When Hamilton County calls 911, only the best will do . . . ‘First’ first responders shine

Between 9 a.m. on Friday, May 25 – just before the first call came in about the active shooter at Noblesville West Middle School – until 5 p.m. that afternoon, Hamilton County 911 dispatchers handled 364 calls, of which the incident that has become a national news story was only one.

“While that incident was occurring, life in the rest of Hamilton County was still occurring as well,” Hamilton County Public Safety Communications Executive Director Michael Snowden told The Reporter. “We had two completed suicides, one attempted suicide, 27 traffic accidents, 18 suspicious circumstances, 11 traffic hazards, eight thefts – we were busy literally all day long. It is hard to say we were no longer busy because of the school incident at ‘X’ time, but we were really busy that entire day.”

Snowden had three employees call within minutes of the shooting to ask if they needed to come in to the dispatch center to help. He accepted the offer from those first three off-duty volunteers. As other calls came in with similar offers, he had to decline.

And so, the healing begins

“Never daunted, we cannot falter, in the battle, we’re tried and true.”

Noblesville High School students and graduates know those words as part of the school song.

From the Heart

After the events on Friday, May 25 at Noblesville West Middle School and Noblesville High School, they know what those words mean.

The big question last week was, “Where do we go from here?”

And so, the healing began.

We never thought a school shooting would happen in our community . . . but it did.

The schools had a plan and it was carried out well.

What happened then was amazing.

Our community responded over and over in unexpected ways.

Restaurants showed up with food, even days after the shooting. Individuals

Sheridan remembers Hobbs’ coaching era

The REPORTER

Most of the reunions held at the Sheridan Public Library in the Community Room are family or class related, but once in a while something unusual is encountered.

Last week was special because several of the Larry Hobbs basketball era (1948 to 1962) players gathered and celebrated another year of remembering their old coach and their (his) winning ways by having lunch and conversation at the library. A new twist this year was the addition of several of the cheerleaders from that era.

As can be seen from the pictures there are a lot of familiar names and faces of men and women who still reside in the community. There are also a few names long forgotten who have moved away but decided to come back for the get-together.

The guys have been getting together for a few years now, but this was the first year the cheerleaders were invited to join in the group. A grand time was had by all and old acquaintances were renewed.

One cannot help but wish Coach Hobbs was still here, but surely, looking down from basketball heaven, he must be smiling at his “boys” and their fine accomplishments in life. And the girls, too. Many of them spoke well of Coach Hobbs and how well he treated them as they worked hard to cheer on the many winning teams Coach Hobbs had during his tenure at Sheridan.

Sheriff’s Office encourages safe, responsible fireworks celebrations

The REPORTER

With summer fast approaching, more fireworks are being used throughout Hamilton County. Area residents are reminded that Indiana has several laws governing fireworks and many towns and cities have additional ordinances that citizens must follow.

In addition to laws, common courtesy when lighting fireworks goes a long way in avoiding neighborhood conflicts. Letting neighbors know your plans is a great idea or, better yet, why not invite your neighbors to join in the fun? Remember, not all your neighbors, especially those with young children, pets, or different work hours, enjoy the loud noises produced by fireworks. Be mindful of veterans and those who may have been involved in recent events at Noblesville West Middle School who may easily be startled by loud noises.

The basic rule of thumb for fireworks use by residents in unincorporated areas of Hamilton County is that fireworks may be ignited from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. on most nights with an extension on holidays, including Memorial Day. Fireworks may only be used on a person’s own property or on the property of a person who has given permission. Lighting fireworks in a street or in a parking lot is not permitted. Juveniles

Indiana Landmarks Foundation has presented Hamilton County with their award for 'Historic Preservation for Continued Use,' naming the Courthouse as a best example of preserving a public building. The Courthouse is 140 years old this year. In the architectural style of French Second Empire, the structure was restored in 1994 with many original features retained. County Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt accepted the award Thursday.

Duane Brenton will be the Libertarian Party candidate for county sheriff in this fall's general election. The Fishers resident will oppose Dennis Quakenbush, the Republican nominee. No Democrat has filed. Brenton will apparently be the only Libertarian on the county ballot.

