Goodbye, my heart

By STU CLAMPITT
Chasing Wisdom

Two weeks ago, I was driving my daughter down some miscellaneous midnight road to deliver stacks and packs of The Reporter. She sat beside me with a stuffed Pikachu from Build-A-Bear and she offered some questionable music trivia.

Justin Bieber's "Ghost" was on the radio. At the line, "If I can't be close to you, I settle for the ghost of you," she turned the volume down.

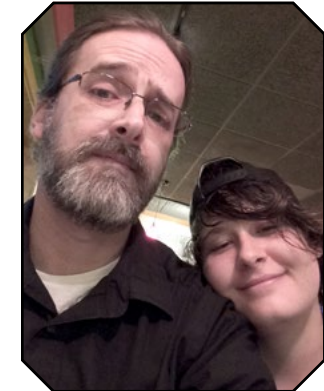

"Did you know this song is about his mom dying?" she asked.

"No," I replied.

"I didn't either until I saw the video," she said.

"There are all these scenes with them together and then he's pouring her ashes in the ocean at the end while he imagines her there. Until I saw that, I kinda thought it was about some guy killing a girl because he couldn't have her, but it turns out it's really sweet."

We laughed together and I said, "I just thought it was about some dude who couldn't get over the girl who broke up with him and

Hamilton County Parks conducts beneficial prairie burn near Koteewi

The REPORTER

On March 3, Hamilton County Parks performed a controlled prairie burn on the south side of Strawtown Koteewi Park, the county's largest park, which has more than 300 acres of protected and maintained native prairie.

During the prescribed burn, a necessary land management practice, the trails in that area of the park were closed and access to Koteewi Lake and Koteewi Aerial Adventures was restricted to ensure public safety.

After the successful completion of the burn, which was strategically coordinated by specialists in the field, the prairie appeared charred and damaged. However, park officials were quick to note that such burns are actually beneficial and part of the ongoing maintenance of the park's prairie system.

Burns kill non-prairie and shallow-rooted invasive plant species, allowing for increased growth of native prairie plants, which have deeper roots, unaffected by the heat of the burn. Left unchecked, trees and shrubs gradually move in and "choke out" the prairie's native grasses. This natural process is called succession. Controlled burns clear out the unwanted woody vegetation that shade and restrict the growth of prairie plants.

When in the park this spring visitors will notice the preferred native plant life becoming increasingly evident. In the meantime, staff at the Taylor Center of Natural History, located in Strawtown Koteewi Park, invite visits to their facility to learn even more about the benefits of controlled prairie burns and other responsible land management practices undertaken by Hamilton County Parks and Recreation.

Hamilton County jury finds Pendleton woman guilty of conspiracy to commit murder

Katrina Fouts conspired to kill her husband in April 2020

The REPORTER

On Monday evening, a jury empaneled in Hamilton Superior Court No. 3 found Katrina Louise Fouts, 56, Pendleton guilty of conspiracy to commit murder and failure to report human remains following a six-day trial.

Conspiracy to commit murder is a Level 1 felony, which carries a sentencing range of 20 to 40 years in prison with the advisory sentence being 30 years. Failure to report human remains is a Class A misdemeanor, which carries a maximum of sentence of 365 days in jail.

The Hamilton County Prosecuting Attorney's

Office brought charges against Mrs. Fouts in September 2020 under cause number 29D03-2009-MR-005701 relating to the April 2020 death of David Michael Fouts of Pendleton. Mrs. Fouts had been charged with murder, conspiracy to commit murder, and failure to report human remains. Although Mrs. Fouts was found guilty of conspiracy to commit murder, the jury found her not guilty of the allegation of murder.

"I am extremely proud of Chief Deputy Prosecutor Andre Miksha and Deputy Prosecutor Eric Massey for their hard work and dedication in this case," said Hamilton County Prosecuting Attorney D. Lee Buckingham II. "They have worked tirelessly on this complex case with detectives from the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office under very difficult circumstances throughout the COVID-19 pandemic.

felt haunted by her memory, but I can see how YOU would hear this with some ‘Dexter’ serial killer vibe.”

