HSE Board mulls options on virtual learning for 2021-2022 school year

LarryInFishers.com

The Hamilton Southeastern (HSE) School Board has an important decision to make on virtual learning options for the coming school year. The first will come tonight.

Dr. Matt Kegley, Assistant Superintendent of Teaching & Learning, outlined options for a virtual learning program for the 2021-2022 school year. There are two options before the board, and board members discussed whether to decide at tonight's regular board meeting or postpone the vote to Kegley's first option, which he recommends, would provide virtual learning for grades K-6 using HSE teachers instructing virtually, and grades 7-12 to use Indiana Online, an outside organization, to provide the virtual learning option. The class offerings would have some differences compared to the secondary classes offered in-person locally. Extra-curricular activities would be very limited for virtual students.

The second option would have HSE teaching staff instruct all online classes, grades K-12.

No teacher layoffs would happen under either option, Kegley told the

Depending on the number of students changing for second semester, some staff shuffling could be necessary.

When asked by a board member, administrators said there are currently 4,892 students enrolled in virtual learning, 22.9 percent of the total student population. Kegley cautioned that the current enrollment virtually may be a choice families are making for a variety of reasons and may or may not be a predictor of how many students would opt for virtual learning in the coming school year.

But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. How Indiana's new budget could affect HSE Schools

Most of you may be aware that the new Indiana state budget has a large increase in money available for K-12 schools, so I posed the question to HSE Schools about how the increase in state support would impact their budget planning. Sen. Todd Young introduces bill to upgrade schools, public buildings

The REPORTER

Todd U.S. Senators Young (R-Ind.) and Catherine Cortez Masto (D-Nev.) have reintroduced the Public Buildings Renewal Act, bipartisan legislation that incentivizes private investment to rebuild schools and public buildings through public-private partnerships. Implementing public-private partnerships to fund repairs in just 20 percent of all government buildings would create 1.3 million jobs nationwide.

Tim Scott Senators (R-S.C.), Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.), Michael Bennet (D-Colo.), and Ben Cardin (D-Md.) also joined as cosponsors of the bipartisan legislation that aims to spur needed infrastructure improvements.

"Many of our schools, courthouses, hospitals, and other public buildings in Indiana are in need of upgrades, particularly as in-person learning resumes for our schools as we emerge from "Across Nevada, school buildings are in desperate need of repair, including some schools in rural counties that are over 100 years old, and we need to work across the aisle to spur the investments necessary to rebuild them," Sen. Cortez Masto said. "This legislation is a commonsense solution that will invest billions in our local schools and buildings while helping investment for the first time.

lic-private partnerships (P3s) have been primarily used for transportation projects and are currently ineligible to use federal tax-exempt facility bonds. The bipartisan Public Buildings Renewal Act would open the American public buildings market to P3s. The bill would create a $5 billion Private Activity Bond allocation for state and local governments, allowing public buildings, including hospitals and schools, to access private Americans across Once enacted, state and local governments would be able to enter into long-term contracts with a private sector company to design, build, finance, and/or operate the building for a defined period of time. Private investment in public buildings provides state and local governments with access to private capital, accelerated project development, reduced risk, and the ability to spread out payments over the length of the contractual term. The ownership of the building, however, would always remain with the government entity.

Senator Young has led efforts in the Senate to invest in our schools, including his letter to Secretary of Education last year to protect the funds for rural schools in accessing supplies, technology upgrades, curriculum, transportation, and other educator support. In 2019, Senator Young first introduced the Public Buildings Renewal Act of 2019.

Letter to the Editor

Is honesty really what voters want?

My Dad, in frustration, once said, "Maybe honesty ISN'T the best policy." He was referring to a news story about some lowlife who got away with murder, or perhaps a lesser offense. I don't remember.

Dad spoke mostly out of exasperation, but I remembered his words after former vice president Walter Mondale died. In his 1984 acceptance speech after winning the Democratic Presidential nomination, Mondale unflinchingly stated, "Mr. Reagan will raise taxes, and so will I. He won't tell you. I just did."

There were no doubt other factors contributing to Mondale's landslide loss to Ronald Reagan, but his tax admission was given the most credit – or blame.

Cynical observers may wonder how a seasoned politician like Mondale could make such a blunder, but here's another question: What does it say about an electorate that clamors for candor on one hand, while dismissing it so completely at the ballot box?

By the way, President Reagan raised taxes after his 1984 re-election.

