The man behind Westfield's new old cabin

By STU CLAMPITT

news@readthereporter.com

Mike Bailey is the man hired by the Westfield Washington Historical Society & Museum to rebuild the historic cabin in downtown Westfield at 136 Penn St., near City Hall.

The Reporter sat down with Bailey to talk about the cabin, his interesting life, and how you can help see this project to completion.

"Jim and Diane Peyton and the Historical Society saved the cabin about four years ago," Bailey told The Reporter. "They had some volunteers take it down. They sorted it. At the time they were about to start they had already raised significant funds in tandem with the city."

According to the Historical Society, this cabin was built by Nicholas Barker about 1835. He was a member of the Quaker Meeting of Friends, and Historical Society members are convinced he was involved in the Underground Railroad. This 22-by-20-foot cabin has some extra special handplaned wooden beams that are more finely crafted than most cabins of the day. It is a one room cabin with a huge fireplace. Some of the native handhewn logs are 23 to 25 inches tall.

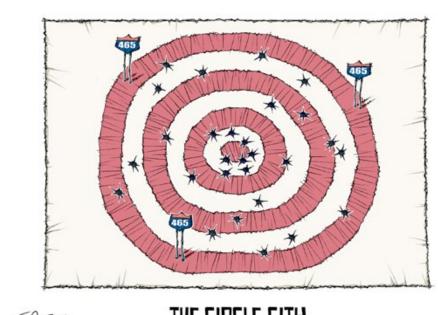

"The Peytons heard about me because I purchased some products from Perma-Chink in Noblesville," Bailey said. "They called me. I just happened to be in Kokomo building an 1830 log cabin for their outdoor learning program. That was a full

Meet Ma Bell ... and Sheridan's Kathy Bell

By STU CLAMPITT news@readthereporter.com

Sheridan's own Kathy Bell may be one of the best kept secrets in Hamilton County. She is a singer, songwriter and karaoke DJ whose accolades include two singles that have been downloaded enough to qualify as platinum.

Kathy Bell was born and raised in Indiana. She began singing and playing the piano at the age of 10.

While music has always been a part of her life, Bell said her real dream was to be on stage.

"I always had a desire in my heart to perform and entertain, but I was a little scared and I listened to a lot of the wrong people saying, 'You're not good enough," Bell said. "One day a friend believed in me enough. I had gone through a lot of sickness and when I wrote my first song I was considering checking out. I was starting to write a note about how I was done with life, and that's two separate people because where my motto 'Never too old to dream,' came from."

Later, someone introduced Bell to singer, songwriter, producer and sound engineer Bob McGilpin, with whom she has written several songs. They have two platinum recordings, "America She's Cryin" and "Freedom Truckers."

Bell primarily performs in character as "Ma Bell."

"I tend to talk about us as when I'm in costume I never know what that person's going to do," Bell said. "I never know what I'm going to do when I'm in costume. But my goals then are always to bring the audience in to have fun with me. I like to involve them and not just treat them like a crowd, but to make them a part of whatever I'm doing. As an example, I may go out and dance with them." Kathy Bell continues to write and record in Nashville, Tenn. She is now working on several new songs she has written and will be back in the recording studio soon. Bell said she has accomplished more in her musical career than she ever thought possible. She told The Reporter being able to have friends all over the world and to be given the honor and privilege to sing in the Nashville area means a lot to her. those who are afraid to chase their dreams.

After years of illness, she finally gained her health back and started going to "Song Fest" in Nashville, Tenn. There she met many songwriters and sang their songs and was inspired to start writing her own.

She said she became determined to work hard and give it all she had to see her dreams come true. She realizes she began late in life, but that does not deter her motivation and drive.

Bell said an old friend talked her into entering a DJ competition in which costumes were a component of the performance. She said she realized people were looking at the costume – the character - rather than at her, and that helped her build the confidence to pursue her dreams of performing.

Bailey's life

"When I first went to college in Grand Rapids Baptist College in the seminary – it is now called Cornerstone University – in all the years I was up there I was a youth pastor at different churches," Bailey told The Reporter. "I had a wonderful experience at Bible college, but I didn't feel called to ministry. When I got out, I started an ad agency in about 1982."

Bailey called himself an "idea guy" during that time. He had neither experience nor any formal education in marketing or advertising.

"The business took off in short order and I ran that business for 20 years," Bailey said. "I moved it from Grand Rapids, Mich., to Toledo, Ohio, to Indianapolis where my agency was located on East Washington, just east of downtown. It was fun and creative. I was a specialist in cross-promotions."

One of the clients he worked with was Putt-Putt golf courses across the country.

"In the course of all that I ran for U.S. Congress four times," Bailey said. "After my last race in 2000, I was ready for a life change. But while I was still in advertising, I turned a barn into a house to live in for myself. They are fascinating. I loved building. I had no experience at it prior, but that never stopped me from doing something.'

Bailey had six sons he and his wife were homeschooling, and he wanted to be able to spend time with them every day. He started taking one to work with him day.

"For 21 years I have been taking my boys to work," Bailey said. "That's been my crew. I am running out of sons now!"

Bailey's next chapter

"I'm changing gears now," Bailey said. "I wrote a book. It will be my second book. I wrote a book during the campaign years. So, after the last campaign I started this business in about 2001. We are in our 22nd year. We are obviously significantly experienced now."

Bailey's second book, which should be published in the next year, is called Old Man Bailey.

