Trapping for fur

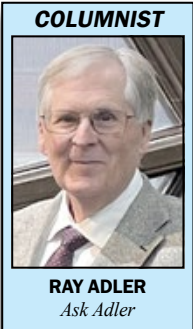

As a young man, my father was a trapper. He told me of his exploits, gathering fox, raccoon, muskrat and mink fur as a money-making project. He loved being an entrepreneur.

Unfortunately, his profits were all lost in the Great Depression when the local bank went under. When I asked for help in setting up a similar trapping operation, he indicated that I was on my own. However, he said if I would trap for mice, rats, pigeons, and groundhogs he would be happy to go into business with me. He set forth a schedule of payments for each category. I had a morning routine, setting traps in the granary for mice and rats, which was quite successful. Groundhogs paid more but were harder to catch.

Our farm, grandmother's farm, and a third farm formed three points of a triangle, each leg 1.5 miles apart. Dad had let me begin driving the car between the three farms when I was 13. "Set the groundhog on top of the front sight and pull the trigger," he had advised. "The shotgun would do the rest." Dad said, "Groundhogs are curious. If they catch sight of you and run into their hole, just set about 30 feet in front of the hole and soon they will stick their head out. Boom!"

To make sure I caught them off guard, he told me that as I approached the farm to rev the car, put it in neutral, and turn off the key (in a 1958 Pontiac with 'three in the tree' I could do that). I was to open the door as the car glided into the barn's driveway. Slowly creeping around the edge of the barn, I almost always found a groundhog. As soon as it saw me it would set up on his hind legs on alert ready to be blasted. It would hold this position for two or three seconds, just long enough to get off a shot.

Nickel Plate Arts features works from three artists during January

The REPORTER

Nickel Plate Arts is featuring three artists of the month in January.

The artists of the month include Alice Lee, Bobbi K. Samples, and Caroline Hays, and each of their exhibits will each be featured at a different Nickel Plate Arts showcase location. Information on the exhibit dates, receptions, and artist details are available below.

Stephenson House Alice Lee

Alice Lee is a self-taught artist and has taken classes at the Indianapolis Art Center to learn techniques.

Lee's exhibit, "Do Art No Matter What," features her creative interests – which are cartoon in nature and geared towards the celebration of everyday activities – in large scale oil paintings and pottery. One particular painting, "Miss Cow," was inspired by 1900s French artist Jean Dubuffet, who coined the term "art brut," which translates to "raw art" and describes graffiti or naïve art that is made outside the academic tradition of fine art. Lee had hopes to make a lady of her cow and describes her own style as organic.

"I want to share my way of seeing human nature," Lee said. "I hope to lift the spirits of the viewer by showing the charm in our everyday activities."

When it comes to her pottery work, Lee wants to maintain her connection with spontaneity; she randomly marks the clay, stretches it, then throws it, letting it land freely on her work surface. The result is a truly un-reproducible organic design that she applies to her vase.

"My pottery is never finished until someone unites it with an object from nature," Lee said.

Her full exhibit can be seen in the Stephenson House Jan. 6 to 28 from noon to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. You can meet Lee during the January First Friday event from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Stephenson House on Nickel Plate Arts campus.

Meyer Najem Bobbi K. Samples

This month, Bobbi Samples's work will make a return to Meyer Najem's second-floor gallery.

Flowers are a staple of Samples's work, and her style is a definitive one. Her exhibit, "Floral Tour of Bermuda," features strong, bold colors that mirror who Samples is – a bright, bubbly personality who isn't afraid to take a canvas and turn it into a delightful garden.

A recent summer trip to Bermuda is her latest inspiration.

"The island was gorgeous – so many colors of green, from lime to dark to fern, all in one bush," says Samples. "The flowers just captivated me; we had to start taking photos because I knew it would inspire a show."

