Election Board strikes three GOP candidates from ballot

By JEFF JELLISON
Reporter Publisher

On Thursday, the Hamilton County Elections Board struck three Republican candidates from the 2019 primary ballot.

The action by the board was a result of Republican Party Chairwoman Laura Campbell's concern the candidates had not met state election code requirements to file as Republicans.

The candidates in question were Kevin Ferguson, Arcadia Town Council District 2; Brian Landress, Noblesville City Council At Large; and John Partlow, Noblesville City Council District 6.

To be eligible for a party ballot a candidate must have voted for the party in a recent primary election or received written certification by party chair, explained Greg Purvis, the Democrat representative on the board.

Purvis and board members Ray Adler (Republican) and Hamilton County Clerk Kathy Williams (Republican) heard testimony from each of the candidates.

Ferguson stated he voted in the 2008 General Election, but had not voted in a primary election.

Republican Chairwoman Laura Campbell confirmed that Ferguson had not sought certification from her office.

The board voted unanimously to remove Ferguson from the 2019 ballot.

Brian Landress testified he had never voted in a primary election in Indiana. Landress stated he has been an active member in the community, supported the Republican Party and volunteered at community events. "Your actions in the community speak louder than voting in a primary," argued Landress.

Following his statement, Landress presented Campbell a written request for party certification.

Campbell rejected the request stating, "Until today I've never met you. You've had an opportunity to vote in recent primaries. I take this very seriously and I am not inclined to

Fishers Council President Block: Council Connect meetings are not a reaction to anyone

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

Plans for a series of monthly sessions sponsored by Fishers City Council leadership "in no way is being done in reaction to anyone." That's the comment from Council President Rich Block when asked his view of a recent statement by Logan Day, a Fishers mayoral candidate in the GOP May 7 primary election.

On Tuesday morning, the city of Fishers announced a series of monthly meetings named "Council Connect" with the first session scheduled for Monday, Feb. 25. The news release announcing the meetings said Council Connect will "allow residents an opportunity to ask questions or voice concerns directly to council leadership."

Later that same day, Logan Day sent a statement to LarryInFishers saying the timing of the Council Connect meetings looks "suspicious" to him since Day has been pushing city transparency in his campaign. Day described the Council Connect idea as "platform plagiarism."

Council President Block told LarryInFishers the Council Connect idea came from new council Vice President Eric Moeller. The council president and vice president have been discussing this Council Connect idea for the past 30 to 40 days, Block says.

Block also says he is unaware of any position Logan Day has taken on the transparency issue.

"I have never seen anything from Logan Day about the transparency,

Koteewi Run Seasonal Slopes just right for all

I'm not a winter person by any means. Summer always has been and always will be my favorite season – I'm a Leo, after all. But I live in Indiana where winter can last anywhere from three to six months.

Every year I TRY to embrace the joys of winter. I do pretty well from December until about mid-January, but then I get a cranky and impatient and am ready to see the sun and green grass again.

This time I was determined to beat the winter blues and have some fun outdoors with my family. So we marked our calendar to go tubing on Sunday, Feb. 17 and try out Koteewi Run Seasonal Slopes in northern Hamilton County.

Koteewi appealed to me thanks to: 1. The individually carved-out tubing lanes and 2. The towline that takes you to the top of the hill.

While I liked sledding growing up, there's one incident that my sister loves to tease me about. When I was eight, I went sledding down a hill at Wilson Park up in Mishawaka. At one point the snow started to blind me and I couldn't see where I was going, which slammed right into a tree. Thankfully I was okay, but the sled, well ... not so much. This incident naturally left me a bit paranoid about sledding or tubing.

Individual lanes so you can tube safely and not hit other people or objects? Count me in!

The towline is also wonderful because the last time I went sledding with my boys at Forest Park, I only went down the hill four times. Why? Because that meant going up the hill four times. On the last trip up, my 40-something-year-old body screamed "no more!" Being towed back up the hill and avoiding overexertion at Koteewi sounded right up my alley.

