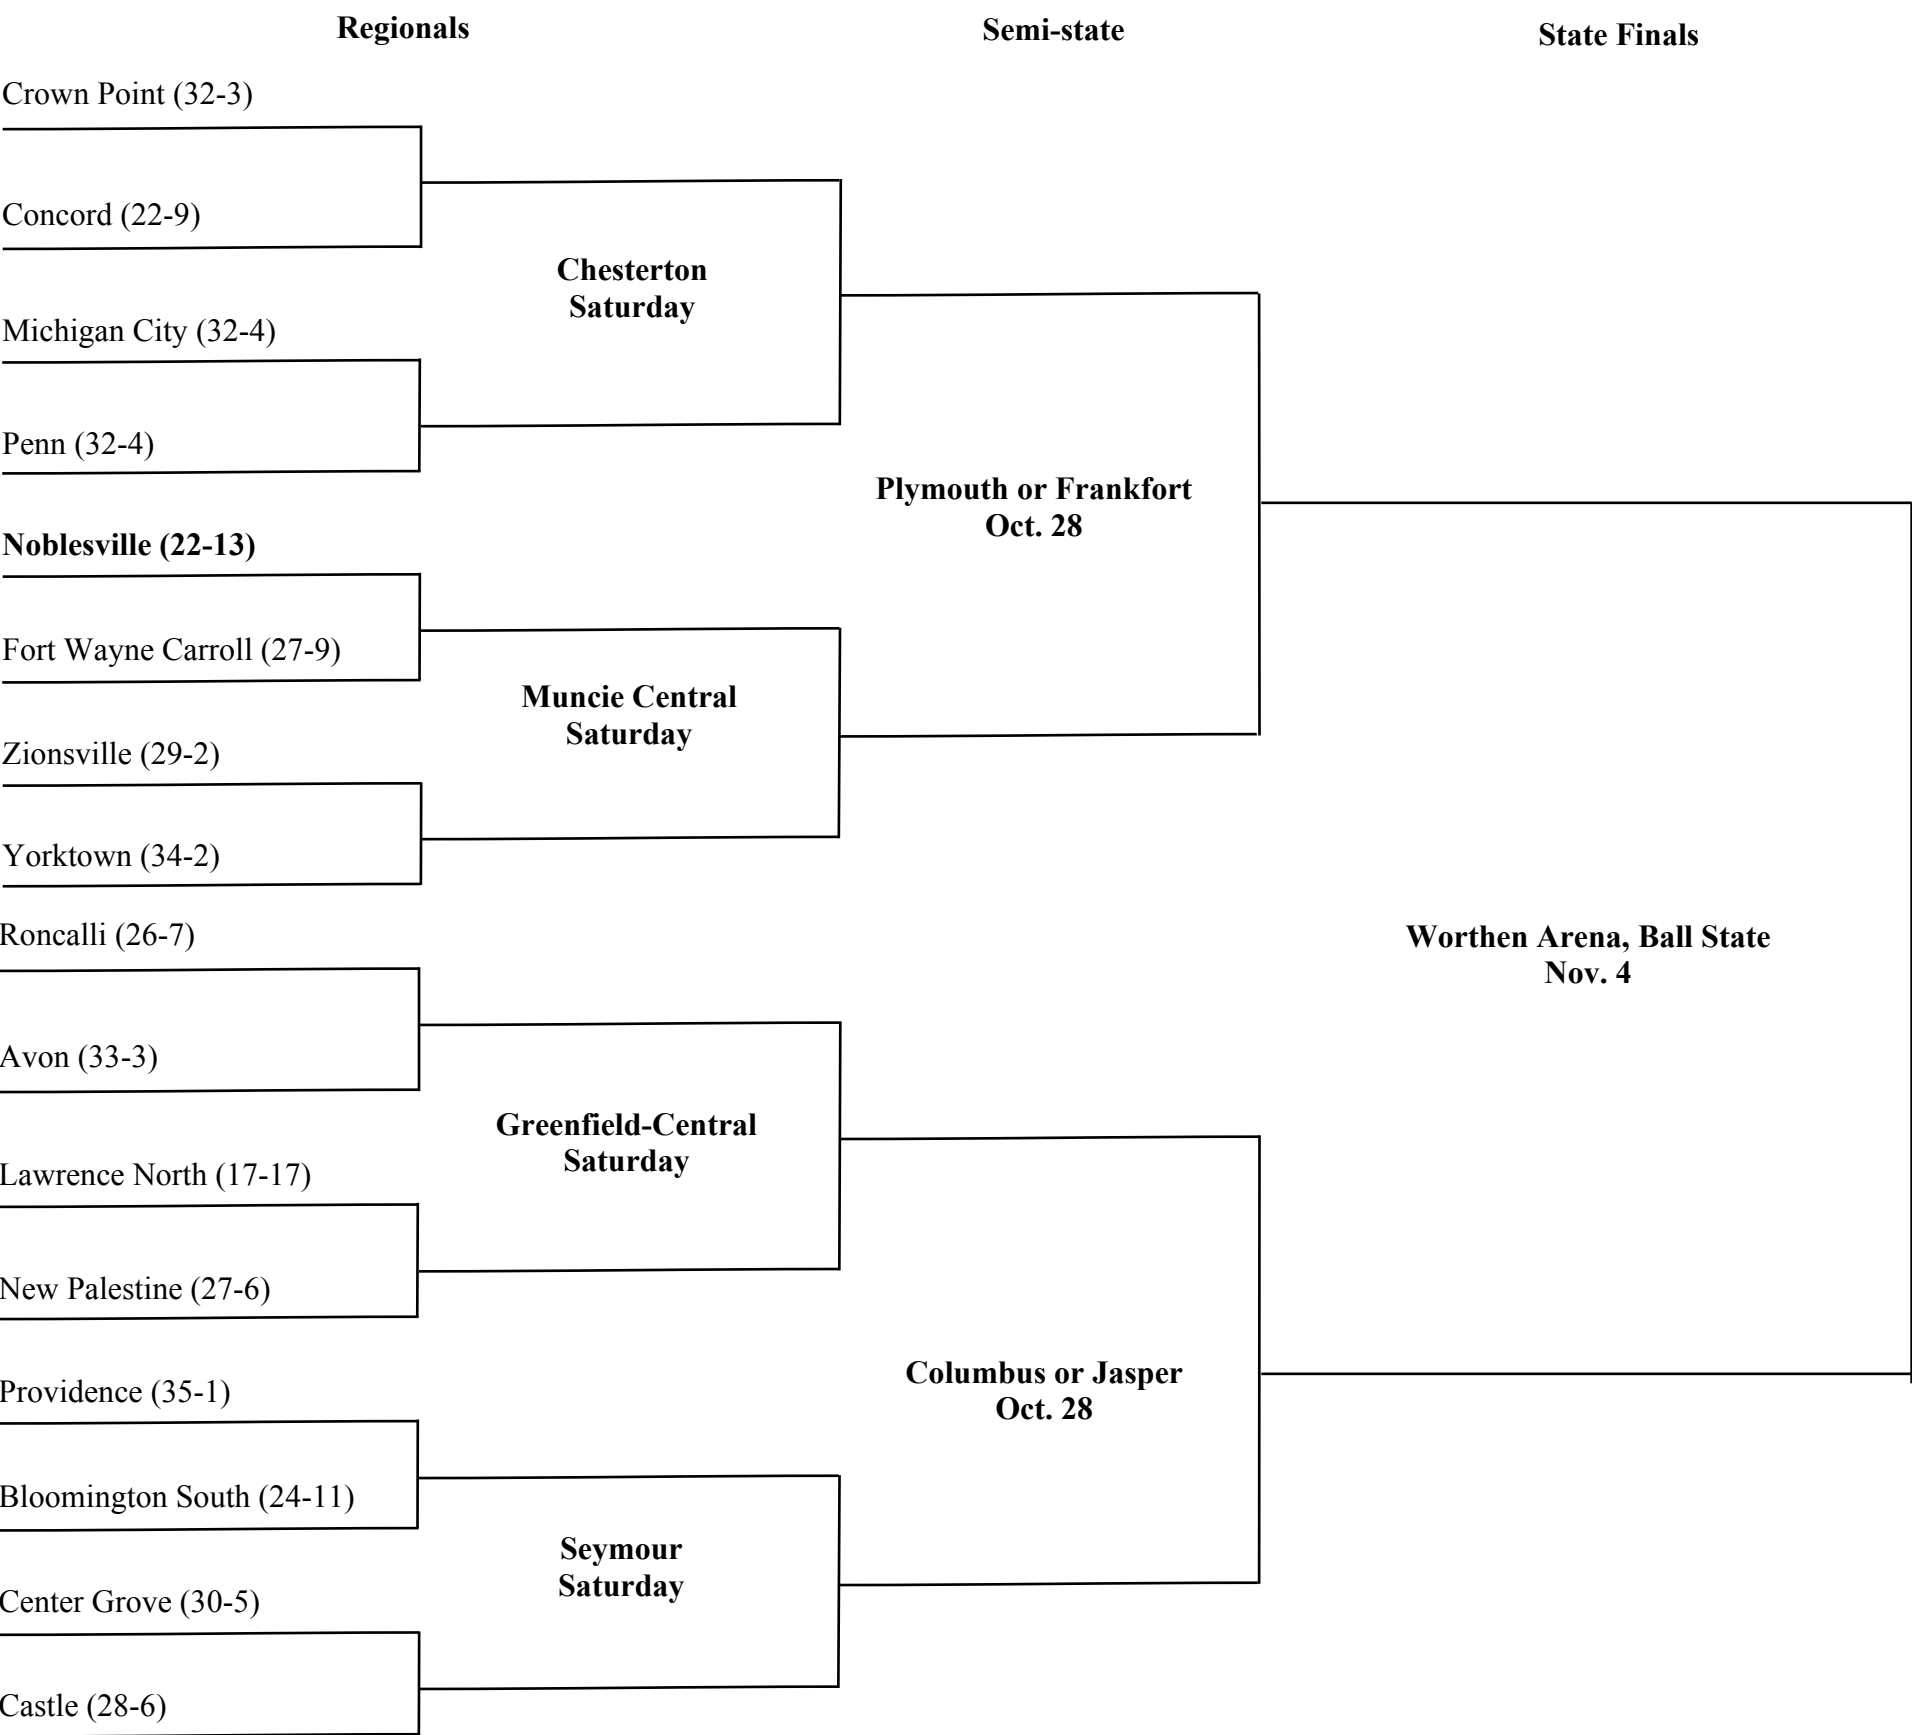

Miller volleyball fans will need to get to Muncie Central early to cheer Noblesville on at the regional Saturday morning.

The Ball State Homecoming Parade will be leaving the north parking lot of the school at 10 a.m. Volleyball spectators should park in the lots right next to the Muncie Central Fieldhouse. Arrive before 10 a.m.; anyone who arrives late will have to wait until the parade clears the parking lot, which could take around an hour.

Fans should enter Muncie on State Road 332 (McGalliard Road), which can be accessed from Interstate 69 at Exit 241. Go east on McGalliard to Walnut Street, then turn right and travel down to the Fieldhouse, which is just south of the high school. Do not go through downtown, as the parade will be going through there. Also, do not use Wheeling Avenue to access the Fieldhouse, as it is closed.

Noblesville, Guerin Catholic girls playing in Saturday semi-states

No matter how you quantify it - rankings or records - the four teams playing in the IHSAA's girls soccer Class 3A semi-states on Saturday are among the best in the country.

