Did you know Janus is now international?

Submitted

In case you've ever wondered, "Where in the world have Janus products gone?" come take a look at the new maps. It all started with a story...

At the second annual "For the Love of Janus" Guild's fundraiser at Donatello's in Carmel, Pastor Doug Gast of Bethel Lutheran Church in Noblesville shared some experiences he had on a recent mission trip to Ethiopia.

As he had prepared for his trip, his wife Teri (a Guild member) gave him some Hidden Talents' Nativity figures so that he could give them as gifts. As he presented the gifts to his hosts in Ethiopia, he shared the story of the Janus artists who made the figures. He said the recipients were deeply moved to hear about the Janus artists. The Nativity figures are now proudly displayed in several homes and offices in Ethiopia.

As you know, one story leads to another.

Janus staff started sharing that they had seen products made by Janus clients through the Work Experience program in retail outlets around the country. One staff member saw aquarium hoods which Janus clients assemble for Spectrum Brands for sale in a Walmart in Kerrville, Texas.

Another staff member recently saw Linnea's Lights candles, (Janus clients clean and wick the glass holders) in a gift shop in Hilton Head, S.C.

Another staff member sent a set of greeting cards and several Koko Knots (catnip toys) as "thank you" gifts to their hosts (and their cats) following a trip to Portland, Ore.

Now, proudly displayed on the Work Experience wall, you can see maps of the United States and the world, identifying the places where Janus manufactured products and art pieces end up. It's a great visualization of how the opportunities at Janus make it possible for everyone to have a far-reaching impact.

Soft words and sandpaper people

Life is hard. I repeat...life is hard.

Each day opens up new promises and opportunities.

It also opens up challenges and hurts.

We all have sandpaper people in our life. You know, those that irritate you, get on your first and last nerve and yes, make you feel less than.

Ugh and double ugh.

What we do with them depends on the day.

Some days I can shrug off a negative word. Other days, I carry it around like a blanket made with porcupine needles.

I recently had a long-time friend(?) rake me over the coals and back for something I had no control over. I was just the messenger and I was verbally shot. Needless to say I allowed those words to ruin my day. Shame on her. Shame on

JANET HART LEONARD
From the Heart

me. I simply listened and said, "I'm sorry you feel that way."

I heard her words over and over that day.

Words truly matter. They build up or they break down.

Sadly, words once spoken can never be erased. Even a sincere "I'm sorry" cannot totally mend a relationship.

I try so hard to watch my words. I try to show and speak appreciation to those in my life. I try to compliment strangers when given the opportunity.

A kind, sincere word of appreciation goes a long way. It is a verbal hug.

A compliment is heard over and over, once it is given. Never under estimate the power of a sincere compliment.

Campaign 2019 . . . Republicans to get their show on the road Sept. 19

County Republicans are planning a Fall Dinner on September 19, which will serve as something of a kickoff to the November election campaign.

Lt. Governor Suzanne Crouch will speak at the rally to be held at the 502 East Event Center in Carmel.

Generally, our purely local elections fail to stir much interest in Hamilton County where a Republican win, often unopposed by Democrats, can be anticipated. This year, however, Democrats claim to be planning a new effort in selected city council races in Fishers, Noblesville and Carmel. They have yet to announce specific plans or events.

Republicans, aware of the intentions, are not taking these races for granted, and will mount a campaign of their own. County Chairwoman Laura Campbell said volunteers will be sought in coming days to organize a campaign including door-to-door contact with voters.

Behind this action by both parties is the unknown effect of the 'Trump Factor.' While Trump carried the county easily in 2016, there were areas of the county where he did not do as well as Republicans are generally expected to do.

Whether his performance since that election will help or hurt the party

Brainard joins Indiana mayors on push for more gun control

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Five Indiana mayors, including Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard, are pushing Congress to take action on gun legislation after the latest mass shootings.

They've joined more than 230 mayors nationwide asking the U.S. Senate to vote on a pair of House bills which passed with bipartisan support.

The letter highlights two bills involving background checks: House Bill 8 and 1112. House Bill 8 would require all gun sales to go through a background check, prohibit unlicensed and unregulated secondary sales and help police trace crime guns.