We laughed again.

“Ghost” is probably not about Justin Bieber’s mom, but my kiddo had a long history of misinterpreting music.

She was convinced AC/DC’s lyrics “Dirty deeds and they’re done dirt cheap” was “Dirty Deeds and the Dunder Chee.”

In her mind, Dirty Deeds was some underworld mercenary and the Dunder Chee was his little sidekick. She had this image of the Dunder Chee as a 40-year-old Gary Coleman if he was a tattooed powerlifter who did stuff like light the fuse on the dynamite or throw the oversized switch on the high voltage lines.

God, I love that girl! She brought more joy and pain and confusion and hope into my life than I thought I could feel.

I never knew I had a daughter until she found me when she was 20. It was the day after my father’s birthday on the year after he took his own life.

The first night she stayed in this old house, thus becoming the fourth generation in my family to do so, an odd feeling of vulnerability and protectiveness washed over me. I told her, “You are going to break my heart, little girl.”

And she did. Over and over.

She frustrated the hell out of me more often than I care to admit. She made me laugh like no one else could. And she broke my heart so many times in so many ways. March 1, she broke it one last time.

A little after midnight she sent a text saying she didn’t feel good. She said she had “a stomach bug.”

I texted back, “How many legs does it have?”

That was her go to answer for comedy in questions of quantity. It was, after all, the answer to the Ultimate Question of Life, the Universe, and Everything.

How many burritos do you want me to make? 42.

How much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck could chuck wood? 42.

Around 2 a.m. that same night, she called me in a moment of depression and personal struggle.

I cannot count the post-midnight emergency calls from her over these seven years. Some calls ended with her coming home for a few days, a week, a month . . . or just long enough to have me cook a meal and watch half a movie until she was ready to talk.

Some calls ended with redeye flights or train tickets to bring her home from random parts of the country. Often, I’d drive for hours each direction to gather her up from some bad situation and bring her home myself.

There were so many trips to the ER to get her into psych facilities, trying to rebalance her meds when she was suicidal.

The March 1 call ended with her telling me she felt better for hearing my voice and that she’d call me tomorrow. She sent me a text right after we got off the phone, which read, “I’m just going to sleep it off. I’m fine.”

An hour later she took pills and overdosed one last time.

She never woke up.

I am left with that Justin Bieber song playing in my head.

“If I can’t be close to you, I settle for the ghost of you. I miss you more than life.”

Kiddo, I am respecting your oft-spoken wish to not have a gravesite or a funeral.

To my friends and loved ones, I ask that you respect my wishes in the following: Do not ask more about what happened. Everything I have to say today is on this page. When that changes, I will tell you.

P.S. While editing this, I just realized I was 42 years old when she showed up in my life. I think she’d laugh at me for finding that little bit of Code when it’s too late to share it with her.

GUILTY

I would be remiss to not also recognize the considerable investment of time and resources by the Hamilton County Sheriff’s Office, especially by lead detective G. Lockhart and his fellow detectives, during the homicide’s investigation and preparations for this trial.”

The Court entered judgment of acquittal as to the murder count but took the jury’s guilty verdicts under advisement pending the sentencing hearing set for 1:30 p.m. on March 31. Mrs. Fouts is still being held at the Hamilton County Jail awaiting sentencing.

This was the first Hamilton County murder investigation during the COVID pandemic and the first murder case that Prosecutor Lee Buckingham’s office has brought to trial this year, during which the courts postponed many jury trials until recent weeks.