Jean Ann (Stephenson) Maxwell February 6, 1949 - April 23, 2021

Jean Ann (Stephenson) Maxwell, 72, passed away peacefully on Friday evening, April 23, 2021 at the Pendleton, Ind., home of her loving stepdaughter, Kristi Owens. Jean was born on February 6, 1949 in Richmond, Ind., the second child and first daughter of the late Rev. Paul Barkley

Stephenson and Ernestine Lucille (Pask) Stephenson. As a Methodist preacher's kid, she grew up in various Indiana towns: Richmond, Winchester, Noblesville, Fort Wayne, Portland, and Munster. Jean graduated from Fort Wayne's North Side High School in 1967, received her Bachelor's degree in education from the University of Evansville in 1971, and her Master of Science degree in education from Butler University in 1973. Her working career began as an elementary school teacher, teaching three years at Conner Elementary School in Noblesville.

Jean met her dearest husband-to-be, Alva Franklin Maxwell, on a blind date in the summer of 1973. They were married at the Grace United Methodist Church in Rochester on November 2, 1975. Frank and Jean converted a barn on their Lapel, Ind., farm property into a beautiful home, keeping a few exposed timbers to be reminded of the barn's history. After marriage, Jean's career path changed from education to social work. She started a 38-year career working for Madison County's division of Indiana's Family and Social Services Administration. She worked tirelessly for some of the poorest and least among us, making countless visits to clients in nursing homes, always with a gracious smile and deep empathy.

Jean loved being a member of the First United Methodist Church in Noblesville, where her father had been the minister from 1955 to 1964. Jean was a nearly 50-year member of the Chancel Choir, and also enjoyed her Bible study group at the church. She was renowned as a cat lady, caring for dozens of cats over her lifetime, and for her prodigious Christmas baking output, which she shared with so many others.

Jean was the loving stepmother of Frank's two children, Brian and Kristi; step-grandmother to Kristi's three children, Nathon Owens, Brandon Owens (wife Ashley), and Julie Owens Williams (husband Justin); and six step-great-grandchildren, Kennedy Williams, Kemper Owens, Owen Williams, Jobie Owens, Kase Owens, and Bennett Owens. Jean is survived by her three siblings, Philip James Stephenson (wife Gerri) of Rehoboth Beach, Del., Paul Bruce Stephenson (wife Maria Schmidt) of Bloomington, Ind., and Claire Ann Smith (husband Gary) of Portland, Ind.. She is also survived by two nephews, Peter Stephenson (girlfriend Elena) and Michael Stephenson (wife Christine); three nieces, Michelle Taylor (husband Robert), Greta Stephenson and Marta Stephenson; grandnephews, Noah, Nicholas, Aiden, Maddox, and Jackson; grandnieces, Ashley and Taylor; and a great-grandnephew, Spencer.

Jean was preceded in death by her parents; her husband, Frank; stepson, Brian; and Kristi's husband, John Owens.

Visitation will be at 11 a.m. on Friday, April 30 in the Whitcomb Chapel at the First United Methodist Church, 2051 Monument St., Noblesville. A Celebration of Life service will follow at noon. Clergy officiating will include Bishop John Hopkins, the Rev. Jerry Rairdon and the Rev. Jill Moffett. A private burial service will follow at Crownland

Victor Elden Harber April 28, 1933 - April 1, 2020

Beloved school principal, Victor Elden Harber, 86, went to be with Jesus on Wednesday, April 1, 2020. He was born on April 28, 1933 in St. Charles, Va., and was one of Jerry and Cornie (née Cottrell) Harber's 11 children.

Jerry was killed in a coal-mining accident when Victor was just six years old, and Victor grew up in Rose Hill, Va. Despite his aversion to English class, he earned his G.E.D, a bachelor's degree in business management from Lincoln Memorial University, a master's degree in elementary education from Ball State University, and an administrative license. Victor had served two years in the U.S. Army, including a tour in Korea, so he earned his college education through the G.I. Bill. He devoted most of his adult career to education – as a high school and grade school teacher, and then, for 19 years as principal of Noblesville North Elementary School.

Before finding his vocation, Victor worked at a fuel pump testing facility in Willoughby, Ohio, where co-worker, Armour Campbell, who was also from Rose Hill, showed Victor a picture of his younger sister, Thelma.

Victor's heart melted, and he told Armour that he was going to marry Thelma. He quit his job, moved to Rose Hill, bought a gas station, and began courting her.

On the morning of her high school graduation, he presented her with an engagement ring and proposed. She happily accepted, and they were married on September 13, 1957. On their first wedding anniversary, they welcomed their daughter Vicki home, and their family was complete.

Victor had the privilege of being Vicki's sixth-grade math teacher. Although, like any child of a teacher, she was a bit apprehensive about being in her father's class, but by the end of the year, she told her parents she wished she could have him as her teacher for everything. Throughout grade school, Victor and his namesake could be found in his classroom or at their kitchen table with Victor grading papers while Vicki did her homework. Thelma worked at the grade school library, so education was the family business.