96th Street, Keystone Parkway project soon underway in Carmel

The REPORTER

Major changes are coming to 96th Street and Keystone Parkway on Monday, June 4, as the long-awaited transformation of this busy intersection into a free-flowing, roundabout interchange kicks off. Construction crews will begin building the ramps that will serve the future interchange and motorists will notice new traffic restrictions.

Workers on heavy machinery will begin doing much of the work on the edges of Keystone Parkway, prompting the need to close lanes. Traffic will continue to flow through the construction zone, but there will only be two lanes of traffic in either direction, northbound and southbound. Motorists who usually travel on Keystone Parkway have the option of using U.S. 31 as a detour around this project.

Keystone Avenue will be elevated over 96th Street, and roundabout-controlled ramps similar to those along U.S. 31 interchanges along 106th and 116th streets.

Traffic on 96th Street will be moved to the south lanes, from Keystone to just east of Priority Way, with one lane open in each direction through the corridor. Work on the interchange is part of the City of Carmel’s 96th Street Corridor Improvement Project which is transforming traffic flow and improving access to businesses along this busy corridor from White River to Keystone Parkway. Two roundabouts are already under construction along 96th Street. Although 96th Street is shared by both the City of Carmel and the City of Indianapolis, state law requires that cities on the north side of such common roadways handle all matters of construction, reconstruction, improvements and maintenance. An estimated average of 85,000 vehicles use 96th Street and Keystone Parkway each day with traffic studies indicating that number will increase over the next 5-10 years. Work on the interchange was delayed due to issues regarding property acquisition and utility work. The cost of the corridor project is estimated to be approximately $43 million, with $8.5 million coming from federal exchange dollars administered through the Indiana Department of Transportation, $2 million from Hamilton County, $1.9 million in federal Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality improvement program funds and the rest from local County Option Income Tax bonds. Traffic lights at key intersections along 96th Street are being replaced with more efficient and safe roundabouts. Those intersections include:

- 96th Street and Hazel Dell Parkway
- 96th Street and Gray Road
- 96th Street and Dele-gates Row
- 96th Street and Priority Way

- 96th Street and Keystone Parkway

The Keystone Parkway portion of the project will include construction of a major new interchange with grade separation – Keystone will be elevated over 96th Street – with roundabout-controlled ramps similar to U.S. 31 interchanges at 106th and 116th Streets. After preliminary work this year, the interchange will be largely completed in 2019, including a project that will improve the intersection of 96th Street and Haverstick Road, just west of Keystone.

anonymously paid for whatever the restaurants did not cover. Our people wanted to let the students, teachers, bus drivers, school administration, school resource officers and first responders know that they are valued. Tri Kappa Sorority showed up on Tuesday morning at the bus barn with breakfast for the bus drivers. Post-it notes with encouraging words were placed on every locker in the schools. Mothers and dads and grandmothers and grandfathers showed up to chalk up the sidewalks outside the schools. T & T Sales and Promotions could barely keep up with the orders coming in to raise funds for Ella Whisler and Mr. Seaman. Other t-shirt fundraisers were the same. Everyone wants to help with healing. We are a community of helpers. I’ve always said that we are a close and caring community. This week proved exactly that. Teachers spoke on social media this week about the compassion and kindness of the students. There was a different atmosphere in the hallways. They say that if you want to see a change in the world then you need to be the change. Noblesville has begun the change. The focus has not been on the shooting. It has been about the healing. It has been about kindness and the generosity of the heart. As the school song is sung the words say, “Noblesville, we’re all for you.” And so both the healing and the change has begun.