Yes, you pay for these

Homegrown Hoosier ninja warriors to compete this weekend in Westfield

The REPORTER

Children across the state are in for an exciting event this weekend as the first ever State Ninja Games comes to Westfield. Ninja athletes will converge on the IMMI Conference Center on Sunday for the first-ever event of its size, with over 100 participants from 15 Indiana gyms. Ninja participants will represent their home gym at the competition, where athletes ages 3 to 13 jumping, kicking and spinning their way to victory.

The Ninja Games is part of the wildly successful youth athletics craze, NinjaZone, which is gaining international attention with over 300 locations around the world. There are currently 15 NinjaZone facilities in Indiana, and each has been invited to participate in the main event on Sunday, Feb. 24 – the first ever State Ninja Games competition.

During the event, the children will run through several obstacle courses designed to test skill, speed, determination and sportsmanship. Ninjas participate in groups based on skill level, beginning with the youngest athletes – the Lil' Ninjas, ages 3 to 5 – and progressing up through colored headband levels: White, yellow, green, blue and purple. Observers of the Ninja Games will see everything from a simple forward roll to impressive mid-air twists and flips. To say this competition has kids 'flipping off the walls' is an understatement.

NinjaZone is the brainchild of longtime gymnastics gym owner and 2018 Indianapolis Business Journal 40 Under 40 honoree, Casey Wright. Established in 2015 in Carmel, the excitement of "Ninja Sport" spread quickly, and the NinjaZone licensing program now has over 300 locations in 43 states, in eight countries, on four continents. The Ninja Games is the competitive arm of this new sport, hosted in NinjaZone licensed facilities. The competition adds another level of excitement to the already fast-paced and skill-rich curriculum that gyms are used to executing, within their weekly NinjaZone classes. The Ninja Games often involves one or several gyms in a close geographical area, but this sign off on your request.”

The board voted unanimously to remove Landress from the ballot.
The most heated discussion during the meeting came from Partlow.

Partlow argued he voted in the 2015 primary; however, the board indicated Partlow did not check the box when voting that identifies party affiliation.
Partlow testified under oath that he voted Republican in the 2015 primary. Each of the board members agreed they had no evidence to dispute Partlow’s claim.
Campbell questioned Partlow not voting in the last two primaries. “When you look at a primary that is 75 percent unopposed, why vote?” said Partlow.

Partlow also argued he had strong family ties to the Republican Party and that he has served on the library board after being recommended by Hamilton County Commissioner Steve Dillinger. “I doubt Dillinger would recommend a Democrat,” he said.
“I find his statement of party identification credible,” stated Purvis.
Adler told Partlow, “It is a two-prong test and I don’t see that you have met either.”

Williams motioned to remove Partlow from the ballot. “We do not have evidence of party affiliation in a recent primary election or approval from the party chairwoman,” she said.
Williams and Adler voted in favor of the motion and Purvis voted nay.
At the conclusion of the meeting Adler told the Reporter that Partlow had no supporting evidence regarding his statement of party identification. “He had no witnesses or additional evidence such as letters of support to document his claim.”
Adler and Purvis, both attorneys, did inform Partlow that he could appeal the board’s decision.

therefore it’s pretty hard for me to say that this is being done because of that when I wasn’t even aware of it,” Block told LarryInFishers.
Block defended the council’s record on transparency, citing regular meetings with residents and representatives of local Homeowners Associations. He cited Moeller, David George and Brad DeReamer as council members regularly holding such meetings. Block said he and other at large council members, along with people from the city staff, regularly attend these meetings.

Some of these meetings are not well-attended, and Block hopes the Council Connect session will bring residents to participate. But he quotes what Eric Moeller says about transparency: “...it’s a two-way street.”

“I’ve not heard this complaint from people until, literally, in the last week or two, that there’s a transparency issue,” Block said. “To me, it’s also incumbent on members of the public to be informed, read and if they have questions can attend council meetings or other (meetings).”

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about.

But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.)

Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

– Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Fishers City Council looks at changes to ordinance governing developers, HOAs

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

The Fishers City Council struggled to find an answer to an issue centered on the city, housing developers and Homeowners Associations (HOAs) and decided to work on new ordinance language to consider at the next council meeting.

City Councilman Brad DeReamer, also a member of the Fishers Plan Commission, submitted a text amendment proposal to the Plan Commission last November to change city ordinances in line with a recent change in the Carmel city ordinance.

The proposal would have called for an independent inspection of common areas before a developer hands over a housing project to the local HOA. DeReamer expressed concerns that some, but not all, developers were walking away from housing developments and leaving HOAs with large expenses.

The proposal was sent to the city planning staff, which came back with no recommendation, but a list of options. The Plan Commission voted 8-1 to send the proposed ordinance change to the city council with no recommendation. DeReamer was the lone no vote.

Monday night the city council had a lively discussion, including a couple of public comments allowed by the council, about a number of issues surrounding the proposed ordinance, including the city's liability should the change be approved.

DeReamer

that would address non-compliance and neglect by developers and bring it back to the council at a future council session. As a result, council members tabled the ordinance, allowing it to be brought back at a future council session.

Mayor Scott Fadness suggested that DeReamer was most concerned about developers guilty of noncompliance with city ordinances and neglect of assets, such as properly maintaining retention ponds. DeReamer replied he agreed with the mayor's comments.

As a result, the mayor suggested that he and the city staff look at language features for your two-hour session. But these benefits and more are so worth it!

My son Jonathon ended up having to stay home to work on a school project, so Jacob invited his friend Christian and off we went. They skipped the towline most of the time and climbed up the hill, an easy feat for most teenagers. My husband John and I, however, were happy with getting towed despite the lines.

We all loved the experience, especially when the lanes started to get slick from use and some freezing drizzle that afternoon! Thanks to that combination, we went faster each time. All four of us grabbed on to each other and went down together near the end, which left us screaming and laughing.

In addition to the excitement and fun, the staff was friendly; the hill is near a warm building with restrooms, hot chocolate, and other drinks and snacks available for purchase; and the slopes are just a 15-minute drive from Noblesville. It's a great time for all ages!

Indiana House advances legislation providing tax credit to support special needs individuals

The REPORTER
The Indiana House of Representatives voted in favor of legislation co-authored by State Rep. Donna Schaibley (R-Carmel) that would provide a tax credit for contributions to savings accounts for Hoosiers with special needs.

According to Schaibley, Indiana ABE accounts are tax exempt and can be opened by Hoosiers with disabilities or their families to cover qualified disability expenses. Anyone can add funds to these accounts, and Schaibley is working to provide a tax credit to those who contribute. These accounts are used by individuals with disabilities to save for their future and pay for certain expenses, like medication, education or assistive technology.

“This savings program helps individuals with disabilities save money to offset costs of qualified disability expenses so they can live as independently as possible,” Schaibley said. “Creating this tax credit could incentivize more people to make contributions to ABE accounts.”

Schaibley said ABE accounts can be used to cover the costs of care associated with a disability without jeopardizing the beneficiary’s eligibility for federal and state assistance programs, like SNAP or Medicaid.

Those who contribute to an Indiana ABE account could receive a tax credit of up to $1,000.

To establish an account, Hoosiers must have a physical or mental disability diagnosed before age 26 and be eligible for Supplemental Security Income through the Social Security Administration.

House Bill 1350 now moves to the Senate for consideration. For more information, visit iga.in.gov.

Reader calls out Carmel for debt, deficit spending

Dear Editor:

Fred Swift’s information round-up of planned Carmel street work reminds us Carmelists the city has lavished $347 million on new construction since 2011 – $195.4 million last year alone, according to the Indiana Department of Local Government Finance.

Virtually every dime was deficit spending, coming from increased debt that has no immediate impact on taxes but mortgages the futures of our children and grandchildren.

