Noblesville Soirée raises money for five local groups

By STU CLAMPITT
news@readthereporter.com

Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen's Summer Soirée held July 8 at Embassy Suites Hotel and Conference Center, 13700 Conference Center Drive S., was a huge success with every table filled and lots of money given in support of local organizations.

Beneficiaries receiving funds raised included The Cooper House, Senior Citizens Organizations, Inc., VFW Post 6246 in Noblesville, Noblesville Youth Sports Alliance and the Noblesville American Legion.

Mayor Jensen spoke about the growth he has seen in the city during his administration's tenure, which includes $1 billion in committed private capital development in the last two and a half years.

One of the night's highlights was a game called Heads Or Tails.

Participants bought strings of beads, with each set of beads being one chance or "life."

Duke donates to Sheridan school, aids accelerated reading all around

The REPORTER

Duke Energy has partnered with Sheridan Elementary School to promote reading. Through a Duke Energy Foundation grant, Sheridan Elementary has received $2,800 to support the Sheridan Elementary Readers program.

Dagny Zupin, Community Relations Liaison for Duke Energy, facilitated the grant with Sheridan Schools.

"Duke Energy Indiana is proud to support Sheridan School Corporation's continued use of Accelerated Reader," Zupin said. "Through Duke Energy's contribution, Accelerated Reader will promote at-home access to reading materials, the high school peer program and high IREAD scores."

Funds will be used to purchase Accelerated Reader, which is primarily used as a tool for a reading program that pairs high school students with third graders as part of the Sheridan High School Education Professions Pathway. Sheridan Elementary officials are grateful for the Duke Energy Foundation and the commitment of Duke Energy to give back to the community.

"Developing a love of reading is one of the most important things we can do as educators, and we are grateful that Duke Energy shares our desire to promote reading for our students," Sheridan Elementary Principal Valerie Roberts said.

Superintendent Dave Mundy added, "Duke Energy has been a great partner for Sheridan Schools for many years, and this is just another example of how they are more than our energy provider, but a true partner."

Garrett goes north for speedcube competition

The REPORTER

This past weekend, some of the fastest solvers of the Rubik's Cube gathered in Toronto, Canada, to compete in the World Cube Association (WCA) Rubik's North American Championship, the largest speedcubing competition since the pandemic.

Local speedcuber Luke Garrett placed third in the classic 3x3 event. Click here to see how he did compared to the 500 other participants from 22 countries.

The competition was made up of a variety of fun events. From the classic 3x3 all the way up to the 7x7, competitors battled it out to be crowned the fastest. There were even one-handed and blind-folded events.

The competition is officially recognized by the WCA, a worldwide non-profit organization that governs official speedcubing competitions, and sponsored by Rubik's Cube, owned by Toronto-based leading global children's entertainment company Spin Master.

Will Garrison vs. Paxson be the headliner this election cycle, or is it another race?

Do Hamilton County Democrats sense a weak link in the Republican line-up of candidates for this fall's election?

Greg Garrison won the GOP nomination for county prosecutor in the May primary in a political upset over incumbent Lee Buckingham. Many Republican "insiders" and officeholders were disappointed to see Buckingham lose.

FRED SWIFT
The County Line

The only candidate for countywide office on the Democratic ticket is Jessica Paxson running for prosecutor against Garrison. This may be no accident as party leaders may feel Republicans who are unhappy with Buckingham's loss will jump the fence for Paxson, who is a deputy in Buckingham's office.

But, Paxson's chances are still not great. It will be something akin to paddling upstream on White River at flood stage. No Democrat has won countywide office for 64 years, and that's a big reason the party has no candidates for most local offices.

Democrats filed Paxson's candidacy and a handful of others at the last minute before a July 5 deadline. One of those is Matt McNally who will oppose long-time State Rep. Jerry Torr. While probably not in great danger, Torr will need to campaign vigorously in a district that includes most of Clay Township and a portion of Washington. It is virtually all suburban, and some of its voters have shown a willingness to "scratch" for a Democrat.

Torr won a relatively close re-election (by Hamilton County standards) in 2020. On issues such as abortion and gun rights, the candidates' positions this year may prove important.

So, while some may think the interesting race locally will be between Garrison and Paxson, it may in fact be more the Torr-McNally contest that becomes the one to watch.

FUTURE DREAMS

to succeed in ways I never thought possible.

I am so happy I found this school because, without it, I would undoubtedly have fewer opportunities in my future. After I graduate in November 2022, I plan on attending Fort Lewis College to major in elementary education with a minor in adventure education. My dual credit pathway will give me a head start on this experience as well!