PREVAIL

Advocating for Victims of Crime & Abuse

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn’t something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don’t often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we’re breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Noblesville charity providing food, water, medicine in Ukraine

By ADAM PINSKER
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

In February, Noblesville-based Mission to Ukraine prepared for the possibility Russia would invade Ukraine. The war has gone on for two weeks now, and the reality of the situation is setting in. The mission, headquartered in Zhitomir, Ukraine, usually assists women in crisis and children with special needs. Now, the organization is handing out food, water, medicine, and clothes to those in Ukraine who need it. Don Lawton is a board member for Mission to Ukraine. "I got word today that one of the dads I met at camp this summer, who has a daughter that's in a wheelchair and is basically a quadriplegic, [Russian forces] bombed her school out in the village," Lawton said. Lawton says they usually have a hundred volunteers at the mission in Zhitomir, but less than half of them are still in Ukraine. "The other 60 percent have left, gone to Poland, the Czech Republic, I think some are going to Germany, Romania. They're going wherever they have relatives and safe shelter," Lawton said. The remaining volunteers are still in Zhitomir, which is two hours west of the capital city of Kyiv. Lawton says Mission to Ukraine is also seeing an influx of refugees from the eastern part of Ukraine as Russian forces advance.

"I saw a picture today of one of the churches that was damaged, and I was in that church last July," Lawton said. "It's unbelievable to think is this really happening, to a place that I am familiar with." Lawton says he is planning a trip to Ukraine in the coming weeks to help his volunteers. The Mission to Ukraine organization is taking donations, 100 percent of which go to helping Ukrainians affected by the war. Click here to donate.

Hamilton County road construction projects about to get underway

By FRED SWIFT
ReadTheReporter.com

The cycle of freezing and thawing weather has been hard on road surfaces and "probably worse than last year," according to County Highway Director Brad Davis. But, patching crews are working daily and the recent opening of "hot mix" asphalt plants will serve to assist in the effort to provide more permanent patching, Davis says. The county highway department is responsible for about 560 miles of roadways, mostly in central and northern Hamilton County. Carmel and Fishers have now taken over control of most roads in the southern part of the county through annexation. Beyond patching, the county is planning the resurfacing of some roads this year. The county is awaiting word this month on its request for $1 million from the Indiana Department of Transportation which will allow a larger resurfacing program, Davis notes. Besides normal road repairs and repaving, the highway department will continue the massive improvement of State Road 37 designed to eliminate grade level intersections between Noblesville and Interstate 69. Also set to get underway is the state's rebuilding of the intersection of 276th Street and U.S. 31, a project in which the county is cooperating. Eventually, 276th Street will become a major east-west thoroughfare from State Road 19 to Sheridan. County Highway is also building a roundabout at 191st Street and Grassy Branch Board near Westfield in an attempt to improve traffic flow in that growing area. And, a new bridge is to be built this year on 266th Street over Cicero Creek. And, in a non-motorized trail project, work will get underway this year on the Steven Nation Greenway between Cicero and Koteevi Park near Strawtown.

Forgey announces Noblesville school board reelection bid

Submitted
Dr. Joe Forgey, who currently serves as the president of the Noblesville Schools Board of Trustees, has announced his intention to seek re-election.

Forgey

"I'm running for reelection because I'm committed to continuing this excellence," Forgey said. "I want to ensure we best prepare Noblesville students for the future, maintain our high property values, attract new business growth, and spend our public tax dollars wisely. The schools are the heart of our community, and their strength directly relates to the strength of Noblesville overall." A longtime Noblesville pediatric dentist, Forgey was elected to the board in 2018 and his current term is set to expire at the end of this year. "As a proud grandpa of 13, with six of my grandchildren in Noblesville Schools, I have a personal and vested interest in the high quality of our schools," Forgey said. "Noblesville Schools is a role model district and as board president I'm proud to support the outstanding service our teachers, staff and leaders provide every day to over 10,000 students in our community." Under Forgey's leadership Noblesville Schools has seen multiple state and national recognitions for outstanding academic achievements, including being named in the top 1 percent nationally for STEM, National Advanced Placement (AP) honors, and being designated a national Best Community for Music Education. Noblesville Schools graduates are also among the highest scholarship and advanced college credit earners in the state, with Noblesville recognized as a state and national leader in workforce development and college readiness. Other accomplishments Forgey has overseen during his term include: • The implementation of over 50 school safety enhancements, including the addition of full-time school resource officers in all schools. • Strong fiscal management, including a balanced budget, high credit ratings, low interest rates, and a reduction of the total property tax rate for three years in a row. • Growth management, including school and athletic facility renovations, the construction of a new community center and stadium, and the launch of a district solar power initiative. • High-quality staffing during an intense labor shortage and the largest pay increase to Noblesville teachers in approximately 40 years. Forgey is a member of the Indiana School Board Association and serves on the Noblesville Parks Board. He is a graduate of Butler University, the Indiana School of Dentistry, and the Miller Ambassadors program. He coached basketball at the Boys and Girls Club of Noblesville and soccer with the Noblesville Soccer Club. Forgey has lived in Noblesville since 1977. He and his late wife, Cynthia, have five children and 13 grandchildren. For more information about his school reelection bid, follow his Facebook page.