House Bill 1112 would extend the review period of background checks to 10 days.

The request comes just days after the latest mass shootings in Dayton, Ohio and El Paso, Texas.

The mayoral letter was put together by the United States Conference of Mayors and includes five in Indiana: Indianapolis, Carmel, Fort Wayne, Gary and South Bend where Mayor Pete Buttigieg is also running for president.

The letter is addressed to both Senate Republican and Democratic party leadership and asks them to do something immediately.

There have been 251 mass shootings in this year's first 216 days — defined as any incident where at least four victims are shot, even if they don't die, no matter the circumstance including gang violence.

News Thursday means the mayors are getting at least part of their wish. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell (R) said he won't bring the Senate back early but said when they return, background checks and red flag laws will be up for discussion.

The advertisement is split into two main sections. The left section has a solid yellow background. At the top center is the Bragg Insurance Agency logo, which consists of a blue triangle with three white diagonal lines to its left, followed by the word 'BRAGG' in a large, blue, serif font, and 'INSURANCE AGENCY' in a smaller, blue, sans-serif font below it. Below the logo is a dark blue horizontal rectangle containing the text 'We help first time home buyers insure their new home' in a white, italicized, serif font. Underneath this rectangle, the phone number '317-758-5828' is displayed in a bold, black, sans-serif font. Below the phone number is the website 'BraggInsurance.com' in a bold, black, sans-serif font. At the bottom of the yellow section is the email address 'FirstTimeHomeBuyer@bragginsurance.com' in a bold, black, sans-serif font. The right section of the advertisement is a photograph of a family of three—a man, a woman, and a young child—standing in front of a new house. The man is on the left, wearing a light blue button-down shirt and dark jeans. The woman is on the right, wearing a black and white striped shirt and blue jeans. The child is standing between them, wearing a light blue shirt and pink pants. They are all smiling. The house behind them has grey siding and a white door with a glass insert. To the right of the door is a white-painted porch structure with multiple windows. Several cardboard boxes are visible on the ground in front of the house, indicating a recent move. The overall scene is bright and sunny, suggesting a positive start to a new home.

RED

to name a few. The purpose of the Red Geranium Artisan Market is to raise funds for local, state, national and international church mission projects through vendor booth space and food sales.

One unique feature of the Red Geranium Artisan Market is the involvement of several international organizations and local groups that serve others. Africa Bags returns to join us and will feature their beautiful batik hand-crafted bags and aprons made by women from Malawi, Africa. Another returning international vendor is Padilka (the Ukrainian word for handmade). This booth will be selling hand-painted solid oak Ukrainian Easter eggs, traditionally called pysanky, along with similarly decorated ornaments and jewelry. All items are painted by a Ukrainian artist named Marina Shepeluk, who was raised in an orphanage and earns a living from the American sales of her work.

The market will feature fun local talent at the music stage throughout the day, along with several food options for shoppers. The PW Café Grill and Bake Sale will be set up again this year for lunch or all-day snacking and a new special treat this year will be the Mammamia Gelato booth located inside the church serving up yummy house-made Gelato. Tours of historic church will be provided on the hour by members of Frist Pres to allow visitors to catch a glimpse of the 1893 narthex and sanctuary, see the beautiful pipe organ and ring the bell in the newly restored bell tower.

About the Red Geranium Artisan Market

The Red Geranium Artisan Market was the brainchild of Sue Jourdan, who is the mission elder at First Presbyterian Church of Noblesville. Four years ago, the mission team decided it wanted to create a fun outreach day in the community that would promote local artists while generating income for the church's local, state, and international mission projects. The first market was held in 2016 with around 20 excited and eager vendors. Each year the market has grown in size and variety of vendors.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County. – Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Newly-minted dentist visits Sheridan Rotary

Sheridan Rotary had the pleasure of a special guest recently: Dr. Orey Pence, the grandson of Rotary member Les Pence. Dr. Pence graduated from the IU School of Dentistry just this past May and was invited to speak to the club members about the newest developments in the field of general dentistry. It was an eye-opening talk because most of the members remember the old days when a trip to the dentist was an occasion of great anxiety. Dr. Pence was able to allay some of those fears with an informative talk of a modern dental practice including new procedures, new medications and especially new and improved anesthesia administration. (That's the part we remember the most, right?) If you are looking for a new dentist, give Dr. Orey Pence a call. He is located in Avon, he is accepting new patients and his appointment desk can be reached at (317) 559-4662. Pictured above are Orey and Grandpa Les.