Throughout my time in school and in The Excel Center, I have learned that I want to work with kids and help them learn in ways they never thought were possible. Learning should be fun – like it's been for me – and I want to create a way to integrate outdoors and education and social skills all into school. My time at The Excel Center is making this possible for me!

American Structurepoint VP of Indiana Sales Mike McBride's winning move in the "Head or Tails" competition Friday night netted him $1,000 in prize money. Lisa Everling missed it by one coin toss.

Everyone involved would put both hands on their head or their tail before a coin toss. Those correctly guessing the coin toss got to stay for another round. Those who were wrong had to remove a set of beads. When you ran out of beads, you were finished.

Mike McBride from American Structurepoint won the night and $1,000 to boot (pardon our pun).

Advocating for Victims of Crime & Abuse

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

HD of Indy's Russ Dellen Memorial Ride returns for final year

The REPORTER
The Russ Dellen Memorial Ride is back for one last lap on Saturday, July 23. The annual motorcycle ride, presented by Harley-Davidson of Indianapolis, will take riders for an IMPD-escorted loop around Interstate 465. The event will begin at 10 a.m. at HD of Indy, 12400 Reynolds Drive, Fishers, and the ride will depart at 12:30 p.m. Once back at HD of Indy, riders can enjoy lunch provided by Texas Roadhouse, live music from American Fools Band – A Tribute to John Cougar Mellencamp, and beer and wine for purchase. The event will also include a raffle for a chance at a three-day pass to the Buffalo Chip concert series during the Sturgis Motorcycle Rally in Sturgis, S.D. starting Aug. 5. One raffle ticket is included in each bike registration, and additional tickets are available for purchase, with a maximum of 600 tickets sold.

Participants must be present to win, but participants do not have to be registered riders. The event will also include a silent auction with a broad range of items from generous sponsors including Ambre, The Drive, Parts Unlimited, and many more. All proceeds will benefit The Patachou Foundation, a local nonprofit organization that prepares and serves healthy meals to children affected by poverty and hunger and increases their awareness, connection and excitement about food. This is the third year HD of Indy has partnered with The Patachou Foundation.

“My family has spent generations in central Indiana and takes great pride in giving back to the community that has given so much to us,” HD of Indy Co-owner David Dellen said. “We’re also grateful for the support of IMPD in providing us with a safe, escorted ride.”

Tickets are available at HD of Indy or online for $25 each, or two for $40 through July 22. On ride day, tickets will be available onsite for $30, or two for $50. Each ticket includes a Russ Dellen Memorial Ride T-shirt, complimentary lunch, and a raffle ticket. This will be the final year for the ride, which began in 2009. It was known as the Loop for Life until 2009, when the name was changed to honor the late Russ Dellen, founder of HD of Indy among other automotive groups, and organizer of the ride. While this is the last year for the ride, Dellen’s impact will continue next year in the form of a community-focused event to be held at Harley-Davidson of Indy. “The Dellen family feels passionately about continuing to both serve the community and honor my father’s legacy,” David Dellen said. “Converting to a community event will allow even those without a bike to safely participate, broadening our impact for those in need.”

Kids can get backpacks full of school supplies at local TCC stores

The REPORTER

Round Room LLC, the nation's largest Verizon authorized retailer, announces that its TCC and Wireless Zone stores are donating 140,000 backpacks full of school supplies in the upcoming milestone 10th annual School Rocks Backpack Giveaway. Since 2013, TCC has donated 1.2 million backpacks filled with supplies to children across the U.S. as they prepare for the start of the school year.

From 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, July 31, more than 1,200 TCC and Wireless Zone nationwide stores will invite local families to their locations to pick up a backpack filled with pencils, paper, a pencil box, folders, a ruler and glue. One backpack per child present will be given away on a first-come, first-served basis while supplies last.

In addition to the backpack donations, families can enter their students in a sweepstakes to win a $10,000 college scholarship through the giveaway's Big Impact. Children in grades K-12 are eligible for entry and can be registered at their local TCC and Wireless Zone stores during the School Rocks Backpack Giveaway event. Five scholarships in total will be awarded to randomly selected winners.

"For the School Rocks Backpack Giveaway to reach its 10th edition is truly monumental for all of us at Round Room, TCC and Wireless Zone. This event is now an annual staple in communities nationwide and we couldn't be more proud of how much we've been able to positively impact students these last 10 years," Round Room CEO Scott Moorehead said. "The rising costs of school supplies have made it immensely difficult for many families to adequately prepare their children each school year. Our goal is to alleviate these challenges for as many families as we can through this annual give back event."