Indiana lawmakers to prohibit deceptive advertising in health care, improve transparency, safety for Hoosier patients

The REPORTER

New legislation was passed by the 2022 Indiana General Assembly to improve transparency for health care patients by prohibiting deceptive advertising used to promote the services of health care professionals.

Authored by state Senators Kevin Boehnlein
(R-Greenville) and Liz
Brown (R-Fort Wayne), Senate Bill 239 calls for disciplinary action against a professional if their advertising includes deceptive or misleading information or does not prominently state their profession or license.

"We applaud the bill's authors for their leadership, standing up for patient safety and promoting greater transparency so Hoosiers can better understand who is providing their care," said Elizabeth Struble, MD, a family medicine physician practicing in North Manchester, president of the Indiana State Medical Association and representative of the Indiana Physician Coalition.

In 2020, an independent survey of consumers found that one out of every four Hoosiers was not confident which medical professional they saw the past few years.
Such confusion, the coalition believes, is caused by the "alphabet soup" of abbreviations that are often used to identify members of the health care team: MD,
DO, APRN, NP, CRNA,
PA, DNP, etc.

To clear up this confusion, a new law was needed to require identification based on license type, such as physician, nurse practitioner, nurse anesthetist, physician assistant, and others that are more recognizable by name.

Passage of the bill also limits the use of medical specialty designations to physician specialists, such as anesthesiologist, cardiologist, dermatologist, family practice physician, ophthalmologist, orthopedist, psychiatrist, surgeon, etc.

"Health care professionals at every level should be proud of their profession and want to help patients make an informed choice when seeking out options for treatment," said Carrie Davis, MD, a physician and dermatologist practicing in Bloomington, representing the Indiana Academy of Dermatology.

"Now, a patient will be able to seek that treatment with confidence knowing they can trust the education, training and license of the health care expert they've chosen to see."

If signed into law by Gov. Eric Holcomb, health care providers will have until January 2023 to comply with the advertising and marketing provisions.

OneZone, Noblesville, Westfield chambers launch mental health first aid series with county support

The REPORTER

Invest Hamilton County is launching a series of employer mental health education events in collaboration with the OneZone, Noblesville and Westfield Chambers of Commerce. This series is made possible through support from the Hamilton County Council and Commissioners, via County ARPA funding, and support from Hamilton County Community Foundation.

"We know that if done right, the workplace can be the most effective referral to care for individuals struggling with mental health," said County Councilor Steven Nation. "Education like this helps us take another step forward in combating the mental health challenges in our community and helps address the critical labor shortages being faced by businesses."

According to Mental Health America, one in five American adults will have a diagnosable mental health condition in any given year. Through Mental Health First Aid, Hamilton County employers can now provide adequate mental health resources to their employees.

Mental Health First Aid is a one-day course designed to teach employers to identify, understand and respond to signs of mental illnesses. The upcoming event on April 19 will be the second in a series hosted by the local chambers.

"I would recommend this training for those that need that extra boost of confidence to be able to assist and help someone with any mental illness or even to understand the resources available," said Christina Stenske, a Human Resources Administrator at Metroplastics, who attended the first Mental Health First Aid training. "Listening and communication are wonderful tools when we put them together, we can better support each other. This training provides the proof that we all need a little help sometimes."