"It's my story," Bailey said. "It's very Christian-oriented, but it's really targeted toward young people before they get into debt. I'm trying to inspire young people that they can build a house debtfree out of historic barns and cabins. And I show them how in this book. It's 350 pages. It's a textbook, but it's also my story."

Bailey's story has deep on day, then another the next roots in his Christian faith and spirituality.

"When I first started building the barn house, I didn't know jack." Bailey said. "My boys were like 10, 8 and 6 at the time. We're going to go up on a roof – we'd never done any construction work – and our prayer was, 'Lord, send your angels or we're gonna die.' And we prayed for wisdom outside of our pay grade."

Bailey learned by hiring tradesmen and not letting them work, but rather paying them to instruct him.

"I'd say, 'You can sit in that chair and have a cigar for all I care, but I'm doing all the work'," Bailey told The Reporter. "You can't learn by not doing it - by just watching. That's how I learned my trade. I have been a part of the restoration of over 55 cabins and 25 homes now. Most of these we have turned into livable houses. This project is unusual. We don't normally work for towns or for historical societies. Most of our clients are independent businessmen."

Emergency Management gets Duke Obituary -Humbert M. (Marc) Lopes Energy grant for 400 weather radios July 6, 1925 – August 16, 2022 Humbert M. (Marc) Lopes, 97, Fishers, passed away, August 16, 2022. He was born in Fall River, Mass., on July 6, 1925, the eldest son of the late Belmira Correia Lopes and Francisco Lopes.

The ability to receive emergency information is critical to keeping Hamilton County safe.

"A weather radio is like a smoke alarm for emergencies," said Shane Booker, Executive Director of Emergency Management. The National Weather Service sends alerts like severe weather watches and warnings to radios, but Emergency Management can send other alerts such as shelter-in-place, law enforcement warnings, evacuations, civil emergency messages, and more. Alerts are sent via the Emergency Alert System, alerting broadcast and satellite television, and radio, mobile phones, and weather radios.

Humbert has been a man of integrity, honor, deep faith, and respect for everyone. Over many years, he has gathered and kept close his family and many friends in his neighborhood, church, and community. Humbert has lived life large into "super-elder" years with health, connectedness and vitality that inspires all of us.

Ever proud of his heritage, Humbert was first-generation American-born, raised with his grandmother, Victoria de Sousa Correia, a young widow who immigrated with her two daughters, including the youngest child who became his mother, from the Azores Islands, Portugal, to the U.S. His grandmother cared for him while his parents worked in the mills and construction in Fall River, Mass.

Humbert proudly served two tours in the Army Air / Air Force from August 1944 to November 1952, in both WW II and the Korean War. He enlisted in the Army Air Corp, winning a placement in flight cadet training and commissioned as an officer in 1944. He became certified as one of the few "3-headed monsters", deployed as a radar man, bombardier, and navigator, flying B-29s with the 344th Bomber Squadron, 98th Bomber Wing. He flew over 50 bombing sorties over Japan and Korea. Humbert was honorably discharged from the Air Force as a First Lieutenant in November 1952.

In 1950, Humbert used his GI Bill benefits to obtain a B.S. degree in Chemical Engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y. Always an athlete, he also lettered in varsity soccer at Rensselaer. He went on to have an illustrious career in product development and management with The Firestone Company. His management career took him to opening new plants and managing plant operations in the U.S., Canada, Wales, U.K., Greece, and Brazil. Humbert was instrumental in formulating and developing the highly successful business for Firestone's rubber roofing product. Ultimately, in 1978 he rose to the position of President of Firestone Industrial Products Company (FIPC), the diversified products division of The Firestone Company. He embodied the true American story of opportunity and achievement, from immigrant roots to senior executive of a Fortune 500 company in two generations.

Beyond his career success, Humbert's proudest achievements have always been raising and loving his family and giving back to his community. Humbert married his late wife, Helen Stinziano Lopes, in November 1952, returning to Somerset, Mass., near his family in Fall River, Mass., after his military service. There they raised two daughters, Patricia and Joanne. In 1967, a corporate promotion took the family to live in Lindsay, Ontario, Canada, a great family adventure as they explored Canada for several years. Shortly after returning to the U.S. in 1972, the family settled in Carmel, where Humbert led management operations of FIPC nearby. Together, they enjoyed many years experiencing all that the Midwest has to offer. Upon the terminal illness of his wife, Helen (dec. April 1982), Humbert took early retirement to care for her and to enjoy their brief time left together. After her death, Humbert successfully consulted on operational efficiency and integration with many prior clients. Always devoted to his faith, Humbert became a more active volunteer and participant in his church, Our Lady of Mount Carmel Roman Catholic Church (OLMC), Carmel. Life began anew when Humbert met and married Shirley Peetz Dupons in April 1986. Together, they built another life, enjoying travels to Florida, the Caribbean and Europe in their retirement years. Both having deep faith in God and Jesus Christ, they have been active in both OLMC and East 91st Street Christian Church, participating each weekend in both services, pursuing Bible studies and connecting with friends sharing their devotion to faith. They found joy in visiting all their children, enjoying time at the beach on the East Coast and exploring new areas in Texas together. Humbert and Shirley frequently entertained and created a community among neighbors and friends. In 1993, Humbert took on a new role: volunteering with Hamilton County's Financial Management to aid and advocate for seniors and disabled individuals in managing their finances. Not long later, he grew this program from a fledgling group to a large team of active volunteers with the mission to keep the elderly and others in their homes. Ultimately, Humbert became President of the Hamilton County Money Management Program, and a board chair and member of the Indiana Governor's Council on Aging. Upon receiving the 2012 Golden Hoosier Award for his service, he famously said, "I'm helping the old people." He was 87 at the time; we said, "But you are the old people." He didn't believe us, and we are glad he didn't. Humbert is survived by his loving wife of 36 years, Shirley Dupons Lopes; his two daughters, Patricia (Rick Lundregan) Earnest and Joanne (Rice) Powell; his sister, Carolyn (David Woodworth) Alves; his blended family son and daughter, Scott (Cynthia, dec. August 2022) Dupons and Heidi (Stephen) Stump; grandchildren, Morgan (Jennie) Earnest, Kelli Lundregan, Ryan Lundregan, Hannah Powell (Colby Hufnagle), Sophie Powell, Katie Stump (Devin Basile), and James (Chenoa) Stump; and great-grandson, Killian Stump. Humbert is preceded in death by his late wife, Helen Stinziano Lopes; mother and father, Belmira and Francisco Lopes; his brothers, Robert Lopes and Frank Lopes, Jr.; and stepson, David Dupons. He is also preceded in death by his in-laws, Norma Stinziano, Margaret Rioux, and Pasquale Stinziano, who loved him like a brother. Visitation was held on Sunday, August 21, 2022, at Randall & Roberts Fishers Mortuary, 12010 Allisonville Road, Fishers. Mass was held on Monday, August 22, 2022, at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church, 14598 Oak Ridge Road, Carmel, with Rev. Dan Gartland officiating.