Victor also enjoyed volunteering in Vicki's after-school clubs. He served as the president of the Noblesville High School Band Parents Organization, and he was such a great helper with her Girl Scout troop – Hoosier Capitol Girl Scout Council Troop 651 – that they signed him up as an official member.

He volunteered for his community as well, serving in a variety of roles with the Lions Club, including president of the Noblesville chapter and district-level offices, too. In 2002, he was inducted into the Lincoln Memorial University's Hall of Fame for his leadership in the field of education.

When he and Thelma retired, they moved to Rose Hill, where they bought a rambling house with plenty of room to entertain family and friends, which they did frequently. They continued to volunteer, even spending a week on a crew repairing houses after Hurricane Katrina.

They kept in touch with their Noblesville friends, and eventually, they decided to return to Indiana, where their long-time home happened to be available for purchase. So, they settled back into their community, especially their church.

A constant throughout Victor's life was his faith. He, Thelma and Vicki were active members of Noblesville First United Methodist Church, and Victor served in just about every leadership role possible. He was, at various times, a lay leader, a Sunday School teacher, a worship leader and a member of countless committees. Early in his career in education, Victor left to study at a seminary and even served as the minister for two churches at the same time. But education was where God needed him, and he returned to teaching and administration for the rest of his career. Through his work, he improved the lives of thousands of children, which is even more impressive considering that one of his high school English teachers once described him as a "pleasant, but poor student."

Victor Harber died during the COVID-19 pandemic, so the celebration of his impactful life had to be postponed until now. His family and friends are eager to gather and share their stories of how Victor positively influenced them. His funeral service is scheduled for 11 a.m. on Saturday, May 1, 2021, at Noblesville First United Methodist Church, 2051 E. Monument St., Noblesville. Visitation will be immediately before the service from 9

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

It is actually reported that there is sexual immorality among you, and of a kind that even pagans do not tolerate: A man is sleeping with his father's wife. And you are proud! Shouldn't you rather have gone into mourning and have put out of your fellowship the man who has been doing this? For my part, even though I am not physically present, I am with you in spirit. As one who is present with you in this way, I have already passed judgment in the name of our Lord Jesus on the one who has been doing this.

Fifth-ranked Royals stay perfect for season

The Hamilton Southeastern girls tennis team won two dual meets early this week over two ranked Hamilton County opponents.

The Royals are ranked themselves, tied for fifth in this week's Indiana High School Tennis Coaches Association poll. Southeastern continued to justify that ranking with a 5-0 win over No. 16 Westfield on Monday, then beat No. 9 Fishers 3-2 Tuesday in the Mudsock dual. The Royals are unbeaten for the season at 7-0.

Southeastern won four of the five matches against the Shamrocks in straight sets. The three-set match came in No. 1 singles, with the Royals team of Misha Bukkasagaram and Emily Orme prevailing over Westfield's Maya Raymond and Olivia Krauss 6-3, 1-6, 6-0.

In the Mudsock battle, Bukkasagaram and Orme got HSE on the board first, winning in straight sets. Fishers' Lucy Loy took the No. 1 singles match to even the score, but Emma Bieberich got the Royals up 2-1 by winning at No. 3 singles.

The Southeastern No. 2 doubles team of Meghan Slaninka and Kaylee Etheredge clinched the Mudsock trophy for the Royals with their straight-set win. With the score 5-3 in the second set, Slaninka played a strong service game and Etheredge helped her out at the net.

"We knew it was going to be a close match with the wind being a big factor, and our girls came out ready to play from the start," said Southeastern coach Kirk Webber.

While that match was going on, No. 19-ranked Noblesville was hosting Westfield at the Noblesville East Middle School courts. The Millers beat the Shamrocks 4-1, sweeping all three singles matches in straight sets.

Noblesville's No. 2 doubles team of Sierra Leach and Lina Hamashuk pulled out a three-set victory, 7-5 in the third set. Westfield's Raymond and Krauss won the No. 1 doubles match in straight sets.

The Millers are now 7-3 for the sea-

"They've had a really good season," said Noblesville coach Tim Samons. "It's a young team that competes very well. I think they're surprising a lot of people."

In a Monday match, the Millers beat Lawrence Central 5-0. Noblesville's three singles players – No. 1 Alli Maskew, No. 2 Allie Stamm and No. 3 Josie Flinchum – all won 6-0, 6-0, while the Millers doubles teams only lost one game in each of their matches.

Last Friday, Noblesville defeated Brownsburg (now ranked No. 26) 4-1. Stamm won 6-2, 6-1 and Flinchum got a 6-3, 6-1 victory in singles. In doubles, 10-6 win, while Leach and Hamashuk Carlson (W) 6-4, 3-6, 7-5 cruised 6-0, 6-1.