Folks wishing to appeal may get further information from the County Assessor’s office. * * * Officials report no decision has yet be made on countywide financing of 911 communication costs. The issue arose early this year when county officials asked towns and townships in northern Hamilton County to help pay for the increasingly expensive costs of operating the vital communications center. At present the county along with Carmel, Noblesville, Fishers and Westfield pay the entire cost. Seven other units get calls answered and dispatched from the center at the county sheriff’s office. A meeting with the northern units was held last month, but no resolution was reached and no further meeting has been set. County officials want a decision for 2019 operations, budgeting for which is made this summer.

at that point between the people who were working, the administrative staff that came in and those off-duty folks, we had six or seven who called in that we turned away,” Snowden said. “We even had two people who no longer work for us who called and asked if we needed them to come in and help.”

The May 25 incident was only the second time since Snowden has been in charge of the dispatch center that they needed to work at full capacity. The room holds a total of 18 stations and there are some additional training stations available in an adjacent room.

When asked how his staff performed that day, the two words he used were “outstanding” and “stupendous.”

“I’ve been in this business 32 years,” Snowden said. “You never know how a person – or a group of people – is going to react to a bad situation until it happens. You can hope, plan and train, but you just don’t know. When that bad day happened to us, our staff performed very well. You could see the teamwork and the camaraderie in the room. We had people outside of our staff who walked into the room to see if we needed any help and every one of them remarked to me how calm it was in the room. That is a testament to the professionalism and the training of our folks.”

Training and preparation

That level of calm in the midst of a storm of chaos does not happen without a great deal of training and preparation. Hamilton County 911 dispatchers work 12-hour shifts and a portion of nearly every shift is spent on continued training and education. In the dispatch center they say, “Every day is a training day.”

“We do something nearly every day to account for training and it showed,” Snowden told The Reporter. “It absolutely showed that day and I am so proud of them.”

Local 911 dispatchers have had several active assailant trainings that are general. The “30,000-foot view” curriculum is meant to be nation-wide.

“We have had that training for quite a while now,” Snowden explained. “Then we get into Hamilton County specific training. Our staff has been invited to attend SWAT training at schools for a while now. We have had various members of our staff at schools observing and helping with that specific Hamilton County Training. Most recently a Fishers Police lieutenant and a Fishers firefighter put together a training for our staff that was extremely Hamilton County-centric.”

That Fishers-sponsored local training was delivered to 911 staff the day before and three days before the May 25 incident.

“About half our staff were trained on Tuesday and the rest on Thursday,” Snowden said. “The people that were working Friday morning had been trained on that newest information Thursday afternoon.”

When asked if the school shooting will change anything about how Hamilton County

911 operates moving forward, Snowden said it has to.

“We had an operational debriefing [Thursday, May 31] with our staff who were on duty Friday and the folks who came in to help,” Snowden said. “We got together yesterday and just talked about it from a departmental standpoint – from the perspective of what we can actually control, change and make better. We are constantly improving all our processes. This was another process that we need to learn from and improve.”

Mental health of 911 dispatchers

One of the things that has come to the forefront for public safety is mental health of first responders: Police officers, firefighters and paramedics. But is more recent that such a focus has been given to the dispatchers who first deal emergencies every day of their professional lives.

“People understand the mental health issues that can occur for our first responders,” Snowden said. “We have come a long way for recognizing that for dispatchers as well, but not publicly. Within our profession we have learned that mental health is an issue for dispatchers as well.”

Last year Hamilton County brought in an expert from out of state to help teach local dispatchers resilience and self-care.

“We do something nearly every day to account for training and it showed. It absolutely showed that day and I am so proud of them.”

– Michael Snowden

“The mental health and the resilience of our dispatchers is extremely important to us.”

– Michael Snowden

‘First first responders’

Professional organizations for public safety communications APCO [Association of Public-safety Communication Officials] and NENA [National Emergency Number Association] are using the term ‘first first responders’ because they are giving life-saving information and scene safety information before any first responder is ever there.

“It may not be one call that bothers you,” Snowden told The Reporter. “It may be after 5, 10 or 27 years of calls that the cumulative effect of the things that we deal with can really weigh on a person’s mind. Not every person and not on a cycle that you can say, but that does take its toll. We have really been looking at the resilience and mental health of our dispatchers for almost two years now.”

Critical Incident Stress Management (CISM) debriefers were in the building the afternoon of the shooting. They were able to talk with all but two dispatchers who were working that day.