Hamilton County Parks & Duke Energy take nature education programming on the road

The REPORTER

Hamilton County Parks and Recreation (HCPR) has officially introduced its latest educational resource - an enclosed trailer that functions as a nature center on wheels. Thanks to funding provided by the Duke Energy Foundation, the unique project was put in gear back in 2017, but temporarily stalled during the pandemic.

Mark LaBarr, Government and Community Relations Manager for Duke Energy, was instrumental in securing a portion of the funds in the early stages of the project that contributed to the purchase and complex interior build-out of the trailer. After learning about FeedingTeam.org, this enterprising nine-year-old set out to be a difference maker in the world. Determined to find a way to stock food in the pantries, Ainsley settled on a good, old-fashioned garage sale at their suburban Indianapolis area home.

Let the work begin. Working with Mom and Dad, sale items were identified, sorted, and organized. Signs were made to tell everyone about the garage sale raising money to purchase food to donate into the pantries. Pictures of all the items were listed for sale online with a couple of brilliant caveats:

First, if a customer purchased online, they had to stop by the in-person sale to pick up their items. Ainsley explained her strategy: "This was on purpose. We wanted them to buy more when they came to the garage sale."

Next, she used best-offer pricing for the sale. When customers learned about Ainsley's garage sale, offers were ... well, shall we just say, a bit higher than what was expected. The grin on Ainsley's face tells the sto-

NOBLESVILLE – It was assumed before the kickoff that the Week 1 Noblesville-Mount Vernon contest last Friday could turn into a game like it did last season in Fortville that saw 93 points scored (57-36) in a win for the Millers.

Mount Vernon wasted no time at all on the opening drive. On the second play, quarterback Eli Bridenthal sprinted 68 yards up the sideline to put the visitors up quick, 7-0.

On the ensuing drive, Miller linebacker Gavin Kinyon intercepted Bridenthal's pass on the second play.

The Millers used just two plays to go 40 yards, both carries from Logan Shoffner, the second going 27-yards to paydirt. That gave Noblesville a 22-13 lead with less than a minute in the first.

Trinity Lutheran pulls away from 'Hounds in season opener

By RICHIE HALL sports@readthereporter.com

CARMEL - The Carmel football team dropped its Week 1 game last Friday, as Trinity Lutheran pulled away from the Greyhounds in the second half to take a 17-7 victory back home to Louisville.

The Greyhounds started out solid on defense, and held a 7-3 lead at halftime. But the Shamrocks wore down Carmel's defense in the second half, scoring one touchdown each in the third and fourth quarters and keeping the Greyhounds' defense on the field for extended periods.

"It's hard to play defense that long," said Carmel coach led 7-3 at halftime. Trinity John Hebert. "Our offense needs to help us out. Our offense didn't have very many drives. The defense was on the field too long."

Still, Hebert credited his defense with fighting "reallv hard." It was evident the Carmel defense came to play, was Will Heldt made a tackle for a two-yard loss on Trinity's first play of the game.

"He's one of the best players in the state and I thought he played really hard and did make plays," said Hebert.

The Shamrocks were able to grind down the field and eventually settled for a 27yard field goal by Kellan Mc-Laughlin midway through the first quarter. Those would be the only points of the period.

Carmel scored its touchdown in the second quarter on a spectacular play. Quarterback Jack Kazmierczak got out of trouble and threw to Blake Matthews, who took off into the end zone for a 76-yard score. Ben Sponsler followed that up with the extra-point kick.

As a result, the 'Hounds took back the lead with 4:02 left in the third quarter on a one-yard quarterback sneak by Drew Allen. The Shamrocks scored again in the fourth period when Allen threw a 29-yard touchdown pass to Clint Sansbury.

"Hats off to them," said Hebert. "They executed and played really well. And they were very mentally tough. And maybe we can learn ter Grove Friday.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

From the Hart

A breakthrough on the horizon

Now I had a few potential names for my birth mother and dozens for my birth father. But I still didn't feel like my yearbook searching had given me enough information. I continued my sessions with the online club.