The training is being conducted by trainers from Mental Health America of Indiana (MHA).

"The pandemic has exacerbated the mental health challenges being faced by members of our community," said County Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt. "If our neighbors and coworkers struggling with their mental health are able to retain employment while getting the help they need, they are more likely to stay connected to their support networks and less likely to fall through the cracks."

The next session presented by Invest Hamilton County and the local chambers will be held Tuesday, April 19 at the Bridgewater Country Club. Registration is available online through the OneZone Chamber, Noblesville Chamber and Westfield Chamber websites. Sessions will also occur on Aug. 16 and Nov. 15 in 2022.

Noblesville PD seeks CALEA re-accreditation

The REPORTER

A team of assessors from the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, Inc. (CALEA) will conduct an assessment on March 14 and 15 to examine all aspects of the Noblesville Police Department (NPD). Areas to be examined include policy and procedures, management, operations, and support services. NPD must comply with 169 standards in order to gain re-accreditation status. “CALEA accreditation has served to demonstrate the agency’s on-going commitment to excellence and increasing public value through high quality service to our community,” said NPD Chief John Mann. “It demonstrates our commitment to procedural justice, ethical policing and transparency in service delivery. We look forward to re-accreditation with the Commission.” As part of the onsite assessment, agency employees and members of the community are invited to offer comments at a public information session at 5 p.m. on Monday, March 14 at Noblesville City Hall, Room A214, 16 S. 10th St., Noblesville. Agency employees and members of the community are also invited to offer comments by calling (317) 770-2030 between 1 and 3 p.m. on Monday, March 14. Comments will be taken by the assessment team. Telephone comments, as well as appearances at the public information session, are limited to 10 minutes and must address the agency’s ability to comply with CALEA standards. Copies of the standards are available at NPD, located at 135 S. 9th St. The local contact is Lieutenant Curt Kinman, and he can be reached at (317) 776-6340. Anyone wishing to submit written comments about NPD’s ability to comply with the standards for accreditation may send them to the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement, Inc. (CALEA), 13575 Heathcote Blvd., Suite 320, Gainesville, VA 20155. The assessment team is composed of law enforcement practitioners from similar but out-of-state agencies. The assessors will review written materials and interview individuals. The assessors are Chief (ret.) Mark Brooks, retired Chief of Police of the Marion Police Department in Marion, N.C., and Mr. Alex Cueto, retired from the Miami Police Department in Miami, Fla. Once the assessors complete their review of the agency, they report back to the full commission, which will then decide if re-accreditation will be granted. “CALEA accreditation continues to provide value to the department by ensuring strong internal review and accountability throughout our operational and administrative activities,” said Chief Mann. “The accreditation process allows the members of the Agency, as well as the members of the community, to be confident that the policies and procedures that guide the Noblesville Police Department are based on current, effective and equitable best practices in policing.” Accreditation is for a four-year period, during which time the agency must submit annual reports attesting to the continued compliance with those standards under which it was initially accredited. Additionally, CALEA Compliance Service Managers conduct annual compliance reviews. This is the second re-accreditation process for the Noblesville Police Department.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Here is a trustworthy saying that deserves full acceptance: Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners—of whom I am the worst. But for that very reason I was shown mercy so that in me, the worst of sinners, Christ Jesus might display his immense patience as an example for those who would believe in him and receive eternal life. Now to the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only God, be honor and glory for ever and ever. Amen.

The IBCA Academic All-State program is one where academic prowess and athletic prowess both are considered in the selections. Items such as grade-point average and academic class rank are considered along with athletic performance in areas such as points per game, rebounds per game and assists per game. In most years, college board scores also are considered. For the second consecutive year, because of the COVID-19 pandemic, some students not taking the SAT or ACT and some colleges not requiring those results, the IBCA waived its previous college board requirements.

"The quality of these student-athletes shows that success in academics and success in athletics are not separate entities," Witty said. "Rather, in many cases, a player's success in the classroom directly contributes to his or her success on the floor."