The north semi-state will feature No. 5 Noblesville and No. 1 Penn facing off at Kokomo Municipal stadium, while No. 4 Guerin Catholic and No. 13 Columbus North play for the south semi-state at Lawrenceburg High School. Both games begin at 3 p.m.

The Millers and the Kingsmen will be playing in the semi-state for the second year in a row. Penn beat Noblesville 1-0 in the semi-finals last season, when the semi-state was a four-team event.

This season, the Millers hosted the Kingsmen back on Sept. 23, with Penn winning 2-1. It's only one of two losses for Noblesville this season; the Millers are 14-2-3 overall.

The Kingsmen are 21-0-1, with the only tie coming to No. 3 Carmel by the score of 1-1. The two teams played each other at the Zionsville Invitational on Sept. 2.

Penn breezed through its own sectional with wins over South Bend Riley 9-0, South Bend Adams 6-0 and La Porte 7-0, then won the South Bend Adams regional over Northridge 4-0 and No. 11 Munster 3-1.

Noblesville won the Hamilton Southeastern sectional by defeating Anderson 6-0 and the No. 7 Royals 3-2, then triumphed at the Logansport regional with wins over Fort Wayne Carroll 1-0 and Warsaw 2-1.

Carly Hudnall leads the Millers with eight goals scored, while Jenna Chatterton has found the back of the net six times. Fourteen different players have scored for Noblesville this season. Penn is led by senior Kristina Lynch, who has scored 44 goals.

The Golden Eagles are 15-1-1 for the season. Guerin's only loss was to No. 2 Brebeuf Jesuit early in the year, and it tied with No. 10 Zionsville 0-0. Senior Elle Vuotto is the Golden Eagles' leading scorer with 14 goals, while freshman Quincy McMahon has 11 goals.

Guerin Catholic won its own sectional by beating Westfield 3-0, then defeating Carmel in penalty kicks after a scoreless regulation and overtime. The Golden Eagles took the Zionsville regional championship with victories over Plainfield 6-0 and No. 12 East Central 3-0.

Columbus North is 14-3-2. The Bull Dogs won the Columbus East sectional by defeating Greenwood 4-1, No. 19 Center Grove 2-0 and the host Olympians 2-0. Columbus North then triumphed at the Bloomington South regional with 1-0 victories over Floyd Central and No. 20 Bloomington South. Junior Tanner Johnson leads the Bulldogs with 18 goals scored.