I took another step in my journey in the spring of 2014. One webinar recommended going through the adoption agency itself to request a search. My "Indiana versus Ohio" confusion set in. I decided to contact Laura once again with the St. Joseph County courts and was pleasantly surprised to find that she still worked there.

"I decided to do some in-depth searching to learn more information about my biological family," I told her. "But I'm not certain what agency to go through in regards to my adoption. I don't know if it would be Catholic Social Services in Indiana or the same

allowed to share that information with me?" "Absolutely," Laura replied. "Let me write some things down one more time if you don't mind."

Laura got back to me even faster this round, and the next day I learned that I needed to contact the South Bend/Fort Wayne office. I hopped on their website, clicked on their services, and found "search and reunion" information right away.

If I had already registered with the State of Indiana, I could complete and notarize another form, pay $300, and they would begin a search for me. Ugh... more money. But I knew that compared to private investigators, the fee was quite reasonable. I also realized there would be no guarantees.

My husband John was supportive once again, and thanks to the help of

tor. Grandmother worked agency in Ohio. Are you Mary, my "Queen of Notarization," I That was only a year away. sent in the check and the form. I received a response in the mail saving they would start the search, but not to expect any sort of information for at least six months.

I continued my webinars and this time had a major breakthrough. One mentioned that some states were starting to open their adoption records. I didn't think Indiana was one of them at the time, and I found out I was right after looking online. On a whim, I checked out the State of Ohio.

My palms started to sweat and my heart began to pound when I saw right away that the State of Ohio was planning on opening its adoption records for anyone born there between Jan. 1, 1964 and Sept. 18, 1996. I couldn't through my head. I might end up with believe it.

Even people whose adoptions had been handled outside of the state were a part of this. As long as you were born in Ohio during that time period, you could request your records starting on March 20, 2015. The more I read about what Ohio was doing, the more I respected and liked the state's department of health. The state was giving people a couple of options. If birthparents did not want to be discovered, they could contact the department and have their names whited out on the copies of the birth certificates that would be sent to adoptees. In exchange for this, birthparents would be required to provide medical history information for their offspring.

Even if all I found out was medical history, that would be enormously helpful. This was all becoming very real to me. In less than a year I would have some major pieces of information.

The potential results played medical information only. I might discover that one or both of my birthparents were deceased. I might find out that one or both of them didn't want to have anything to do with me. Or it might go really well and one or both of them would want to talk to me.

Finding goodness

I love your voice You have led me through the fire In the darkest night

You are close like no other I've known you as a

Father I've known you as a Friend And I have lived in the goodness of God. (Bethel Music) There is just something about a worship song that is a balm to my weary soul.

On Wednesday evening, as I sat in the ninth pew of the Anderson First Church of the Nazarene, heard music my soul needed to hear.

When the song "The Goodness of God" was sung, I admit ... the tears fell. That song has hugged my heart since the first time I heard it. Why?

Because I know the goodness of God.

It was a wait of 58 years to find the love of my life. Many mornings, my husband, Chuck, fixes my coffee with just the right amount of sweet cream. I watch as he goes out to the birdfeeders. He fills them with birdseed so I can sit at our kitchen table and watch the redbirds come and greet us. He knows how I like my coffee and he knows my love of redbirds. He also knows if he doesn't go out there, I will . in my pajamas.

We go for our Sunday afternoon drives. I rest my hand on the gearshift. He gently places his hand on mine. Without any words being said ... I know I am loved.

I never want to be so busy that I fail to see the goodness of God.

I never want to take for granted the love Chuck and I share. It's in the simple moments and in the small gestures where love is found. It's not ever hiding; it's just taking the time to see it ... and appreciate it.

Chuck knows my love language is words of affirmation. I tell him, "Forget giving me the fancy gifts. Just tell me I make the best homemade chocolate pie. Tell me I don't look 66. Tell me you appreciate how I fold the laundry."

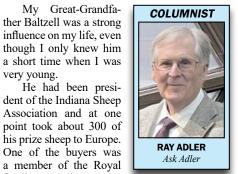

Chuck has learned to appreciate the words I make up when I tell a story. He says, "Honey, you know that's not a word." I wink at him and say, "Well, it is now." Then we laugh. Oh, the blessing of laughter.

Life is hard, but it is softer when you have someone to share the burdens, hurts, and disappointments. The moments of celebration are sweeter when you have someone to celebrate with. Even vintage people like us know how to "high five" each other.

Often, while cruising the back roads of Hamilton County, we listen to the music of the 70s. You know, when music was listenable. (I know, it's not a word.) A sweet love song comes on. I know the words. Chuck knows the words. But most of all ... we know the love. It's not just our voices that sing, but our hearts. We look at each other and say, "Have I told you lately?"

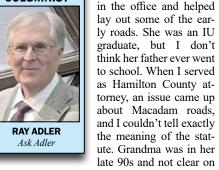

All this is so schmaltzy, but it is how I write. It is who I am. Just an older lady who has been through enough stuff to appreciate all the goodness in my life.

It was nine years ago this week, while sitting in the waiting room where I worked, that Chuck asked me, "If you're not seeing anyone, would you want to go to lunch?" I sure am glad he asked that question. I'm even more glad that I said, "Yes." I sure "waited" a long time for him And yes, as the words in the song "The Goodness of God" say ...

Receiving a positive response, he took the egg out of the holder, cracked and peeled it. The family story stopped at that point. I never did learn how he actually ate it.