The upcoming November election involves only municipal offices of mayor, city clerk, city judge and city council. Since GOP candidates for the top job of mayor in Noblesville, Fishers, Carmel and Westfield have no Democratic opponents, a very light vote is possible. Residents living inside city limits get to vote while voters in unincorporated areas will have no election this year.

We live in an day and age where people are throwing opinions and word assaults like verbal vomit. All this leads to is a big mess to clean up.
You cannot change someone with your opinion when it is given accusingly or if it demands obedience. Just ask any teenager.
You can be right with your opinion but wrong in its delivery. Think about that.
Many a marriage has been disillusioned because of "wrong deliveries" of spoken words.

Friendships have gone by they wayside because of careless remarks.
As scripture says, "a soft answer turns away wrath. A harsh word stirs up anger."
Often, my prayer at the beginning of the day begins with, "Please Lord, anoint my words. Give me wisdom before I speak. Silence my tongue from any unnecessary remarks. Help me to speak with kindness and words of affirmation." Amen and amen.

As I said at the beginning of this column, life is hard. I pray I can make the journey, for those who know me, a little easier. Words matter. Kindness matters.
My opinion? I hope it matters and is given with kindness. I pray it falls as a gentle balm on a wounded soul. Let's all put away the sandpaper.

Crime or abuse is not the victim’s fault

By JESSICA REYNOLDS
Prevail Adult Advocacy Supervisor

Too many times a victim of crime or abuse is blamed for the abuse they have endured. The blame often comes from everywhere – family members, close friends, law enforcement, social media ... the list goes on and on. In cases of domestic violence, victims are often asked, “Why don’t you just leave?” or “What did you do to make him/her that mad?” The most common questions victims of sexual assault/abuse hear are: “What were you wearing?”

“Were you drinking?” “Did you flirt with him/her and give them the wrong impression?” “Why didn’t you scream/kick/fight/run away?” “Why didn’t you report this sooner?” Victim blaming often happens due to the victim blaming phenomenon. The victim blaming phenomenon occurs when an individual identifies something that the victim could have possibly done to make the abuse/assault happen. Identifying something that someone did to “make” an event/situation happen often gives the person a false sense of security. It can look like this in domestic violence cases: “Well, if that were ME in that situation, I would NEVER let someone hit/abuse me. I would call the police, I would leave that relationship. Since he/she (victim) isn’t leaving or reporting the abuse, they either like it or it’s not true.” Or, in sexual assault cases, it might sound like this: “Well, I would never be at the bar drinking that late at night wearing clothes like that,” or “If I was being sexually total and absolute safety from becoming a victim of crime/abuse. The statistics for both domestic violence and sexual assault are staggering and are occurring in epidemic proportions here in the United States. Domestic violence knows no bounds and impacts 1 in 3 women and 1 in 6 men in their lifetimes. Anyone, at any time, can find themselves in an abusive relationship with their partner, spouse, or family member because the abuser is the only one that can decide not to be abusive.

Every 92 seconds an American (man, woman, or child) experiences sexual assault (RAINN, 2019). Most victims know their perpetrator and many victims say that they trusted the person who assaulted/abused them. Domestic violence and sexual assault can happen to anyone, regardless of their gender, race, age, ethnicity, socioeconomic status or religion.

A victim never chooses to be hurt, assaulted or abused. However, the perpetrator of the violence, assault or abuse chooses to hurt others by their actions. The conversation surrounding domestic violence and sexual assault needs to change; the questions often asked are the wrong questions. We need to be asking why the abuser/offender is choosing to hurt others. We need to be asking why the abuser/offender isn’t being held accountable or what can be done to hold them more accountable. We, as individuals, communities, and society need to focus on the actions of the perpetrator instead of the victim. It is never a victim’s fault. If you have ever experienced crime/abuse, please know that at Prevail we believe you, we support you, and it is not your fault.