IBCA-member head coaches from schools across the state may nominate their senior student-athletes who meet criteria that include a 3.5 GPA or higher on a 4.0 scale and a class rank in the upper 25 percent of one's class. Traditionally, the IBCA has required an SAT score of 1,100 (on the reading and math sections) or an ACT composite score of 24 on the college boards, but, as mentioned earlier, those requirements were waived this year.

Once nominations were received, an IBCA committee reviewed the information and determined awards for first team and honorable mention.

Those selected will receive certificates from the IBCA for their honor. Plans are for certificates to be distributed in PDF form to coaches via e-mail during April for the coach to print. The coach then may present the certificate to each honored player sometime before the conclusion of the 2021-22 academic year.

The IBCA has selected an Academic All-State team for boys since 1973. The program was expanded to include a girls' Academic All-State team in 1980.

With crowds in full force last week, the boys' IHSAA state tournament got underway with sectional play at 64 different sites. While we are now down to a "Sweet 16" in each class, and regionals are set to begin this coming Saturday, three players have earned Week 18 IBCA/Franciscan Health Player of the Week honors for their strong play during the early rounds of tourney play.

Fort Wayne Snider senior Karson Jenkins, Westfield senior Braden Smith, and Bloomington North junior JaQualon Roberts have been selected as winners for Feb. 28 to Mar. 5 in the recognition program coordinated by the Indiana Basketball Coaches Association. Jenkins is the recipient in District 1, Smith takes home honors in District 2, while Roberts is the winner in District 3. This is the second time this season that Jenkins and Smith have received this award for their accomplishments.

The No. 11 Westfield Shamrocks claimed their first-ever sectional title by winning three games in a loaded Sectional 8. Senior Braden Smith has been a key cog the last four seasons, and last week he extended his career, as he helped the 'Rocks to three wins. Tuesday, Westfield took on No. 2 Fishers. Not only did the Shamrocks win, but they won by a convincing 62-44 margin. Smith was instrumental, knocking down a scorching 11 of 16 shots, including 5 of 9 from deep, and scoring 28 in the opener. He posted a double-double with his 10 assists, plus he added six rebounds and four steals to his stat line.

In its semi-final game on Friday, Westfield took care of Hamilton Southeastern with relative ease, 77-50. Smith, a 6-0 point guard, was again locked in, making 8 of 11 shots from the floor and 5 of 8 from outside, scoring 22 points in victory. He handed out seven assists, collected three rebounds and a pair of steals, plus he even blocked a shot.

Saturday, in the championship game, the 'Rocks took on backyard rival and No. 4 Carmel. In what proved to be its toughest matchup of the week, Westfield prevailed in a tight one, 59-54. Smith continued his strong shooting, making 9 of 13 shots, including a 3 of 4 effort from behind the arc, and scoring 22 points for the second night in a row. The Purdue University commit again contributed in multiple ways, dishing out seven assists, pulling down seven rebounds, and picking off a steal.

Fort Wayne Snider senior Karson Jenkins helped the Panthers to three wins last week, including their second Sectional title in three seasons. Tuesday, in their matchup with Fort Wayne North Side, the Panthers escaped with a narrow 60-59 outcome. Jenkins was dialed in, scoring 26 of his team's points, including knocking down a pair of shots from deep and 4 of 5 from the free throw line. He added nine rebounds, three assists, and a steal in the first-round victory.

Friday, the Panthers took on host DeKalb. Jenkins, a 6-1 guard, managed to again affect more than half of his team's offense, scoring 25 points and dishing out three assists, as Snider defeated DeKalb, 60-52. Jenkins knocked down three more shots from long range, and he again had a well-rounded game, adding nine rebounds, three steals, and a pair of blocked shots in the effort.