When inspired, Samples can create an entire exhibit of art in a single month. She scores out her painting, then uses a large brush to create the background. Lights and shadows come next, with her trusty putty knife bringing in the color and her signature texture. A few coats of a fine oil glaze adds a UV protectant and gives the product perfect high-gloss results.

Samples is no stranger to Nickel Plate Arts, as she is a longtime member of the board and a Gala committee chair. She is also an annual Showcase artist, and her talents and support are seen and felt everywhere the organization has a presence.

Her full exhibit can be seen from Jan. 5 to March 28 on the second floor of Meyer Najem, 11787 Lantern Road, Fishers, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. You can meet Samples at her free public reception from 4 to 7 p.m. on Saturday, March 4 in the Meyer Najem second-floor gallery.

Aaron Smith named Noblesville Common Council president

The REPORTER

Aaron Smith was elected the new president of the Noblesville Common Council following a vote during an organization meeting held Tuesday evening. Darren Peterson was elected as vice president.

"We have a lot of projects coming out of the ground this year and I am excited to work closely with Aaron and the rest of our common council members," Mayor Chris Jensen said.

"The strong working rapport between this administration and council will prove helpful as we move projects forward that improve east to west connectivity and vibrancy to our community."

Smith is in his first term and served as the council's vice president last year. Smith is a small business owner operating in downtown Noblesville and lives with his wife and two children in Old Town.

"I am eager to step into my new role as we see key infrastructure and capital projects move forward this year," Smith said. "The strategic development of our city is exciting to be a part of while protecting and enhancing our downtown core. This will be a year of strong growth and strategic change that I am excited to be a part of as council president."

Smith is the representative from District 3, which includes historic downtown Noblesville.

Also discussed at the organization meeting were the 2023 Noblesville Common Council committee assignments, which include:

- Building/Land Acquisition – Mark Boice (Chair), Aaron Smith, Brian Ayer, Darren Peterson
- Downtown District – Megan Wiles (Chair) Darren Peterson, Brian Ayer, Aaron Smith
- Economic Development – Darren Peterson (Chair), Pete Schwartz, Megan Wiles, Aaron Smith

TRAP

As I became more adventurous, I told my dad that I wanted to trap mink. It paid more than anything else. He told me there weren't any mink in our area and they were too tricky for me to catch. I had my first one within a week.

My cousin decided he wanted help with his trap lines, and we would go venturing in the local creek. He had traps set up on both sides of the creek. One winter day, my cousin easily crossed to the other side of the frozen creek. I didn't realize that he was much lighter than me until the ice cracked and down I went. By the time I got out and got to the car, I thought I was going to freeze to death.

I'd forgotten about trapping until the idea was called to my attention by Charles McMillan. He had recalled to me his trapping experiences as a youth and suggested it might be a good newspaper article. Those days are gone. The Department of Natural Resources website notes that to trap nowadays you have to get a license even to hunt skunk!

ARTISTS

Four Day Ray Caroline Hays

Artist Caroline Hays's work demonstrates the layers of history that go into a place. Hays invites the viewer to step into the history of each place in her exhibit, "Read Between the Layers."

Hays graduated from Indiana University as a graphic designer, where she spent time working for the school's newspaper.

"I enjoyed it, but it wasn't exactly what I wanted to do full time," Hays says.

She decided to get her teaching license and began teaching drawing and painting classes at Noblesville High School.

"[I] love witnessing

[my] students grow in their skills and seeing them define their voice as an artist," she said.

Hays's own artwork is inspired by her immense love for history and her family's legacy of travel. Her grandfather – who was a navigator in World War II – would mark the family's travels on maps, which became a big part of Hays's artwork. She developed a mixed media style that is composed of layers of maps, brochures, and other paper-related items that came from the artifacts her grandparents kept to document their travels.

The foundation of her process starts with adhering a map to the surface of the piece. She then builds in layers of shapes inspired by the architecture of the place. Her use of neutral colors works to invoke a sense of nostalgia with the viewer, similar to sepia-toned photographs and aged history books. Gold leaf and splatters are often incorporated to add a final element of human touch, symbolizing the passage of time, and communicating a sense of sacredness to the place.