Defining responsible gun ownership in the modern age

By DOUG KOUNS
CEO of Veracity IIR

I received a call the other day from my public relations representative. “Can you be available to speak on TV about the El Paso shootings?” I told her I was and looked at the news to study up just in case. It struck me that in less than a year of retirement from the FBI, I have been asked to weigh in on mass shootings three or four times. In the meantime, another mass shooting happened. First it was El Paso and then Dayton.

When talking to anyone about the state of our nation, I have always avoided political questions and stuck to investigative perspectives, survival strategies, risk management and prevention.

Today I will depart: I’m all for responsible gun ownership. I own a couple of shotguns and rifles for hunting and a couple of handguns for personal protection. The difficult part is determining what “responsible” means. It is subjective and wide open for interpretation. Furthermore, one who is “responsible” now may not necessarily remain so indefinitely.

About 23 years ago, I successfully completed the FBI’s rigorous entrance process including physical and psychological assessments. I learned from the FBI how to safely handle and proficiently use a variety of firearms. We spent hours in the classroom and on the range. We shot while stationary, moving, day, and night. We practiced reload drills and malfunction drills. We shot weak handed, two handed, one handed, under stress, while moving, from cars, open, from cover, and more. We also practiced with the Firearms Training System (FATS) in “shoot/don’t shoot” scenarios. Make the wrong move and get shot; or shoot someone you shouldn’t have. It led to thought and discussion. It all lead to hours and hours of experience in responsibly handling firearms.

In the field, Agents are required to qualify quarterly, but training is provided monthly. An Agent who fails to qualify four times a year may have his weapon taken away until remediation. This is responsible gun ownership according to the Bureau.

The above brings me to the wonder why practically anyone in the United States without a criminal record (and sometimes those who do) may fill out a form and purchase about whatever gun they choose.

No tests are given, no proficiency qualifications, no psychological assessment. “Got a clean record? Here’s your gun; you’re clearly qualified to have one (note my sarcasm).”

If you’ve never committed a crime thus far, why would anyone think you ever will? I won’t even get into why many “background checks” are a joke.

Gun rights advocates will say “but the constitution...!”

The “Right to bear arms” in the constitution was written well over 200 years ago. Guns then were big, inaccurate and fired about three to four rounds per minute. Our founding fathers couldn’t have fathomed or condoned what has become of us.

I submit we are all entitled to as many muskets as we want, but modern weapons demand modern rules.

Responsible gun ownership: Let’s define it, mandate it and adhere to it.

Rain on Main returns

The REPORTER

Rain on Main, a popular painted rain barrel contest and auction, is now underway along Main Street in Carmel's Arts & Design District. The event kicks off with a display of the decorated rain barrels along Main Street. The barrels are moved to the Carmel Farmers Market on Saturday, Aug. 17 and will be displayed along the center walk of the market. Information tents by the event organizers City of Carmel Utilities, Carmel Department of Storm Water Management and Hamilton County Soil and Water Conservation District will also be at the Farmers Market on Saturday.

The barrel designs will be judged by an independent panel for first, second and third place. There will also be a "People's Choice" award based on individual barrel "likes" on the Rain on Main Facebook page. The barrels will be auctioned off via an online silent auction that will end at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 17. Net proceeds from the auction will fund water education signage in Carmel Clay Parks.

Information about the event and auction can be found on RainOnMain.com. The Rain on Main event is made possible due to the sponsorship of V3 Companies; various businesses who are individual barrel sponsors; in-kind support from Touch'N Go Collision, Sherwin-Williams Range Line Road, Sherwin Williams Automotive and White's Ace Hardware.

Carmel residents may be eligible for a cost share rebate of $50 to $75 per barrel by the Department of Storm Water Management. More information about the rebate can be found at the Farmers Market event Aug. 17 and at RainOnMain.com.