It has been said it is not what we don't know that hurts us, it is what we know that just isn't true. That can be said of Hamilton County roads. Originally, roads were created whenever the public used a path for 20 years or more. A 1980s statute removed the duty of the County to accept publicly used roads. Some roads are owned outright by the County; some merely have a right-of-way existing to the edge of the pavement. Some roads are privately owned by a homeowners association while other roads are one-rod wide on either side of the centerline. Prior law required the road to straddle property lines, but that is Great-Grandfather had the opportunity to buy a farm that my wife and I now own for $5 per acre. He turned it down as overpriced. Later, my father paid $45.50 an acre for some of it and $245.50 for the rest. It may have increased in value because great-grandfather had been hired to hand dig a drainage ditch across the farm.

The farm next door sold when I was in high school. Dad asked if I thought farm ground could ever get more than $600 per acre, the then-unheard of asking price. Large parcels in this county have brought as much as $60,000 per acre. What will my great-grandchildren have to pay?

I turned the little duck over in my hand. The signed card included the hashtag #duckduckjeep and encouraged me to post a pic on social media. I scanned the lot but the ducker was gone. It was a drive-by ducking. I perched my new friend on the dash and drove home.

I Googled the hashtag and discovered Jeep-ducking had begun during through the roof as he maneuvered the COVID-19 pandemic - maybe even earlier - as a way to spread kindness and camaraderie. From there the trend had exploded.

A little rubber duck with a tag at- ter. I joined a couple more online Jeep groups. One got together for trail rides and posted an event: Join us for a topless ride! Or get totally naked! Don't forget to show us your topless photos!

Of course! Why have a Jeep if you don't take the top and doors off? I couldn't deliver mail topless, of course, but off the route? Birdie should fly!

My husband impulsively set her free for the first time on a family outing to our local ice cream shop. But not before it was our turn at the drive-thru window. As we pulled up, he stood, his upper body sticking up a T-top panel down to our daughters in the backseat. The young drive-thru worker gaped at us. "Uh...here are your cones..."

But I was conflicted.

I'm a Subaru Person. I drive a Forester. Subarus fit my peacelove-and-nature vibe. I mean, I wore Birkenstock sandals in the '90s – with rag-wool socks. I snacked on granola. My friends smelled like patchouli.

When I drove my Forester, I felt a kinship with other Subarus on the road, our bumpers plastered with COEXIST and I BRAKE FOR TUR-TLES stickers. We filled the lots of public lands and nature preserves. We often had dog heads sticking out of our windows. Love. It's what makes a Subaru a Subaru.

And now here I was behind the wheel of a Jeep. It looked rugged and tough next to my sleek little Subaru. Would they get along? Would it bully the Subaru in the garage at night?

My husband reassured me. "Honey. It's a metal box with wheels. A non-sentient thing. You're going to love it."

"Nah." Renee said. "Just variety all friendly. And don't worry about the wave hierarchy." I blinked. "The wave what? I thought you said hierarchy.'

"Yeah. Usually, the lesser jeep waves first." She had to be messing with me.

"The lesser Jeep?"

A quick Google search confirmed Booty Judy! she was not. There really was a wave hierarchy. Dirty Jeeps, Jeeps with modifications, Jeeps with the top or doors off - they were superior. What if they had RURAL POSTAL CAR-RIER plastered across their doors? I wondered.

Other Jeepers had shared photos of their own Jeeps. People of all ages and backgrounds with a weird love of Jeeps in common. I soon noticed another theme. Most of these Jeeps had names. I scrolled through the pics and comments:

I closed the app and made dinner. That night, I lay awake in bed, thinking of Jeep names. I chose Birdie. The Jeep made little chirps and trills and I was a longtime bird nerd, so it fit. I jumped on Etsy and ordered a personalized decal to display on her hood.

I was growing fond of the Jeep. My beloved Subaru started spending

I leaned around my husband's midsection and waved from the right side. In the back, my daughters tried to reach their cones from beneath the panel. The attendant gave my daughters an awkward, empathetic glance. Maybe he had weird parents, too.

But I was beaming. I was topless in a drive-thru in a right-hand drive vehicle. My husband had been right. I did love the Jeep. I loved the Subaru, too, but I had big plans for me and Birdie. We were going places.

Last week, as we walked to the garage, my daughter asked what vehicle we were taking. "Birdie, she's all fueled up," I said, fully aware I was now anthropomorphizing a vehicle.

"Honey," my husband said jokingly, "It's a metal box with wheels. A non-sentient thing.'

"Oh, but she's not," I teased back.

"OMG, Mom," my daughter said. "You're turning into one of those Jeep people."

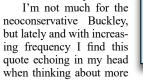

"Shhhh!" I said as we climbed into the Jeep. "The Subaru'll hear you..."

With every breath that I am able Oh, I will sing of the goodness of God.

Healthy attitude toward death can lead to a better life

"When we look over the field we are not saddened because these particular flowers or grasses will wither; for the law of their death is the law of new life." - Henry David Thoreau, letter to Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1842

When contemplating writing about a topic that can be VERY heavy, I gave it serious thought as to whether this topic of fessional therapeutic advice or suggestions but will merely reflect on the importance of our attitudes (about many topics) on death and dying which can affect our current health and well-being. Let me begin by sharing that I began my own experience in this realm at an early age. I lost a younger sister to heart

"death" is appropriate for an article on disease as a child, and I lost both parhealth and wellness. Today I decided ents in a car accident when I was a that yes, it definitely is appropriate. teenager. Very heavy scenarios, obvi-That being said, I will not focus on ously. I grieved deeply, of course; and sharing specific and pro- I will say here that the grief is there still and will remain a scar throughout my lifetime. However, moving forward through my 20s and 30s while raising toddlers and working outside the home I, as most of us would, did not dwell on my grief as there was work to do and life to live. This is the focus of my column today.