Noblesville mayoral candidate Julia Church Kozicki welcomes conversation with citizens

The REPORTER
Submitted

Candidate for Noblesville Mayor Julia Church Kozicki will host a series of "Conversations with Julia" during the next three-plus months leading up to the May 7 Republican Primary. The first such event will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 26 at Rebellion Doughnuts, 17677 Cumberland Road.

"While I am sharing my vision of the city of Noblesville in the coming months, I am just as interested in hearing about the vision of my fellow Noblesville residents," said Kozicki. "I believe it is important for leaders to gather input from all citizens and be available for questions."

Other dates and times current scheduled for these conversations include:

- Tuesday, March 19 at 4:30 p.m. – All Local, 863 Conner St.

- Wednesday, April 10 at 5:30 p.m. – Ginger's Café, 111 S. 10th St.

A native of Noblesville and a graduate of Indiana University and Loyola University Chicago School of Law, she is legal counsel for Sigma Kappa Sorority's national headquarters. She and her husband, Jeff, have two sons, one at In-

Kozicki

School Board of Trustees and has served in numerous leadership roles in the community, including Noblesville Tri Kappa, the Hamilton County Leadership Academy and First United Methodist Church. She has also served as a three-time chair of the Corporate Counsel Section of the Indiana State Bar Association and as the Region 5 Director of the Indiana School Board Association. She represented Noblesville precincts 1 through 20 at the 2018 Indiana State Republican Convention.

"My campaign will be run in a positive and transparent manner," Kozicki promises. "As with my three previous campaigns for school board, I will not accept donations from companies that do business with the city. I will commit to a positive discussion of the issues that face us."

Kozicki's platform includes:

- Establishing closer collaborative cooperation between schools, city and community;
- Reviewing current city ordinances with the goal of reducing unfair, unnecessary burdens of both time and cost;

- Creating a Neighborhood Roundtable to facilitate open dialogue of issues and solutions between the city and its neighborhoods;
- Supporting downtown business owners and residents and finally addressing the parking needs of a vibrant downtown;
- Believing that on a long-term economic development and cultural/historic level, the decision to disable the Nickel Plate rails south of Conner Street is not the best decision for Noblesville, Kozicki will work to rescind this decision; and

- Proactively planning for growth and managing it during this critical time for the future of Noblesville to ensure that the end results benefit the community and not just developers.

Meeting Notices

The Hamilton County Board of Zoning Appeals – North District will meet at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 27, 2019, in the Commissioners' Courtroom/County Council Chambers on the first floor of the Hamilton County Government and Judicial Center, 1 Hamilton County Square, Noblesville.

The Hamilton County Board of Zoning Appeals – South District will not meet as scheduled on Wednesday, Feb. 27, 2019, due to lack of an agenda. The next regularly-scheduled meeting is Wednesday, March 27, 2019.

Noblesville needs a visionary approach

Dear Editor:

The City of Noblesville is such a wonderfully diverse community with a rich history and progressive outlook for the future. As we move forward into 2020 and beyond, our elected city leaders need to be people who can see beyond the black and white of every issue and give more consideration to the more cloudy or gray areas.

As a Republican candidate seeking election to the Noblesville Common Council At Large seat, I want to be the voice of reason on this 9-person legislative board. The City Council decides which laws or ordinances to govern our city by and how to spend local taxpayer dollars. Voting in the May 7 Hamilton County Primary Election will determine who leads our great city into the next decade.

In 2005, Noblesville Mayor John Ditslear named me "Visionary Man of the Year" for my efforts to preserve three historically significant homes and make way for a new City Hall. As a local entrepreneur and real estate developer, I approach every project as a "visionary man" who sees the big picture and works to collaborate on creative solutions.

New ideas for tackling city issues

Issues facing our city -- from trails to rails to massive road improvements, along with promoting economic growth to attract new residents and businesses -- require careful consideration as we strive to preserve the historic, small-town feel of Noblesville while also planning for future growth.

When the city outgrew its City Hall in the early 2000s and decided to build a more modern building, the Noblesville Preservation Alliance took issue with the city's plans to tear down an old Carnegie Library building and three historic homes along 10th and Conner streets.