Rain Barrels continue to grow in popularity across the country and beautifully painted rain barrels increase their desirability and encourage water conservation by the use of recycled rainwater. Rain barrels sit under gutter down spouts to collect and store rainwater from roofs that would otherwise be lost to runoff and diverted to storm drains, streams and rivers. The collected water can then be used to water plants in the landscape instead of using treated water which saves water and energy.

For more information on rain barrels contact Sue Maki at Carmel Utilities at 317-571-2673 or smaki@carmel.in.gov.

Hoosiers should follow precautions when embarking on home improvement projects

The REPORTER

The Office of the Indiana Attorney General has received multiple complaints this summer about home-improvement contractors. As Hoosiers consider tackling home-improvement projects during the remainder of the warm-weather months, they should follow these tips:

- Always insist on a contract. This is the first step to ensuring you and any contractor are on the same page as to the scope of work and price for the project.
- Take your time. Don't let anyone rush your decision.
- Never pay for the entire project before work begins. Any payments should be tied to the completion of specific items from the contract.
- Do your research. Ask friends, family, and neighbors for any information on a contractor before you use them. Consider contacting the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division for complaint information on contractors you are considering.

• Don't assume a flyer or ad makes a contractor reliable. Individuals and companies engaging in outdoor home improvement frequently leave flyers and advertisements on consumers' doors or mailboxes.

• Keep all records related to your project. This includes any contracts, receipts, warranties and correspondence (including texts and emails).

• If a contractor does not complete the work agreed upon, consider filing a complaint with the Attorney General.

In addition to the above tips, the Indiana Home Improvement Contracts Act requires home improvement contracts exceeding $150 to be in writing. The contract must also contain certain information, including: Contact information for the home improvement supplier; a description of the work to be done; the approximate starting and completion dates for the work; a statement of contingencies that may change the completion date; and the contract price.

Hill

As always, consumers who believe they are the victims of scam attempts are asked to report them to the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division by calling 1-800-382-5516 or going online at in.gov/attorneygeneral and clicking the "File a Complaint" box at the bottom of the page.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Jesus saith unto him, Go thy way; thy son liveth. And the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way. And as he was now going down, his servants met him, and told him, saying, Thy son liveth. Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him. So the father knew that it was at the same hour; in the which Jesus said unto him, Thy son liveth: and himself believed, and his whole house. This is again the second miracle that Jesus did, when he was come out of Judaea into Galilee.

What Republican presidential candidate was from Elwood?

The REPORTER

This week in Indiana's history ...

1873 – Wayne County officially moved its county seat from Centerville to Richmond, ending a 50-year rivalry between the two cities for the designation. Historians noted that "men, women, and children wept bitter tears as the last wagon left the town of Centerville on that eventful evening."

1881 – The Indianapolis Leader printed "The Land of Used-To-Be," one of the first poems published by James Whitcomb Riley. Known as "The Hoosier Poet," he became world famous. Scores of his books were issued in many editions and included such classics as "Little Orphant Annie," "The Raggedy Man," and "Out to Old Aunt Mary's." A star on the lecture circuit, Riley vied in popularity with Mark Twain.

1912 – Dedication ceremonies were held for the new library in Boswell in Benton County. Andrew Carnegie had donated $8,000 for construction of the building, provided the community would pledge $800 per year for maintenance and operation. He insisted that library cards should be free and that books would be placed on open shelves so that readers could browse on their own. The Boswell Carnegie Library continues to serve the community today. It was doubled in size by an addition in 2003.

1927 – Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig came to town as the New York Yankees played an exhibition game with the Indianapolis Indians in Washington Park. The sports page said the Babe hit one over the right field fence which flew south past the railroad tracks and landed "just this side of Brown County." However, the Indians still beat the Yankees, 8-5, in a game that was fun for fans and players, alike.

1940 – The Town of Elwood made national news as Wendell L. Willkie accepted the Republican nomination for President. Over 250,000 people crowded into Willkie's hometown on a day that saw the temperature rise to 102. The Pennsylvania Railroad ran 29 extra trains that day. Willkie waged an energetic campaign but failed to prevent President Franklin D. Roosevelt from winning a third term in November.