According to the National Retail Federation, American families with school-aged children spent an average of $849.90 on school supplies in 2021 – totaling $37.1 billion spent in America last year on school supplies alone. Round Room is working to ease the strain of rising school supplies costs with this annual program through TCC and Wireless Zone stores nationwide.

For a list of TCC stores participating in the School Rocks Backpack Giveaway or to find a store near you, visit locations.tccrocks.com. Any left-over backpacks at School Rocks Backpack Giveaway events will be donated to local schools of each store's choice.

Supporters of the School Rocks Backpack Giveaway are encouraged to use hashtags #BackpackGiveaway and #10DaysOfGiving on Instagram and Twitter to help spread the word.

Letter to the Editor

To Indiana’s legislators: Children of rape have value

Dear Editor:

Rape is one of the most devastating things that can happen to anyone. Rape that results in pregnancy leaves the victim lost and terrified.

I know this because it happened to me.

While serving my country in the U.S. Army, I was sexually assaulted by a commanding officer which resulted in a pregnancy. Devastated, confused, angry, and uncertain – I knew whatever choices I made next, my life was drastically about to change.

I was on a path of success. As a woman in the U.S. Army, I had paved a way and overcome many obstacles to be respected. I was independent, strong, and determined. Everything was going my way – I even had plans to join West Point in the future. I was living my dream, until it became my nightmare. I knew that sexual assault was real, I had heard stories and knew of other victims, but I believed it would never happen to me – promising myself I would do all that I could to never put myself in that situation.

Still, I found myself a victim. I took all the right steps. I reported the rape. During this time – like any other life-changing moment – I had no shortage of free advice from friends, family, coworkers, and superiors. In a desperate state, I contemplated all my options.

Of course, one of those was abortion. Abortion wasn’t just an option – it was an encouragement. How would I care for this young one? What would my family care plan be? Was I willing to give up my entire career, my promising future? After all, I didn’t ask for this. Nobody would be able to judge. A baby would make my life worse.

Back when this happened, this was way before the “Me Too” movement. This system gave my abuser more power, and abortion would have given him even more power over me. I was a prisoner in a system that wished for nothing more than to sweep this all under the rug – one that I had little power in.

I learned something through this. Desperate people make desperate decisions. In my desperation, I almost made one myself – to abort this unplanned pregnancy as a product of rape.

Like many states, Indiana has choices to make soon. Legislators are left with many questions they will have to answer, whether they were the ones who asked them first or not. Predictably, arguments will come front and center for both sides, and inevitably – the conversation will turn to “What about rape?”

Every time I hear this argument, my heart goes out to the victim – both that of rape and the possible victim in the womb. I started to ask myself how terminating life would help my trauma. I realized that argument made little sense to me. I would have to wear the wound of choosing abortion, while also recovering from being violated. I know many women who chose abortion, and I have heard their private stories of the pain they have to live with, even if they don’t publicly say so.

Ultimately, I made the decision to keep my daughter – for whom we just celebrated her graduation open house. She’s beautiful inside and out – a friend, a sister, and a strong pillar in her church and community. Every day I look at her, I see myself in that moment of desperation, and I am thankful that God gave her to me and brought me hope through her.

Was it easy? Absolutely not. Far from it. Did my life change? Yes.

But I refused to abort my daughter, who chose none of this, and add additional pain and regret to an already horrible experience. Ultimately, raising my daughter is what has healed me from my experience of sexual assault. I am reminded of the love of God through the fact that something so previous can come from such an evil act.

I often recall when Abraham argued with the Lord: Will you not sweep away the righteous with the wicked? Abortion as an answer to my rape would have done just that to my daughter. I chose not to sweep away the righteous because of the act of the wicked.

Indiana legislators: children of rape have value. My daughter is proof of that.

My plea to you as you navigate these new waters is that you remember this: Desperate people make desperate decisions. Let’s not take a terrible, horrible event like rape and place another option on the table that can add even more pain and desperation in the future – one that ultimately leads to a loss of life.

Legislating and speaking on these issues are not popular, and it won’t be easy. You will be attacked; you may even be put in the court of public opinion. Do it anyway. God told Joshua to not fear and be courageous – this was God’s reminder to all of us that sometimes what’s right must overcome our fear of the world. I know many of you feel the way I do, but fear reelection or public outcries. Know this: the courage it took me to write this article came from my desire to take my darkness and choose instead to stand in the light. I welcome you to stand next to me as you enter legislative sessions.