Her full exhibit can be seen now through March 28 at Four Day Ray Brewing, 11671 Lantern Road, Fishers, Sunday and Monday from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Friday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. You can meet Hays at her free public reception from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 20 at Four Day Ray.

Commissions are also open, so if you're an avid traveler with mementos, Hays would love to help turn your travel stories into art.

PREVAIL

Advocating for Victims of Crime & Abuse

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Rep. Victoria Spartz: ‘Stop wasting time’ in balloting for speaker of House

By GREGG MONTGOMERY
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

U.S. Rep. Victoria Spartz (R-Ind.-05) on Wednesday shared her frustration and voted “present” in the fifth and sixth ballots to elect a speaker of the House of Representatives.

House Republicans flailed through a second day of multiple balloting Wednesday, unable to elect their leader Kevin McCarthy as House speaker or come up with a new strategy to end the political chaos that has tarnished the start of their new majority.

For a fourth, fifth and sixth time, Republicans tried to vote McCarthy into the top job as the House plunged deeper into disarray. But the votes were producing almost the same outcome, 20 conservative holdouts still refusing to support him, and leaving him far short of the 218 typically needed to win the gavel.

McCarthy saw his tally slip to 201 as Swartz switched to vote simply “present.”

Spartz shared her frustration in a news release:

“We have a constitutional duty to elect the Speaker of the House, but we have to deliberate further as a Republican conference until we have enough votes and stop wasting everyone’s time. None of the Republican candidates have this number yet. That’s why I voted present after all votes were cast.”

Spartz’ district includes the cities of Alexandria, Anderson, Carmel, Elwood, Fishers, Hartford City, Marion, Noblesville, Tipton and Westfield, and part of the Kokomo area.

Fishers encourages volunteering & community service for MLK Day

The REPORTER

Fishers’ 2023 Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Day celebration will offer residents several ways to give back to the community and celebrate the message of kindness from MLK Jr., with a community-wide food drive and volunteer opportunities throughout the city.

Community-wide food drive

With local food pantries experiencing an increase in demand and a decrease in supply, the City of Fishers will hold a community-wide food drive on Monday, Jan. 16. Food donations will be collected with a Pack the Bus event at the city’s parks and all three Fishers Kroger stores from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Donations will be collected at the following parks and Kroger stores:

- Brooks School Park: 11780 Brooks School Road
- Cyntheanne Park: 12383 Cyntheanne Road
- Flat Fork Creek Park: 16141 E. 101st St.
- Harrison Thompson Park: 13573 Conner Knoll Pkwy.
- Nickel Plate Amphitheater: 6 Municipal Drive
- Holland Park: 1 Park Drive
- Saxony Hall: 13362 Pennington Road
- Heritage Park: 10595 Eller Road
- Kroger: 9799 E. 116th St.
- Kroger: 11700 Olio Road

In addition, residents can order donations from the city’s Amazon Wish List.

Volunteer opportunities

MLK Day is the only federal holiday designated as a national day of service to encourage all Americans to volunteer to improve their communities. This year, Fishers residents are invited to volunteer with the city.

- Christmas tree mulch spread at Billericay Park: Saturday, Jan. 14, 9 to 10:30 a.m.
 - Onion seed planting at the Fishers AgriPark: Saturday, Jan. 14, 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Gov. Eric Holcomb proposes 6% boost for schools next year

The REPORTER

Governor Eric J. Holcomb announced on Wednesday as part of his 2023 Next Level Agenda he will pursue what he calls transformational changes to the way public health is delivered in Indiana, historic investments in K-12 education – including fully funding the cost of textbooks for Indiana students and new literacy initiatives – and even stronger economic development tools to capture key economic development projects and investing another $500 million in the successful READI program.