The next night, in the championship game, Snider and Jenkins held off a tough Northrop squad, winning a nail-biter, 72-69. Jenkins was electric, scoring 39 points on 13 of 23 shooting, he made 6 of 10 3-point attempts, and he was a near perfect 7-8 from the charity stripe. The Division II Barry University commit added six rebounds, five of them offensive, and he handed out three assists in the triumph.

Junior JaQualon Roberts is a talented underclassman, and last week he helped No. 17 Bloomington North to its first sectional title since 2014 by dominating the glass each game. Tuesday, the Cougars took on Columbus East, and in what proved to be their easiest matchup of the week, they won a tough one, 48-37. Roberts posted his first double-double of the week, scoring 23 points and grabbing an impressive 21 caroms (seven offensive). He also handed out an assist and blocked a shot for good measure.

The play of Westfield's Braden Smith during last week's Noblesville sectional helped the Shamrocks to a first-ever championship. Smith was honored as the District 2 Player of the Week by the IBCA for his performance.

Friday proved much tougher for Bloomington North, as it took them two extra periods to knock off the Columbus North Bulldogs, 60-55, in double overtime. The 6-7 Roberts was a modest 4 of 6 from the field, but he made 6 of 8 free throws, scoring 14 points in the contest. The Junior forward came through with another double-double, pulling down 15 more rebounds, plus he contributed three assists, two seals, and blocked another shot in the 40-minute game.

Saturday's championship game saw the Cougars take on crosstown rival Bloomington South, and in a game played at a much slower pace, Bloomington North survived the Panthers, 32-28, in a matchup that even saw one overtime period added. Despite the low-scoring outcome, Roberts somehow managed his third double-double in as many tries on the week. He scored 10 points, even knocked down a 3-pointer, plus he collected another 11 rebounds, giving him 47 in the three tourney games. He also made some key defensive plays, stealing the ball three times and blocking a pair of shots.

This is the 14th season for the Indiana Basketball Coaches Association Player of the Week program, but just the second season it is being presented by Franciscan Health, a corporate sponsor of the Indiana Basketball Coaches Association.

Player of the Week winners are chosen each week from each of the IHSAA's three districts. Girls winners were chosen through the Monday following the IHSAA Girls State Finals. Boys winners will be chosen through the Monday following the IHSAA Boys State Finals.

Garland's big fourth quarter sends Cavs past Pacers

By WHEAT HOTCHKISS

It is March, so it was only fitting that Tyrese Haliburton and the Pacers had an upset on their mind on Tuesday night at Gainbridge Fieldhouse.

Haliburton scored 16 points in the third quarter to help Indiana open up an eight-point lead over the East-contending Cavaliers.

But the fourth quarter belonged to Darius Garland. The Cavs' All-Star guard scored 21 of his game-high 41 points in the final frame to lead Cleveland (38-27) past Indiana (22-45), 127-124. He hit the game-sealing free throws and also dished out 13 assists as the Cavs swept the season series with the Blue & Gold for the first time since 2007-08.

Haliburton led the Pacers with 25 points on 9-of-14 shooting (4-of-7 from 3-point range) and also dished out nine assists.

But Garland and a crucial late mistake doomed Indiana to a fourth straight loss to Cleveland.

Trailing by eight entering the final frame, Cleveland quickly erased that deficit. The Cavs opened the frame with a 9-0 run, retaking the lead on two Garland free throws less than two minutes into the quarter.

The lead changed hands four more times over the next two minutes. Garland was eventually able to give the Cavaliers a small cushion with five straight points and continued to make play after play for Cleveland down the stretch.

He dished to Dean Wade for an open three to push Cleveland's lead to five with 6:20 remaining, got to the rim a minute later to push the lead to seven, then answered Buddy Hield's three with a triple of his own to keep the Pacers at arm's length.

But the Pacers didn't fold. Another three by Hield and a slam from Jalen Smith cut the deficit to 120-117 with 2:59 remaining. Hield then drove and kicked to Smith for the game-tying three with 1:41 remaining.

After Evan Mobley missed on the other end, Malcolm Brogdon got to the rim for the go-ahead layup as the clock hit 1:00. Out of a timeout, the Cavs went back to Garland, who converted a tough finish over Smith.