In particular, and unfortunately, those of us of "a certain age" have lost many family members and friends through the years. It sometimes seems that I spend more time attending funeral and 'celebration of life' services than ever before. We experience it, mourn, and hopefully continue to be productive and whole. However, some find the experience of loss to be debilitating and that can put those individuals at risk for health issues which can actually impair their immune systems. Reaching out to health professionals is important in those cases. Support groups are also helpful as we deal with significant loss.

Additionally, our belief systems and attitudes toward our own future demise will impact our current state of health. I will not address religious belief systems in this article, as those vary and are personal to each person. Death is something we ALL have in common as we will leave this planet and hopefully we will make any plans or arrangements ahead of time which will benefit those we leave behind. Doing so is our last and most loving gift we can provide to those who love us. Having done so, we can focus on the "here and now" and put our worries and fears aside about the inevitable occurrence we will all face. This mental strategy will go far in allowing us freedom to enjoy life, bring joy to others, and in doing so will improve our own physical health and our immune systems, perhaps giving us some additional quality time while we are here - a win-win" we might say!

We can still grieve for and celebrate those special people who leave us and prepare ourselves to someday move on as well by taking care of ourselves both mentally and physically as we strive to leave a lasting, positive imprint on this world we temporarily inhabit. By doing so we remain alive through the hearts of our loved ones and those who have been touched by the efforts we have made to leave this world a better place.

and more things happening in our world. Change is the natural order. Life is a process of growth. Stagnation occurs in death.

So goes the argument for progress.

But is it a good argument? Is it a conclusive argument? Are there any other factors to consider when one works to make progress?

You could say since progress is inevitable, it's foolish to stand in the way. I disagree.

To say all progress is inevitable necessarily ignores moral questions about the development of particular instances of progress. If the concept of progress is impervious to moral judgment because progress itself is unstoppable, then "progress" must be understood as wholly correct in all cases; therefore, those who question it are by default wrong. (Or backward, uncultured, uneducated naysayers perhaps worst of all ... biased! The horror!)

What utter nonsense.

Reasonable people understand that sometimes it is preferable to preserve a thing rather than destroy it for the sake of a new thing. As it turns out, not all progress is progress.

The difficult question of when to make progress arises when a community undergoes rapid-fire change, seemingly without a previously agreed-upon plan. Suddenly, the community must hastily direct its own destiny instead of simply "letting things happen." Of course, individuals within any community will never come into full agreement about how their community should look and the kinds of things it should provide for its members.

Put another way: is the progress of the community worth more than the interests of the individual?

Of course! Sometimes. Of course not! Sometimes.

PLEASANT PROGESS

What does a growing city do when it has horrible traffic but no clear space to build an actual bypass to alleviate the problem? It finds the best alternative and creates a plan to bring it to life. Simple enough, right?

The politics of good decision-making is far more challenging than that of perfect decision-making. In fact, it's so complicated it's often not achieved. There are reasons people don't like politics or the political class in general.

That said, to make a perfect decision in a world of nonstop conflicting interests is literally impossible. Political perfection can only come about in an environment with no countervailing forces. Does that sound like society to you?

That's not to excuse the deciled to the muddied situation with Pleasant Street in Noblesville. While one can imagine we happen to live in the version of reality where the Reimagine Pleasant Street plan (reimaginepleasantst. com) truly is the best of all possible plans to fix the Conner Street traffic nightmare, that's little consolation for people who have lost or will lose their homes and busi-sions over the past 35 years that nesses for the purpose of making room for "progress" - even if those folks will get some degree of compensation from their city.

We're back to the primary purpose of politics: weighing the individual's interests against those of the community.

I'm not sure which is the right way forward.

Those who so flippantly boast about how grand it is for those "old," "run down," "dilapidated" homes and businesses to be bulldozed in order to make room for a so-called reimagined Pleasant Street ought to consider how gleeful they'd be if and when a beautiful new road must pass right through their own front doors. The County does not warrant the accuracy of the street address or common description of the property, and a misstatement in the key number or street address does not invalidate an otherwise valid sale. Minimum bid amounts are prescribed by law and are subject to change prior to the auction date.

Pursuant to IC 6-1.1-24-3(e), property descriptions may be omitted for properties appearing on the certified list in consecutive years. A complete property list may be obtained at www.sriservices.com or in an alternative form upon request.

Registration For Bidding On the Tax Sale:

If you are interested in bidding on the tax sale for an Indiana county, you may register online at https://sriservices.com/. This registration is good for all counties that SRI services. You need to register only once for all counties. Make sure to bring the completed form with you to each sale. This will speed up the registration process for you the morning of the sale. If you do not have access to a computer with internet service you may register the morning of the sale. Please arrive the morning of the tax sale at least 30 minutes before the beginning time to be assured you will receive your bid number before the start of the sale.

Please bring your registration form and W9 form with you the morning of the tax sale. You will be able to print these forms from the registration web site.

Pursuant to IC 6-1.1-24-5.1 a business entity that seeks to register to bid at the Hamilton County Tax Sale must provide a Certificate of Existence or Foreign Registration Statement in accordance with IC 5-23 from the Secretary of State to the Hamilton County Treasurer.