“Before they even left, they sat down with the CISM debriefers,” Snowden said. “I was not privy to it, but they were able to just talk about whatever. The two who were not able to talk on Friday did talk to the debriefers on Saturday morning. They came back again Sunday and Thursday. They are peers. This is a police sergeant, a couple police officers and a psychologist who, of their own free will, stopped by to check on our folks and make sure they are OK. We are doing everything we can to ensure that our staff can process what happened that Friday.”

Mental health resources for local dispatchers doesn’t stop there. Cumulative effects of stress can show up at any time, and Snowden’s staff will have help whenever they need.

“It may be six months before someone says, ‘I’m really down and I think it was that call back in May that really triggered this,’” Snowden explained. “We will have the ability to refer them to someone or have those debriefers come back then because the mental health and the resilience of our dispatchers is extremely important to us.”

Unfortunately, for a long time, that level of support did not exist for dispatchers, in part because of the way they are classified by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL).

911 dispatcher classification

“The federal government still classifies emergency dispatchers as secretaries in the DOL,” Snowden said. “We have been fighting that for years. They are emergency personnel. When that first call arrived here there were no first responders on that scene. Very quickly there were, but when that first call came in, we were the first first responders.”

It doesn’t have to be a school shooting. For any medical, fire or law enforcement event your 911 dispatchers are immediately on the scene mentally, if not physically.

“The instant 911 is answered we are on that scene giving life-saving instructions, giving safety instructions or whatever is needed,” Snowden said. “To say ‘these are just like secretaries picking up the phone and sending police officers to the scene’ – that’s not the case. It is so technical and precise now that it is just a whole different world. We are trying to get the rest of the world to catch up to what these dispatchers do every day.”

The DOL does a study of every classification every 10 years. They recently did that study and 911 dispatchers came as close as they ever have to getting reclassified, but in the end the DOL decided to maintain the current secretarial classification instead of changing it to emergency services. There are implications regarding pay scale, pension, health insurance and other factors that would be impacted by a change in classification.

“I understand their reluctance, but I completely disagree with it,” Snowden told The Reporter. “These folks are emergency service workers just like every police officer, firefighter and paramedic.”

Million Meal Movement helps State Police feed those in need

The REPORTER

Indiana State Troopers are now better equipped to provide assistance when dealing with people in need. Million Meal Movement recently provided more than 300 meal packets to the state police that contain enough nutrients to feed a family of four. The packets will be made available to troopers throughout the state to carry in their patrol car.

In 2007, Dan and Nancy Hintz began Million Meal Movement with a two-fold vision: Feeding the hungry and teaching the importance of volunteerism. As Million Meal Movement has grown, it has carried out this vision by empowering volunteers of all ages as it makes a tangible impact together.

"We founded the organization because we said Nancy Hintz. To date, the movement has packaged more than 28,800,406 meals. To find

Duke Energy supports Shepherd’s Center

The REPORTER

Shepherd’s Center of Hamilton County (SCHC) recently received a grant from the Duke Energy Foundation for their new Reaching Resources program. The grant, totaling $9,975, will help the program’s goal of changing the way people age in Hamilton County.

Reaching Resources links older adults with community resources to help them age in place safely. This program was launched in 2017 with support from the Legacy Fund’s Community Leadership Initiative in Hamilton County. The Duke Energy Foundation’s support furthers the mission of the initiative. “We want to help our senior citizens age in place, prevent isolation and maintain their independence,” said Mark LaBarr, Duke Energy Indiana community relations manager for Hamilton County.

In AARP’s Long-Term

Services and Supports State Scorecard, Indiana is currently one of the worst places to age in the United States. Coming in 51st, only before Kentucky, Indiana needs community-based services and supports to improve how people age. Reaching Resources is the first county-wide program to address these needs of Hamilton County’s aging population.

“While Hamilton County has led the way as a thriving community focused on youth and families, we have an opportunity to lead the state in improving aging in our community,” says Lauren Guynn, Executive Director for SCHC.