“By making lasting investments in our health, education and workforce we are building a stronger tomorrow for all Hoosiers,” Gov. Holcomb said. “First and foremost, we will protect our fiscal strength of Indiana by adopting our 10th straight honestly balanced budget which allows us to strategically prioritize public health, education, workforce, as well as economic and community development to elevate Indiana to the Next Level and provide citizens and their families the tools they need to not just survive but thrive for generations to come.”

Governor Holcomb’s 2023 Next Level Agenda details, both legislative and administrative priorities, can be found at this link. You can learn more about Holcomb’s whole Next Level plan at in.gov/gov/next-level-agenda.

State Senate Democratic Leader Greg Taylor released the following statement in response to the governor’s budget:

“There were several good priorities in the Governor’s agenda which members of my caucus have been pushing for years – investments in K-12 and public health, more money for food banks, elimination of school textbook fees, auto-enrolling students in the 21st Century Scholars Program – but as is the trend, his agenda failed to go far enough.

“Indiana has the means to step up exponentially and invest in problems impacting everyday Hoosiers. Residents are struggling. They’re paying the 7th highest healthcare costs in the nation; we lack sufficient childcare in all 92 counties; Hoosiers don’t have the workplace support to ensure their well-being. We don’t have pregnancy accommodations for expecting mothers; we have no paid leave program for workers who need to care for their families; and, we have a stagnant $7.25 minimum wage amidst record inflation.

“I would have loved to see more priority placed on improving the daily lives of Hoosiers through strategic investments that have a long-term impact. For example, we’re using $25 million in federal dollars to establish a grant to fund employer childcare options. We could be directing state dollars toward childcare solutions, including funding my child and dependent care tax credit program, to actually work toward fixing this issue. Not only would it benefit countless parents struggling with childcare across our state, but it would provide one of the best solutions to our strained workforce.

“Funding for public health is another glaring area where funding falls short. The Governor’s own health commission recommended $250M in funding and they’re receiving half of that. Our state needs to head into the budget year with a more robust vision for Indiana. We just banned abortion earlier this year. Why doesn’t the Governor’s agenda explicitly include a section to invest in mothers and new babies?”

“Unfortunately, I think the Governor’s budget priorities ultimately just fall short.”

Sen. Young sworn in for second term

The REPORTER

U.S. Senator Todd Young (R-Ind.) was sworn in Tuesday for a second term in the United States Senate.

On the first day of the new Congress, all new and newly re-elected Senators take a formal oath administered by the Vice President, who also serves as the President of the Senate.

“It is a tremendous honor to continue serving Indiana in the United States Senate,” Sen. Young said. “Over the next six years, I will do my best to represent our state and ensure all Hoosiers have the ability to reach their potential. From outcompeting the Chinese Communist Party to implementing the CHIPS and Science Act to addressing the drivers of our national debt, we have many challenges facing our nation. I am excited to get to work.”

Young currently serves on the U.S. Senate Committees on Finance; Foreign Relations; Commerce, Science & Transportation; and Small Business and Entrepreneurship. He previously served in the U.S. House of Representatives from 2011 to 2016 before being elected to the Senate in 2016. A fifth-generation Hoosier, Young and his family currently reside in Johnson County.

Leah York files to run in Carmel City Council caucus

Submitted

Republican Leah York, lifelong Carmel resident, owner of a nonprofit focused consulting firm, and member of the Carmel Board of Zoning Appeals, has filed to run in the Carmel City Council Central District caucus to replace former councilor Bruce Kimball, who died on Dec. 30, 2022.

“I am uniquely positioned in this caucus because I am the only one with the experience to hit the ground running on day one,” York said. “I have been attending the twice-monthly city council meetings for over two years. I also attend Board of Zoning Appeals, Redevelopment Commission, Planning Commission, Council Finance Committee, and Land-Use Committee meetings. I meet with business owners and residents in this District regularly to listen and better understand their needs.”