LEGAL NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

New Interchange Construction at 146th Street and Allisonville Road Hamilton County, Indiana

Hamilton County will host a public hearing on Thursday, September 1, 2022 at the Delaware Township Community Center, 9094 East 131st Street, Fishers, IN 46038, he public hearing will begin at 6pm and will conclude by 7:30pm. The purpose of the public hearing is to offer all interested persons an opportunity to comment on the preliminary design plans to the intersection of 146th Street and Allisonville Road in Hamilton County, Indiana.

The public hearing presentation will also be broadcast virtually at the following weblink: https://tinyurl.com/3djhw9xw The need for the project is based on the overall function of the 146th Street and Allisonville Road intersection and a history of vehicle collisions. This intersection perates poorly under peak hour traffic conditions. Traffic counts were collected at the project intersection in early December 2017. Based on the traffic data, it was determined the traffic signal is limiting the traffic flow, and the demand on the signal is greater than what is currently being served. The projected 2023 AADT for 146th Street is 37,102 vehicles per day and Allisonville Road is projected to be 15,675 vehicles per day based on 2017 traffic counts collected by United Consulting. United Consulting projected the traffic to increase to 48,549 vehicles per day along 146th Street and 20,933 along Allisonville Road by 2043 using the 2017 traffic counts collected by United Consulting. Traffic projections were based on an 1.7% annual growth rate. The intersection is congested during reach beneffs (40.00 mm).

Pack hour traffic (4:30 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.). A Level of Service (LOS) Analysis was completed in December 2017 by United Consulting. The Highway Capacity Software (HCS) was used to analyze the design year roadway capacity and determine if existing lane configurations would provide an acceptable LOS. The HCS, which is based on the latest version of the Highway Capacity Manual, was used for the analysis. The operating level of an intersection can be described using the term LOS. LOS is a qualitative description of operation of operation of the Highway Capacity Manual, was used for the analysis. The operating level of an intersection can be described using the term LOS. The purpose of this project is to provide an acceptable LOS (Level "D" or higher) and to reduce vehicle collisions for those traveling on 146th Street and Allisonville

The preferred alternative will construct 146th Street over Allisonville Road via a new overpass bridge. There will be exit and entrance ramps connecting 146th Street to the roundabout on Allisonville Road below. The roundabout diameter will be 200.0-feet and include a 15.0-foot eastbound and westbound and 30 foot northbound and southbound circulatory lanes with an 8.0-foot truck apron. The project will include new storm sewer systems throughout a majority of the project limits, which will discharge into the White River. New or reconstructed 8.0-foot-wide Hot Mix Asphalt (HMA) pedestrian paths will be installed on the west, south, and east legs of the project. New permanent lighting will be installed along both 146th Street and Allisonville Road throughout the limits. Additionally, new curb ramps and guardrail will be rovided throughout the project limits.

The project will also include reconstruction of the northern portion of the parking lot that circles the Northridge Retirement Facility. A new frontage road will be onstructed to provide access to six residential properties in the northeast quadrant of the intersection. Access to 146th Street will be removed at the following roadways: Sowers Drive

Lynn Avenue

Wellington Court

Des. No.: 1801421

At the public hearing, the City Council will also determine whether the proposed voluntary annexations are reasonable and appropriate when considered in relation to the Ordinance and whether the Ordinance, as amended, conforms to the Westfield-Washington Comprehensive Plan.

A more detailed description of the areas under consideration for 100% voluntary annexation may be reviewed at the Community Development Department at 2728 East 171st Street, Westfield, Indiana, or by calling (317) 804-3170. Dated this 18th day of August, 2022.

Cul-de-sacs and bollards will be installed at each of the above referenced roadway termini. The bollards will be removable in emergency situations. A new entrance to he Willow Crest neighborhood will be constructed in the southeast quadrant of the intersection. The new entrance will connect Sowers Drive to Allisonville Road and will be the only entrance to the neighborhood.

The proposed cross section along 146th Street will consist of two 12.0-foot lanes in each direction with a 6.0-foot raised landscaped center median. The proposed oadway will be bordered by concrete curb and gutter. The improved facility will feature frontage roads constructed to provide access to properties along 146th Street to eplace the multiple access points removed by the project. The typical cross section will include 8.0-foot paved multi-use paths on both the north and south sides of the oadway.

The proposed cross section along Allisonville Road will consist of two 12.0-foot lanes in each direction with a 4.0-foot raised landscaped center median. The proposed coadway will be bordered by concrete curb and gutter. The improved facility will feature frontage roads constructed to provide access to properties along Allisonville Road. The typical cross section will include 8.0-foot paved multi-use paths on both sides of the roadway.

A new three 94.0-foot span bulb-tee beam overpass bridge carrying 146th Street will be constructed over Allisonville Road (Des. No. 2200198). The bridge will be 285.0-feet in length. The structure will be constructed on an 11-degree skew right with a 70.0-foot clear roadway width. The bridge will provide two 12.0-foot travel anes in each direction separated by a 6.0-foot raised concrete median and bordered by 6.0-foot shoulders

The westbound and eastbound bridges carrying 146th Street over White River (Des. Nos.1801865, 1801866) will be widened to accommodate the additions of both acceleration and deceleration lanes. The westbound bridge's superstructure and substructures will be widened on the north side. The east span of the eastbound bridge will receive a variable width (flared) widening on the south side. To accomplish this, one eastbound bridge pier and end bent will be widened. Additional prestressed concrete beams will be added to support the widenings on each bridge. The project will include a rigid concrete deck overlay, bridge deck drain replacement, and elimination of the bridge expansion joints through semi-integral end bent conversions. The bridge deck overlays will slightly change the bridge grades. The approach roadways will be wedged to match the new grades. Riprap will be placed along the embankments of White River for scour protection.