To learn more about SCHC and the Reaching Resources program, please visit shepherdscenterof-hamiltoncounty.org. To find out more about the Duke Energy Foundation’s community support, please visit duke-energy.com/foundation.

Ivy Tech, Vincennes University announce new transfer partnership

The REPORTER

Ivy Tech Community College and Vincennes University are announcing a new partnership which will begin with the Fall 2018 semester. This collaboration will provide a seamless, cost-effective degree pathway for students in high-demand, high-value careers. It starts with students completing their first two years and earning an associate degree with Ivy Tech Community College, then culminates in earning a Vincennes University bachelor's degree in Homeland Security and Public Safety two years following (for full-time students). Students accepted by Vincennes into the program will transfer with junior status.

"This pilot agreement represents a new era of co-operation between Ivy Tech and Vincennes to meet the workforce needs of Indiana in high-demand areas such as cybersecurity, said Dr. Sue Ellspermann, president of Ivy Tech. "Students will benefit from this collaboration by having a seamless pathway of coursework that takes students from admission to Ivy Tech straight through to completion of the Vincennes baccalaureate degree without ever needing to leave the Indianapolis market."

"Students will benefit by making VU's highly-regarded bachelor's degree program in Homeland Security more accessible," added Vincennes president, Dr. Chuck Johnson. "Our faculty have worked together in recent months to articulate programs, giving Ivy Tech students a clear pathway to attaining their BS from VU. Through this additional joint effort, we will provide even more flexibility for students, bringing some of the coursework and support services to them.

Ivy Tech associate degrees that will transfer seamlessly into the Homeland Security and Public Safety program at Vincennes are:

- Criminal Justice
- Homeland Security/Public Safety
- Legal Studies
- Cybersecurity/Information Assurance
- Information Technology Support
- Informatics

Students in these program areas will have the opportunity to take a combination of face-to-face, synchronous video, hybrid and online courses for the Vincennes degree. Classroom and lab facilities at the Ivy Tech Indianapolis Lawrence campus will be utilized by Vincennes for instruction in the final two years of the program. Courses will initially be taught using Vincennes faculty, but future collaboration could include hiring Ivy Tech faculty to teach selected courses.

"Integrated advising will be a hallmark of this collaboration. In addition to the Ivy Tech academic advisors, Vincennes advisors will be available on the Ivy Tech campus to ensure that students understand the requirements of the program and have a smooth transition from the associate degree to the baccalaureate completion," said Dr. Kathleen Lee, chancellor of Ivy Tech Indianapolis.

When students pursue the full-time track, they can complete both an Ivy Tech associate degree and a Vincennes bachelor's degree in four years at an Ivy Tech campus. Part-time options will be available as well.

Baseball regional championships

The Fishers baseball team won its first ever regional championship on Saturday. The Tigers scored seven runs in the ninth inning to beat Fort Wayne Carroll 12-5, thus winning the Lafayette Jefferson regional at Loeb Stadium. Fishers plays Chesterton next Saturday in the Kokomo semi-state.

Tigers run away from Carroll in ninth inning

After getting past one tough game on Saturday morning, the Fishers baseball team found itself in another tough game Saturday night.

The evening game was the regional championship at Lafayette's Loeb Stadium. The Tigers were knotted at 5-5 with a pumped-up Fort Wayne Carroll team through eight innings. After having the bases loaded with one out in the top of the seventh and eighth but not scoring, Fishers was in that same situation in the top of the ninth.

That time, the Tigers came through, to the tune of seven runs. That powered Fishers to a 12-5 Class 4A Lafayette Jefferson regional championship victory, the first ever regional crown for the program. The Tigers will now play Chesterton next Saturday in the 4A north semi-state at Kokomo.

"It's awesome," said Fishers coach Matt Cherry. "We're not done yet, but excited for them to keep fighting, keep battling and finally coming through with the seven runs in the ninth."

While it was frustrating to leave the bases loaded so late, both times the Tigers quickly regrouped on defense. Fishers set down the Chargers 1-2-3 in the bottom of the seventh, forcing extra innings. The Tigers again took care of Carroll three-up, three-down in the bottom of the eighth.