Once again, Brogdon got to the rim and this time Mobley goaltended on his attempt, putting the Pacers back in front with 40 seconds to play. But after a brief stoppage to review the call, Garland faced down the floor. His layup fell off the front of the rim, but Mobley was there to put it back up and in with 33.6 seconds left.

After a timeout, Brogdon got past Wade, but his shot was swatted away at the rim by Lamar Stevens. A confused Smith then fouled Garland, not realizing the Cavaliers were in the bonus. The All-Star guard hit both foul shots and then Brogdon turned it over on the other end to seal Indiana's fate.

"It was just a bad play on my part," Smith said of the mental error. "My team did such a great job battling back and I kind of threw all that away with that foul. Obviously I take full responsibility for it, but at the end of the day you've got to learn from it and move on. But it's going to sting for a minute."

Eight Pacers finished in double figures in the loss. Goga Bitadze, Smith, and Duane Washington Jr. each scored 15, while Hield added 14 points on 4-of-4 3-point shooting and eight assists.

The Pacers committed five turnovers in the first four minutes on Tuesday, allowing the Cavs to jump out to a 14-5 lead. Cleveland led by as many as 12 in the frame, but the Blue & Gold came charging back behind their second unit.

Rookie guard Chris Duarte, back on the court after missing the past three games with a toe injury, scored six quick points off the bench and then Bitadze added a 3-pointer to trim Indiana's deficit to 26-22.

After two Lauri Markkanen free throws, Bitadze wrestled a rebound away from Kevin Love and scored to bring Indiana back within four. But the Cavs answered, with Garland tossing a lob to Mobley for a slam on the other end and then Markkanen tipping in a Love miss their next trip down the floor to give the visitors a 32-24 lead after one.

The Pacers mounted another run early in the second quarter, putting together a 10-1 spurt — capped by a 3-pointer from Hield that tied the game at 37. The Cavaliers quickly reponded with five straight points to surge back in front, but the Pacers remained within striking distance thanks to rookie guard Washington.

The former Ohio State Buckeye scored 14 points in the first 6:15 of the second quarter, including seven straight Indiana points in one stretch.

The Pacers tied the game again with 3:45 remaining in the half, following a memorable sequence where Isaiah Jackson caught Rajon Rondo's floater with one hand, then triggered a fastbreak which Haliburton finished with an acrobatic layup.

The Cavs once again built up a four-point lead, but the Pacers scored four points in the final 40 seconds to knot up the score at 63 heading into halftime.

Haliburton came to life at the start of the second half. The 22-year-old guard knocked down a jumper on Indiana's first possession of the third quarter, added another at 9:52, then drilled a three at 8:58. After connecting with Oshae Brissett for a layup, Haliburton drained another trey at 7:33 to give Indiana a 78-73 lead.

After a timeout, he connected with Jackson on a lob, then added a runner at 5:25 and yet another three at 4:49. The Pacers continued to extend their lead, with back-to-back 3-pointers from Smith and Bitadze pushing Indiana's lead to 97-88 with 1:38 remaining in the third quarter.

Haliburton hit one of two free throws with 20.3 seconds left to cap a 16-point quarter, but Stevens' dunk on the other end made it a 98-90 game entering the fourth.

"Guys played their butts off, really," Pacers head coach Rick Carlisle said after the game. "After a rough start, we hung in and grinded our way to get it close at half-time and get ourselves a lead. They made a run in the fourth. Middle of the fourth, we made a run to get the lead back. We just fell victim to a great player we had a hard time getting under control all night."

Jackson finished with 12 points on 6-of-7 shooting, eight boards, and three blocks in the loss. Duarte added 11 points on 4-of-14 shooting.

Mobley finished with 22 points, 12 rebounds, and five steals for Cleveland, while Markkanen added 21 points on 8-of-14 shooting.

The Pacers will have three days off before resuming action with a two-game road trip over the weekend that visits San Antonio on Saturday and Atlanta on Sunday.