The Maintenance of Traffic (MOT) plan for the project involves closing northbound/southbound traffic on Allisonville Road. SR 37 will provide an alternative route for northbound/southbound traffic. The following is a description of the traffic sequencing during construction:

Phase 1: Construct crossover pavement in the grass median west of Allisonville Road. Remove median curbs along 146th Street and Allisonville Road within the project imits.

Phase 2abc: Traffic will be shifted on existing pavement to allow the construction of the ramps offline. Two lanes of traffic will be maintained on 146th Street, while one lane will be maintained on Allisonville Road. Right turns will be allowed for every direction during this phase. The 146th Street Bridge over the White River will be videned during this phase and traffic will be shifted on the bridge during several sub phases to allow construction.

Phase 2d: Allisonville Road will be closed to construct the pavement connecting the newly constructed ramps. Two lanes of traffic will be maintained in each direction n 146th Street existing pavement.

Phase 3a: Allisonville Road will remain closed to complete construction to the north and south. During this phase the contractor will also construct the piers for the 46th Street bridge over Allisonville Road. Two lanes of traffic will be maintained in each direction on 146th Street's newly constructed ramps

Phase 3b: Allisonville Road is reopened with one lane north and southbound with right turns only. 146th Street traffic remains on the ramps while 146th Street, the etaining walls, and the bridge over Allisonville Road are constructed.

Phase 4: Traffic is open in all directions. Single lane closures will be necessary to allow for removing temporary pavement throughout the project. Once temporary pavement is removed, the contractor can finalize curb, gutter, and pedestrian path construction; reconstruct center curbs; and to allow milling and overlay on the eastern end of the project.

The project requires 4.0 acres of permanent right-of-way (ROW) from adjacent properties of which 2.4 acres has been acquired in anticipation of the project. The project requires 1.1 acres of temporary right-of-way of which 0.1 acre has been acquired in anticipation of the project for drive reconstruction and grading. The project will require 16 relocations of which 5 were acquired with local funds after project programming and 6 were acquired with local funds prior to programming in anticipation of a project and 5 are new relocations.

Federal and local funds are proposed to be used for construction of this project. INDOT and the Federal Highway Administration have agreed that this project oses minimal impact to natural environment. It came from a farmer

I recently got home from a grocery run, and as I was putting our produce away, my daughter Mary excitedly announced that there were tomatoes on counter. our I looked at

Good news from Stony Creek Church of Christ

Think on These Things

Well, this may or may not be good news. You see, there is a time coming when we will all have to stand before the judgment seat of Christ and be judged for what we have done in this life. On that day all secrets will be completely exposed. We need to be prepared for the Judgment Day. How you live your life and whether you are a child of God will determine whether it is a good day or not.

We do not know when death will come, and we do not know when the Lord will return.

As a very old man, Isaac declared, "I do not know the day of my death" (Genesis 27:2). No one of us is any different than Isaac. We do not know when we are going to die. It may happen many years from now; it might occur even today.

Isaac was an old man when he made that statement. He did not know the day of his death, but he felt it would be soon. You may be an older person and feel that death is imminent. In all likelihood, you are right, but who knows? He may return in our lifetime or not for another thousand years. We know neither the day nor the hour of the Lord's return. In Mark 13:32, the Bible says, "But of that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father."

Paul tells us that the Lord's return will be like a thief in the night (1 Thessalonians 5:2). One thing that makes a thief successful is that he strikes at a time when one least expects him. The Lord's return will be somewhat like that - He will return at the time when we least expect Him. The tragic thing about all of this is that most of the world will not be prepared for either death or the Lord's return. Judgment Day is coming - none of us will escape it.

The Lord has "fixed a day in which He will judge the world in righteousness through a Man whom He has appointed, having furnished proof to all men by

We hope you will accept our offer to visit and investigate. We meet at 15530 Herriman Blvd. in Noblesville. Our phone number is (317) 219-5852. raising Him from the dead" (Acts 17:31). 'We must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, so that each one may be recompensed for his deeds in the body, according to what he has done, whether good or bad" (2 Corinthians 5:10).

There is no escaping the Day of Judgment. It is an appointment that we all must attend. We will not be able to call up Jesus and give Him an excuse on why we cannot make it. We cannot call in sick. Our mothers cannot send a note excusing us. We must all attend. Some people will be excited on that day and others will be sad. But the Judgment Day is coming.

Jesus Christ is coming - that is certain. But most are unprepared. Oh, some will try to make last-minute preparations to no avail. Now is the time to get ready. In 2 Corinthians 6:2, Paul said, "... now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation."

Are you prepared for the Judgment Day? I must tell you the truth ... If you die or the Lord comes back and you are not a faithful Christian, then the Bible teaches that you will spend eternity in Hell. If you have not put your faith in Jesus Christ or been willing to repent, or confess Him before others, and if you have not been baptized for the forgiveness of your sins, then you will NOT make it to Heaven!

May we help you make preparation for the coming of the Lord or the day of your death? If you have concerns about your standing before the Lord, please contact us at the Stony Creek Church of Christ. We will be happy to study God's Word with you and help you find the "peace that passes understanding" (Philippians 4:7).