Fishers' offense tried again in the ninth. With one out, Jack Roudebush drew a walk, then Ben Burton was hit by a pitch. JJ Woolwine got on with a base hit, loading the bases again. Could the Tigers finally get one in?

They did and then some. Craig Yoho came up after Woolwine, and he sent a single into left field to score Jack Roudebush and Ben Burton. Next up was Grant Richardson, who smashed a single into center field to get Woolwine and Yoho in to score.

"That's what this team's done for the last two years," said Cherry. "As long as we don't run out of time, they have fight in them and they're going to find a way to get it done. And we didn't run out of time this time, we kept holding them defensively and on the mound and finally broke through there in the ninth."

After absorbing a strikeout, Fishers got another runner on when Matt Wolff got hit by a pitch, sending Richardson to second. That brought up Alex Jamieson, and he cracked a home run into left field. The 5-5 tie was now a 12-5 lead.

Carroll got a groundout for the third out, so all the Tigers had to do now was get three outs on defense, which they did easily. Matt Wolff, who relieved Richardson in the eighth inning, sandwiched two strikeouts in between a groundout to third baseman Kiel Brenzewski.

Wolff is officially credited with the win, but Richardson deserves recognition as well. He threw seven and a third innings, striking out 12 and allowing seven hits. Richardson also went 4-for-6 at the plate; he, Yoho and Jamieson all batted in three runs.

Fishers scored one run each in the first three innings. Richardson hit a homer into center field in the first inning, Burton singled in Nick Lukac in the second, and Brenzewski hit a sacrifice fly to score Yoho in the third.

Carroll took a 5-3 lead through the fifth inning, but the Tigers tied it up in the top of the sixth on back-to-back sacrifice flies. Woolwine's right field fly ball sent Tristan Baker home and moved Burton to third base. Burton then scored after Yoho sent another fly ball into right field.

In the semi-final, Fishers came back to beat Zionsville 6-5. The Eagles had the Tigers down 4-1 midway through the third inning, but the Tigers rallied with four runs in the bottom of the third.

Brenzewski got things started with a left field double that sent Woolwine and Yoho home. Richardson scored on a wild pitch to tie the game at 4-4. Jamieson then hit a sacrifice fly to score Collin Shelton and put Fishers in the lead.

Richardson hit a fourth-inning double that scored Yoho and put the Tigers up 6-4. Woolwine got Fishers on the board in the first inning with a solo home run; both he and Yoho had two hits.

Luke Albright went five innings for the win, striking out four. Wolff pitched the last two innings and got the save.

The University baseball team held off Hauser 3-0 to win its first ever regional championship Saturday at Morristown. Cade Carlson threw 18 strikeouts in the championship game. The Trailblazers will play Tecumseh next Saturday in the semi-state.

Carlson strikes out 18 in University’s regional victory

MORRISTOWN - The University Trailblazers captured their first IHSAA regional baseball title with a 3-0 win over Hauser in the Regional 15 final at Morristown High School.

Cade Carlson was masterful on the mound, throwing a complete game one-hitter striking out a career high 18 batters. Garrett Hill laced a two run triple to left center in the top of the seventh to break a scoreless tie as Prep Baseball Report's top ranked team defeated PBR's third ranked team in a classic pitching duel to improve to 27-5 on the season and advance to the semi-state to play the 21-9 Tecumseh Braves.

Carlson carried a no-hitter in to the sixth inning before Hauser's Shawn Miller drove a double to left center. Carlson recorded a strike out before issuing an intentional walk to Trey Johnson. The Blazers right hander then recorded two more strikeouts to escape the jam.

Ben Westerkamm pinch hit to lead off the top of the seventh and drew an eight pitch walk after falling behind in the count 0-2. Ryan Williams beat out a bunt to put runners on first and second. Hauser made a pitching change, bringing in staff ace Sam Meek who had thrown 83 pitches in their semi-final win over Shakamak.