1945 – Indiana Governor Ralph Gates declared a two-day state holiday to celebrate the end of World War II. He urged citizens to "pay homage to those living and dead who have given so much towards victory." Over 400,000 Hoosier men and women served in the war. Over 12,000 were killed and over 17,000 were wounded.

Westfield takes 2nd at State Preview

By RICHIE HALL

It's been an eventful week for Jocelyn Bruch, a week that ended on a winning note.

Bruch played at the USGA Women's Amateur tournament at the start of the week, then returned home to Westfield to join the Shamrocks team in their meets at Crooked Stick Thursday and the State Preview meet at Prairie View on Saturday. Bruch won individual medalist honors at Prairie View and helped Westfield to a runner-up finish in the team standings.

Bruch went three under par for the day, carding a 69. She did so with a remarkable streak towards the end of her round, making four consecutive birdies.

"The beginning was kind of slow," said Bruch. "My putting was a little cold. I was coming up short. But then I birdied 16, 17, 18 and 1, so I had a hot streak there at the end. My last hole was No. 2. I just got in a zone there at the end and I was finally matching the speed of my putter."

Bruch played at the Women's Amateur tournament earlier in the week, at Old Waverly Golf Club in West Point, Miss.

"It was so cool," said Bruch. "The course was amazing. All the volunteers and officials treated us great. It's just a great event overall and it was a lot of fun to be a part of."

As a team, the sixth-ranked Shamrocks finished with a score of 314, behind only top-ranked and defending state champion Evansville North, which totaled 303. Westfield had solid scores all around, with Sophie McGinnis adding a 78 and Natalie Shupe scoring 81.

"We had a lot of kids that worked really hard this summer and it's showing on our scorecards, the improvement that we made," said Shamrocks coach Trevor Neu. "So it was nice to come out today in a field like this and shoot really good scores and put up a really good team score."

"Since we didn't make it as a team last year, this just gives us a lot of confidence moving forward and knowing that we belong here," said Bruch.

Carmel finished fifth as a team, with a score of 329. Katie Kuc led the second-ranked Greyhounds with a 78, with Elizabeth Hedrick scoring 80.

"They played well, we just had a couple holes that snuck up and got us," said Carmel coach Kelly Kluesner. "But I was proud of how all of the girls came back after those less than favorable holes. We look forward to matches here in the next couple weeks."

Hamilton Southeastern finished with a score of 371. Amber Luttrell led the No. 12 Royals with an 88.

"We hung in there, we didn't quit," said Southeastern coach Steve Guenin. "The course played long, it was tough. We did a lot of nice things. We have to work on being more consistent. Overall, we're happy with what happened. We know we got work to do for sure. But the girls did a nice job today."

Guerin Catholic scored 373. The No. 15 Golden Eagles were led by Angelica Pfefferkorn with a 77, and Christina Pfefferkorn with an 81.

Team scores: Evansville North 303, Westfield 314, Homestead 320, Zionsville 325, Carmel 329, Columbus North 339, NorthWood 348, Crown Point 355, Evansville Memorial 364, Center Grove 368, Franklin Community 369, Hamilton Southeastern 371, Guerin Catholic 373, Northridge 379, Bedford North Lawrence 387, Heritage Christian 402, South Bend Saint Joseph 402, Richmond 418.

Medalist: Jocelyn Bruch (Westfield) 69.

Other Westfield scores: Sophie McGinnis 78, Natalie Shupe 81, Allie Hildebrand 86, Brette Hanavan 94.

Carmel scores: Katie Kuc 78, Elizabeth Hedrick 80, Ava Hedrick 83, Sydney Longstreth 88, Ava Nguyen 89.

Southeastern scores: Amber Luttrell 88, Maggie Watson 93, Payton Schechter 93, Ashley Marcinko 93, Marissa Spreitzer 99.

Guerin Catholic scores: Angelica Pfefferkorn 77, Christina Pfefferkorn 81, Jenna Rust 107, Audrey Kuncle 108, Jenny Zerla 127.