Hoosiers, my plea to you is similar – pray and intercede on behalf of your legislators. Step up and help one of the many organizations addressing these women in the moment of desperation that they do have options, that their babies – however unwanted, however unplanned – have value. To do this, we must silence the critics who say it is too difficult for a young girl or woman to have options. It will mean supporting legislators who stand up for what is right. It will require sacrifice from all of us – from our pocketbooks, our time, to disapproval of our friends and perhaps family when we speak up for the unborn and rape victims.

I, for one, can tell you that it’s all worth it.

My daughter and I say thank you.

Spartz: Kyiv should better support its heroic army; Mr. Yermak should resign

Dear Editor:

We often say that freedom is not free, but how often do we think about what freedom really means? Growing up under a dictatorship, I place significant value on those who are willing to risk their lives for freedom. That is why our military and veterans will always be my number one priority.

I have visited my native Ukraine six times since Russia’s invasion began to gain a better understanding of the situation on the ground – from Lviv in the west, to Chernihiv in the north, to the front in the east, and to the ports of Odessa in the south – each time meeting with Ukrainian people and fighters in the trenches. I was inspired by the resolve and strength of the Ukrainian Armed Forces – they will never surrender.

Although, I was disappointed to learn that instead of recognizing its military and launching an all-country effort to support it, Kyiv, with Andriy Yermak effectively at the helm, is playing politics. Also, Kyiv seems to have money for reconstruction efforts for nonessential infrastructure, but no money to support soldiers, like the long-promised housing for 2014 Anti-Terrorist Operation fighters from the occupied territories.

Unfortunately, instead of addressing the concerns I raised last week, Mr. Yermak has launched a smear campaign against me. Many Americans and Europeans have had serious concerns with Mr. Yermak for a while. If Mr. Yermak was a statesman, as someone with an already questionable reputation, he would have resigned this winter after assuring the Ukrainian leadership that no attack by Russia was going to happen, which reduced Ukraine’s preparedness. However, it is never too late to do the right thing.

Since I outlined my concerns, I have been accused by Mr. Yermak’s puppets of raising this issue for political benefit. Only those who do not understand American general election politics could make such a claim. There is no political benefit from this, but it is the right thing to do. After trying to resolve this issue internally for some time, I am raising it publicly out of major concern.

Moreover, some have suggested that added oversight could delay the supply of weapons to the Ukrainian military. On the contrary, the current lack of oversight is a contributing factor to the delays, and proper oversight and logistics will only increase speed and efficiency.

Congress and the American people are united behind Ukraine in opposing Putin’s brutality. With our help, Ukraine will prevail.

Additions to National Korean War Veterans Memorial to be revealed July 27

The REPORTER

Just in time for the 69th anniversary of the end of the Korean War, on July 27, 2022, massive renovations to the Korean War Veterans Memorial will be unveiled, featuring the addition of the Wall of Remembrance.

A stunning counterpart to the iconic mural wall and steel sculptures, it will feature the names of the fallen, including more than 36,000 U.S. soldiers, and for the first time ever, over 7,000 KATUSA soldiers who fought alongside U.S. soldiers to defend the people of South Korea and preserve democracy.

In 1995, visionary industrial designer Louis Nelson conceived and spent five years creating the striking, original and unforgettable granite mural featuring the faces of those who served in America's "Forgotten War." In tandem with Frank Gaylord's haunting steel sculptures and the addition of the Wall of Remembrance, Nelson's wall continues to form a lasting tribute to both those who gave their lives and those who survived the brutal first salvo of the Cold War.

In honor of this monument as well as his experiences in the Korean War, Louis Nelson wrote his deeply ruminative memoir, Mosaic: War Monument Mystery (Original Trade Paperback; ISBN: 978-1098366124), which details not only his personal process and intentions in designing the mural, but also explores the complex web of motivations, aspirations, conflicts and controversies that accompany the building of memorials, especially those commemorating war.

"The basis of all my work is the purity and simplicity of design relationships working hand in hand with the story, the clear narrative to move people to understand and perhaps take action and assure their comfort in that process," Nelson said. "At its core is that it must matter."

Fittingly, in Mosaic, Nelson blends aspects of his own autobiography, recounting the journey that shaped the work he designs. Raised in the melting pot of

New York City, he studied at Pratt before a stint as a U.S. Army helicopter pilot. Military life, as absorbing as it was, took its toll on his first marriage, and he left the service, narrowly escaping a probable tour of duty in Vietnam. Returning to Pratt for graduate school, he went on to an eminent career as an industrial designer.

In 1990, Nelson was asked to design the mural, and he immersed himself in the often-overlooked history of the Korean conflict. This profound engagement gave him great insight into the human reality of the war – a reality he chose to recreate and celebrate through some 2,000 faces, taken from actual photographs from the military archives. Engraved into the granite through a constellation of points, these are images of different groups of occupations in each of the services – from truck drivers to pilots, signal men to telephone operators, boatswains to bridge builders, doctors and nurses to cooks.