Blazers leadoff hitter Dawson Estep battled Meek for 10 pitches before being called out on strikes. Hill then hit the first pitch he saw from Meek to the fence in left center, scoring Westerkamm and Williams. Hill then scored on a balk to round out the scoring.

Carlson struck out the side in the bottom of the seventh to secure the win. The last 13 outs Carlson recorded came via strikeout. Hauser put just four balls in play in the game. In addition to Martin's double, the Jets managed just a ground out to second, a bunt fielded by the catcher and a foul pop out bunt. After throwing a no-hitter in University's Sectional opener against Bethesda Christian, Carlson has allowed one hit in 14 innings of tournament play, striking out 34.

"Cade was super dominant tonight. He puts us on his back and we rode him like a borrowed mule. He has come in to his own" said University coach Chris Estep. "It was complete team effort. Dawson (Estep) and Garrett (Hill) hit the ball well. Kolton Stevens caught a great game today. He was absolutely phenomenal behind the plate. Ben Westerkamm had an outstanding at bat off the bench. We talk about staying prepared on the bench. Ben's at bat (the walk) was the game changer tonight."

University reached the final with a 9-4 win over Indianapolis Lutheran in the morning game.

The Trailblazers got on the board in the third inning. Ryan Williams singled with one out, stole second and scored on Dawson Estep's single to center. Garrett Hill was intentionally walked before Brock Moore sacrificed the runners to second and third. Freshman Tyler Galyean drove a pitch to left field for a two run single and a 3-0 University lead.

The Saints answered in the top of the fourth, taking a 4-3 lead. University answered right back in the bottom of the fourth. Williams reached on a one out error and scored on a double to right center by Estep.

Freshman Ben Ewer led off the bottom of the fifth for University and tripled to right center on an eight pitch at bat after falling behind 0-2 in the count. Cade Carlson's single put University on top 5-4. Asher Thompson reached on a bunt single before Williams singled to score Carlson. Thompson scored on a wild pitch and Estep walked. Brock Moore doubled to right center to score Thompson and Estep for a 9-4 lead.

Hill worked the last three innings for the win, striking out nine and allowing no runs on just two hits. Moore pitched the first four innings, striking out six.

Carlson was 3-4 while Estep and Williams had two hits and two runs each. Estep, Moore and Galyean each drove in two runs.

The Carmel girls tennis team toughed out a 3-2 win over Cathedral Saturday to win the state championship. It's the 10th state title for the Greyhounds' program.

Perfect 10 for Carmel after state championship win

By RICHIE HALL
It's never easy making history, but the Carmel girls tennis team keeps doing it. The Greyhounds added another state championship to their trophy case on Saturday, beating Cathedral 3-2 in the final at North Central's Barbara Wynne Tennis Center. Carmel entered some rarified air with this win: It was the Greyhounds' 10th state championship. Only North Central, with 12, has more.

"We play as a team and we are a deep, great team of individuals, but individuals that work together," said Carmel coach Spencer Fields. "I really think that the tennis was tough this weekend, but these girls don't quit. They never want to give up. They play with a lot of pride for their school, their community. It's a really special group, a really talented group. Just a really fun and enjoyable group of people to be around." The Irish won at No. 1 doubles, but Carmel soon went up 2-1 with victories from No. 3 singles Franny Werner (6-0, 6-0) and the No. 2 doubles team of Leila Antony and Apurva Manas (6-0, 6-2). That left the Nos. 1 and 2 singles matches left to decide the title. The clincher would be No. 1 singles, with the Greyhounds' Lauren Lemonds holding off Maeve Koscielski 6-4, 6-4 in a match that was much tougher than the score indicates.

"It was definitely exciting," said Lemonds. "The other match finished right before me, it really came down to my match at the very end, so it was really exciting." "I do think it's really fun, because everyone's cheering and it's just a really good atmosphere," said Lemonds. She called the season a "super fun season," because of how close the team got this year. "It was just a lot of fun making it to state together," she said.