I suggested we preserve both the library architecture and the historically significant homes by moving those homes to new locations and incorporating the library architecture into the design of the new City Hall, which now includes the outside shell of the library on its exterior. I moved the houses to two nearby locations and made everybody happy.

Shanehsaz

I will tackle projects for the City of Noblesville with new ideas, other options and different alternatives to get the job done and provide the best outcome for all residents of Noblesville.

A third option for Rails to Trails?

While debate continues to rage and emotions run high over whether to remove the Nickel Plate Railroad tracks and replace them with a 9.2-mile pedestrian trail running from East 96th Street in Fishers to Pleasant Street in Noblesville, I believe a third option needs to be considered.

Despite being tangled up in several lawsuits filed against the project, the Fishers City Council approved a 2019 budget that includes a tax hike to fund the trail's first phase and this week announced plans for a linear park with a teen center, boardwalk and recreational opportunities. Noblesville, on the other hand, did not include any plans or funding for its portion of the trail in its capital improvement plan for 2018-2023, called Noblesville Now.

While all of this gets sorted out, why don't we harken back to the old days of Noblesville when residents rode trolleys to get to and fro? The city could operate the trolley to run along the Nickel Plate Railroad from Conner Prairie to Forest Park, with planned stops along the way, such as in our historic and happening downtown!

Elect a new voice to Noblesville City Council

I live, work and play in Noblesville, just like so many of you. With our population expected to double by 2025, I think we need to plan carefully for that growth by considering all options on the table. I try to look past the obstacles and find clear solutions that provide a win-win for everybody involved.

The decisions made by your city leaders affect your pocketbook, your home, your commute, and so much more. Learn more about those decisions and my view for our great city's future at rockyforcouncil.com. I look forward to a lively discussion!

Jill Morrisette, 91, Tipton, formerly of Dallas, Texas and Cincinnati, Ohio, passed away February 18, 2019 at Riverview Health at Noblesville.

She was born January 13, 1928 in Pocahontas, Va. to Matthew and Mary Elizabeth (Kitts) Hammitt. She attended schools in Bramwell, W.V. and graduated from Bramwell High School with the Class of 1945. She then earned a Bachelor of Arts Degree at the University of Cincinnati and had worked on her Master's Degree.

She was an artist whose paintings were usually done in acrylic, oil and the medium of water color. She taught art in middle schools and also taught art on cruise ships for 35 years. She loved to travel and with her occupation has seen most of the world. She also enjoyed being with her family and sometimes took them with her on her "working cruises." Leisure time would often find her reading.

She was married to Richard Lee Morrisette, who preceded her in death. In addition to her husband, her parents also preceded her in death.

Surviving her are two daughters, Terry Bauer, Cincinnati, Ohio; and Amy Coile, Tipton; six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Memorial services are planned at a later date with burial next to her husband at Arlington National Cemetery at Arlington, Texas.

Arrangements are entrusted to Hartley Funeral Homes Cicero Chapel, where you may send condolences at hartleyfuneralhomes.com.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Then came to him his mother and his brethren, and could not come at him for the press. And it was told him by certain which said, Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to see thee. And he answered and said unto them, My mother and my brethren are these which hear the word of God, and do it. Now it came to pass on a certain day, that he went into a ship with his disciples: and he said unto them, Let us go over unto the other side of the lake. And they launched forth. But as they sailed he fell asleep: and there came down a storm of wind on the lake; and they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy. And they came to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, master, we perish. Then he arose, and rebuked the wind and the raging of the water: and they ceased, and there was a calm. And he said unto them, Where is your faith? And they being afraid wondered, saying one to another, What manner of man is this! for he commandeth even the winds and water, and they obey him.

Hot start leads Wildcats past Royals

By RICHIE HALL

FISHERS - Hamilton Southeastern had to deal with a hot start from Lawrence North Thursday night, and that carried the Wildcats to a 66-51 victory at the Royals' gym.