Portland's, size 3-point efficiency too much for Pacers

Courtesy nba.com/pacers

After picking up three straight wins without its primary post players, the Pacers (29-32) had hopes of defeating a slumping Portland Trail Blazers (33-28) team at Bankers Life Fieldhouse.

However, the size and 3-point efficiency of Portland proved just too much. Using a 21-5 run in the second quarter to break the game open, the Blazers routed the Pacers, 133-112, for their first win in the last six contests. The visitors finished with a 67-44 rebounding advantage and shot 20-of-35 (57.1 percent) from deep.

"It was the threes," coach Nate Bjorkgren reiterated postgame. "We needed to do a better job of contesting better there. The glass got away from us there as well."

Seven Blazers finished in double figures. The usual suspects, Damian Lillard and CJ McCollum, recorded 23 and 20 apiece. However, the real story belonged to reserve player, Anfernee Simons. The IMG Academy product tallied a gamehigh 27 points on 9-of-13 shooting. He shot 9-of-10 from beyond the arc, missing only a heat-check three late in the contest.

You have to tip your cap, at some point," Doug McDermott said of Simons' performance. "He came in and just completely changed the game."

Malcolm Brogdon and Oshae Brissett strung together the first prominent run of LeVert added 16, while McDermott's 13 rounded out their double-digit scorers.

In the beginning, Indiana found offense through its veteran guards. LeVert and Brogdon combined to score the first 13 Pacers points. The first bucket from someone other than LeVert or Brogdon – a corner three from Edmond Sumner - broke a 13-all tie and gave Indiana a 16-13 lead. Oshae Brissett then followed with two triples, extending the Blue &

Gold's lead to 22-17 with 4:05 remaining. The Pacers kept a slim lead until back-to-back threes from Simons and Lillard grabbed two brief Portland advantages with 1:46 remaining. From there, the squads played tight down the stretch. Indiana got the last bucket of the frame, as McDermott knifed to the rim for a layup with 18.8 seconds left. They took a 35-34 lead into the second.

The second unit sustained a small lead early in the next period. Seven points in a 0:59 span from McConnell, including a baseline 3-pointer, snagged a 44-41 Indiana lead at the 9:19 mark. However, the Trail Blazers shooters responded quickly. Five from McCollum and a textbook step-back jumper from veteran Carmelo Anthony pushed Portland in front, 48-46.

Midway through the second, Portland recorded 18 points each for Indiana. Caris the game. The visitors used a 21-5 run whose 10th point of the frame brought over a 4:39 span to grab a 71-55 lead with the squad to 90-74 at the 5:26 mark. Lil-1:43 to go. The surge came from a mix of multiple second-chance opportunities and shots from long-range. Brogdon's 13-foot jumper finally halted the run and brought Indiana back to within 14.

> With less than 30 seconds left, Indiana earned a five-point swing to cut Portland's lead to 11. Brissett notched two free throws after McCollum's foul was upgraded to a Flagrant-1. With Indiana remaining on offense, Justin Holiday buried a three from the left baseline with 25.6 seconds left to head into halftime down 73-62. Upset with a late call, Lillard was then called for a technical foul before the teams entered the locker room

> The Pacers quickly cut Portland's lead to eight early in the third after Brogdon's technical free throw and LeVert's jumper from the left elbow. But, that would be as close as they would get for the remainder of the game.

> First, the defense had trouble stopping Lillard. The potent shooter helped the Blazers jump ahead 82-68 with 8:43

Portland soon stretched their lead to 18 on two separate occasions midway through the third. The only Blue & Gold player finding offense was LeVert, lard quickly negated the bucket though, knocking in his fourth three of the night to push the visitors' lead to 19.

Things got worse from there as Indiana had no answer for Simons. Already up 93-74, the third-year guard scored nine points of a 20-4 Portland run to extend the lead to 113-78 heading into the final frame. Through three quarters, he was 7-for-7 from beyond the arc.

Simons continued on, breaking his personal record by knocking in two more to start the fourth. Portland held a commanding 119-78 lead at the 10:35 mark.

With the game well in hand, Indiana rested its usual group in favor of the deep bench. New two-way contract player, Amida Brimah, notched his first NBA points on a nice post move with 7:55 to go. 0:58 seconds later, he gave the crowd a highlight alley-oop slam off a lob from Aaron Holiday.

The deep reserves ended the game on a bright note for fans, outscoring Portland's group 34-20 in the frame. However, the Pacers are hoping for more than a moral victory in their next outing. They will face a tough Brooklyn Nets squad on April 29.