Lemonds has committed to play tennis at Michigan State University. "I like the coaches, the team, the academics," said Lemonds of her college decision. "The final deciding factor was just how close I'll be to my family." In the morning semi-finals, Carmel beat Brownsburg 5-0. That was another deceptive score, as two of the matches went three sets: Werner came from behind to win 3-6, 6-3, 6-3 at No. 3 singles, while the Greyhounds' No. 1 doubles team of Emma Brune and Grace Marchese also came back to win a tough one, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5. Marchese won the Mental Attitude Award after the match. Marchese is the daughter of James and Erin Marchese, holds a 4.20 grade-point average while taking honors, Advanced Placement and International Baccalaureate classes. She is heading to Clemson University to major in Nursing. "I never thought that I would be somebody who would win it, but I'm very proud to accomplish it," said Marchese. "We do work, every single day, very hard. So to have all of that come to an end and know that all of our hard work every single day has paid off is just a wonderful feeling." "That's really neat for her," said Fields. "She's put a lot of effort into Carmel High School. The Mental Attitude for tennis is special, but it really is a reflection of what she's put into the school and the community. It's way above average. She's a really special girl in terms of what she's done for the school."

Carmel's Grace Marchese won the Mental Attitude Award.

Millers beat Leo, fall to Lake Central at semi-state

By RICHIE HALL

The Noblesville softball team's post-season run came to an end on Saturday, as the Millers were beaten by No. 2-ranked Lake Central 4-3 in the championship game of the Class 4A Harrison semi-state.

The Indians got the first two runs of the game in the top of the first inning, but Noblesville tied the game up in the bottom of the second. Ella White got on base with a center field hit, held there after a pop out to first base, then moved to second on a groundout.

That brought up Kyleigh Lowry, and she sent a single into left field to get White home. Lowry scored on the next at-bat: Abby Brown smacked a double into left field.

The score stayed 2-2 for most of the game before Lake Central scored twice in the top of the seventh. Gabriella Carra hit a single into right field that landed fair by inches and brought in two runs. The Millers got a run back in the bottom of the seventh; Lowry was hit by a pitch, moved to second on a groundout, then scored on Olivia Stinson's center field hit. That got Noblesville within one, but a groundout finished the game.

"We were within one," said Noblesville coach Deke Bullard. "We had a couple of unfortunate hits go against us in the seventh that gave them their two runs. We unfortunately just couldn't get them both back.

Stinson and White both had two hits. Madison Taylor pitched a complete game, tossing four strikeouts.

"We're proud of the season they've had," said Noblesville coach Deke Bullard. "We're proud of the efforts they gave today. Today's a hard day. You play a game at 1 o'clock in the heat, and then you have to kind of shut everything down and try to eat, hydrate, cool off, rest and then come back out and play another game against one of the top five teams in the state. Lake Central's a great team, they're a great program."

In the morning semi-final, the Millers beat Leo 5-2 in eight innings, scoring three times in the eighth after the regulation seventh inning ended in a 2-2 tie.

White got on base with a left field hit, then moved to second after Taylor drew a walk. Abigail Harvey came in to run for Taylor, and both she and White advanced a base on a groundout.

Julia Furiak was next, and she cracked a double into center field to get both runners home. Shea Sterrett came in to run for Furiak, and she was scored by Lowry's single. Leo loaded the bases with one out in the bottom of the eighth, but a double play ended the game.

Furiak was 3-for-4 at the plate, while Lowry went 2-for-3. Taylor pitched all eight innings, striking out five.

The Millers finished their season with a 21-11 record.

Boys track and field

HSE’s Norris, Fishers 4x400 are state champions

Three Hamilton County teams finished in the top 10 and won two individual events at the IHSAA boys state track and field meet, which took place Saturday at Indiana University.

Hamilton Southeastern finished third with 44 points, behind only Avon's 66 points and North Central's 47. Madison Norris led the way for the Royals, winning the state championship in the 110 hurdles in a time of 14.02 seconds.

Norris later joined Jack Boyd, Noah Malone and Chase Maxey to place second in the 4x100 relay. Malone won two more medals by taking fourth in both the 100 and 200 dashes.