Nelson places the Korean War Veterans Memorial into multiple contexts: its physical and symbolic placement on the National Mall in Washington, D.C., straddling the Lincoln Memorial and providing a balancing arm to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial; its historical lineage in the long tradition of memorials to soldiers and conflict – in America and beyond; its healing powers as a place of remembrance and reflection for those who lived the experience or loved someone who did; and illumination for those who need to be reminded of the call of duty and the sacrifices these no longer faceless service members made.

"Louis Nelson's memorial about bringing to granite life the storied history of a memorial to a ghastly war is a memorial in itself," said Lionel Tiger, Charles Darwin Professor Emeritus of Anthropology at Rutgers University. "It celebrates with painful candor the skill, stubbornness, and raw political talent necessary to commemorate with dignity the intricate pain and challenge of a national war."

Fishers Police arrest man suspected of breaking into 18 vehicles over weekend

The REPORTER

Fishers police officers have arrested an Indianapolis man suspected of breaking into several vehicles over the weekend.

At approximately 3:30 a.m. on Sunday morning, an alert resident in the 11400 block of Timberlane Drive called 911 to report two suspicious men near his home. The resident told police the men were driving a white Chevrolet passenger car.

As police arrived in the area, they observed two men standing outside of a vehicle matching the description given by the resident. The two men quickly entered the vehicle and drove away. The officer initiated a traffic stop; however, the suspect vehicle refused to stop. Fishers police pursued the suspects until their vehicle became disabled on 82nd Street. Three suspects fled on foot.

Police searched the area and located one of the suspects. The suspect was taken into custody and transported to the Hamilton County Jail without incident. The man is Joshua Morillo, 23, Indianapolis. He has been charged with two counts of Theft, a Level 6 felony; 11 counts of Theft, a Class A misdemeanor; 18 counts of Unauthorized Entry into a Vehicle, a Class B misdemeanor; Possession of Marijuana, a Class A misdemeanor; and Possession of Marijuana, a Class

B misdemeanor.

Over the course of this investigation, police were able to identify 18 victims and return the stolen property. Police also recovered two handguns from the suspect's vehicle.

Police thank the resident who immediately reported the suspicious activity. Police also remind residents to remove all valuable items from unattended vehicles.

A charge is merely an accusation, and the arrested person is presumed innocent until proven guilty.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Therefore, since we are surrounded by such a great cloud of witnesses, let us throw off everything that hinders and the sin that so easily entangles. And let us run with perseverance the race marked out for us, fixing our eyes on Jesus, the pioneer and perfecter of faith. For the joy set before him he endured the cross, scorning its shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God. Consider him who endured such opposition from sinners, so that you will not grow weary and lose heart.

Carmel grad wins Junior Golf championship

By RICHIE HALL

sports@readthereporter.com

Recent Carmel graduate Owen Sander picked up a big victory last week when the Indiana Golf Association's Howard Bailey Junior Golf Tour conducted its Age Group Championship last Wednesday and Thursday at French Lick.

Sander won the Boys 18 division, running away with the trophy by finishing with a three under par, 36-hole round of 139, 10 strokes ahead of second place. Sander went under par in both rounds of the tournament, with a one-under 71 on the first day, and a two-under 68 on the second day. (The pars were different on each day, as the first round was par 72 and the second round was par 70.) Sander drained four birdies in each round for a total of eight.

Fishers' Connor McMillan tied for third place with a score of 151, making three birdies in his first round.

In other age divisions, Fishers' Mattingly Upchurch won the Boys 14 flight, with a three-under par score of 67. (Several of the Boys age groups played only one round due to weather.) Upchurch made an eagle on hole No. 15, in addition to five birdies. Noblesville's J.T. Kelley scored a 165 to tie for first in the Boys 11 group.

Three Hamilton County girls won their respective age divisions. Michaela Headlee, an incoming junior at Carmel, won the Girls 16 flight by seven strokes. Headlee had to stop play with five holes left in the second round due to weather, finishing eight over par with three total birdies at the tournament.

Another Carmel girl, Sophie Mock, finished first in the Girls 15 division with a two-day total of 155, draining five birdies along the way.

Fishers' Janelle Garcia had a spectacular effort in winning the Girls 13 flight, going under par both days for a total of 139. Garcia made one eagle in the first round on the eighth hole, then drained two more eagles in the second round, on hole Nos. 10 and 13. She also had six birdies total for the tournament.