Lawrence North scored the first 12 points of the game before Southeastern got on the board with a basket by Mabor Majak. The Wildcats continued to cruise after that, eventually taking a 24-8 lead by the period's end. Jared Hankins scored 11 points for LN in that quarter.

"We got off to a rough start," said Royals coach Brian Satterfield. "I think that set the tone. They hit those perimeter shots and they gained some confidence. And once they had the lead, they were able to be patient and get looks how they wanted to. We just were out of sync."

The Wildcats led 31-9 at one point during the second quarter, but the Royals got their offense going in the later minutes of the period, cutting that lead to 35-19 by halftime. Southeastern finished with a 6-0 run; Majak, Vinny Buccilla, Noah Smith all made baskets.

Lawrence North opened the second half with a 7-0 run, and kept its lead around 20 points for the entire third quarter. Chris Grubbs added nine points for HSE during the third, which ended with the Wildcats ahead 56-33.

The Royals made a big push in the fourth quarter, going on an 11-0 run to get within 56-44. Grubbs took over the game, scoring nine points of that run, which he finished with a 3-pointer. Aaron Etherington helped out with a pair of free throws. Southeastern got to within 12 points two other times in the quarter, but a quick five-point burst by Lawrence North sealed the game.

"I give our guys a lot of credit," said Satterfield. "We kept fighting, we kept fighting and then finally made a little run there towards the end of the third quarter, and especially the start of the fourth quarter. Got it manageable, but just dug ourselves too deep a hole to get out of."

Strong defense sends University to victory

The University Trailblazers used a hot start and a strong team defense to close the regular season with a 53-46 win at Bishop Chatard.

University never trailed in the game, racing to an 11-2 lead in the first 2:45 of the game. The Trailblazers advantage was never less than give the rest of the game and was a three to four possession lead for most of the contest.

A pair of three pointers from Nate Shatkowski, a triple by Max Greenamoyer and a rebound basket by Jacob Sager staked University to their 11-2 lead. Joe Martin and Eyal Friedman also hit three pointers in the first quarter while Sam Mervis added an old fashioned three point play as University led 24-15 after the first quarter.

A basket by Martin and a three pointer from Quinn Steiner helped University to a 29-22 lead two minutes in to the period before both teams went scoreless for three minutes. A Greenamoyer three pointer with 1:45 left closed the scoring for the half and University took a 34-26 lead to the the halftime locker room.

Shatkowski scored on a layup and was fouled just 12 seconds in to the fourth quarter for another three point play. Sager's rebound basket put University up 13. The Trojans got as close as six, but a pair of baskets in the paint by Korey Ash-Simpson helped the Blazers hold a 45-37 edge after three periods.

University put the game out of reach by scoring the first seven points of the fourth quarter. Greenamoyer stole a Chatard pass and pushed the ball ahead, finding a streaking Eric Major for a layin. After a defensive stop, Major found Ash-Simpson for a layin. Greenamoyer followed with his third three pointer of the night for a 52-37 lead with 5:31 remaining.

Greenamoyer had 13 points for University and pulled down a team high six rebounds. Shatkowski had nine points, Martin had seven to go with four assists and Ash-Simpson and Sager each totalled six points as all nine Trailblazers who played scored. Mervis had a team high seven assists and five rebounds.

"This was a good team effort" said coach Brandon Lafferman of his 19-4 squad. "We had really strong team defense tonight which was a big improvement over our last game. I'm proud of the whole team. Everyone got some quality minutes tonight."

"Korey (Ash-Simpson) and Eric (Major) gave us some key minutes tonight when we needed them late in the third quarter and early in the fourth quarater. They did a great job at both ends of the court to help us seal the win. Nate Shatkowski did a good job getting us going early in just his second start of the season."

The win was University's first in seven tries against Chatard. The Class 1A third ranked Trailblazers end the regular season at 19-4 and will open IHSAA Sectional 58 play Tuesday night against the Indiana School for The Deaf at The U Center.

The Trojans were led by Cooper Lewis who 19 points including five three pointers. Edreece Redmond had 17 for Chatard, who closes their regular season at 12-9.