York says she plans to make the safety of all those who live, work, or do business in Carmel her top priority while on the City Council, and she says she wants to ensure that Carmel’s public safety departments have the resources and tools to be prepared to deter or respond to any threats in the community.

“I plan to have a continual open dialogue with residents,” York said. “I pride myself on being a highly accessible and transparent leader.”

Aside from owning Talbott Talent, York is the chair of the OneZone Women’s Network of the OneZone Chamber of Commerce, Vice President of The O’Connor House, and a volunteer for the Carmel Farmers Market.

Scott Willis files to run for Westfield mayor

Submitted

On Wednesday, Westfield City Council member Scott Willis filed paperwork to run for mayor of Westfield.

“This morning I officially filed my paperwork with the Election’s Office to be on the ballot for Mayor of Westfield,” Willis said. “Westfield is a great place to raise a family. We are creating our own personality and brand as a city and are primed to be a world class city that we can all enjoy, gather, work, and live in. Through strategic, smart, and intentional growth, I want to take Westfield to the next level ... to its highest potential of being a thriving city.”

Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen files for re-election

Submitted

Mayor Chris Jensen formally filed on Wednesday with the Hamilton County Clerk to seek a second term as Mayor of Noblesville.

“I am thrilled to have the opportunity to continue to serve my hometown of Noblesville,” Jensen said. “As Mayor, I have focused on sustaining the development of our authentic downtown while charting a path for our bright future. Together, Noblesville can continue to focus on protecting our historic downtown while embracing our unique asset of the White River and investing in our brave first responders.”

During his time in office, Mayor Jensen has led efforts that have attracted more than $1 billion in private investment and has worked to address the challenge of transformational infrastructure development the city needs as it continues to grow. As Mayor, Jensen says he has put Noblesville first, working to develop the city’s workforce and generate jobs while making generational investments in infrastructure that will attract families and residents.

“In officially filing for re-election, I look forward to continued improvement for our city and the services we can provide to our families and neighbors,” Jensen said. “With humility and gratitude, I’m excited to once again ask Noblesville for their vote and trust.”

Two Franklin College physician assistant students from Carmel & Fishers participate in White Coat Ceremony

The REPORTER

The Franklin College Master of Science in Physician Assistant Studies Program held its White Coat Ceremony on Dec. 15, 2022. The college’s cohort of 22 PA students from the class of 2024 received their white coats and recited a medical oath before family and friends inside Custer Theatre in Old Main on the Franklin College campus.

Jasmina Cheeseman, PA-C, MLS, program director and assistant professor of physician assistant studies, provided the welcome and opening remarks for the ceremony. Franklin College Vice President of Academic Affairs and Dean Kristin Flora, Ph.D., and Student Class President Amber Dumstorf, PA-S, also addressed the students and their guests.

The ceremony is the half-way mark of the 25-month, full-time program. Gregory Strock, M.D., program medical director and adjunct assistant professor of physician assistant studies, also addressed the guests, explaining the symbolism of the ceremony as a rite of passage welcoming students into healthcare practice by providing a white coat signifying professionalism and humanistic patient care. At Franklin College, it marks the transition from the didactic year to the clinical year and the beginning of clinical rotations.

Locally, two students from Hamilton County received their white coats:

- Megana Bammidi of Carmel. She completed her undergraduate degree at Purdue University.
- Lauren Fowler of Fishers. She completed her undergraduate degree at Indiana University.

The ceremony is the fourth for Franklin College. The program’s fifth cohort of PA students will begin their studies in January 2023.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Yet I hold this against you: You have forsaken the love you had at first. Consider how far you have fallen! Repent and do the things you did at first. If you do not repent, I will come to you and remove your lampstand from its place. But you have this in your favor: You hate the practices of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

Whoever has ears, let them hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who is victorious, I will give the right to eat from the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.

Royal wrestlers win Mudsock trophy

By RICHIE HALL
sports@readthereporter.com

FISHERS – Wednesday night’s Mudsock wrestling meet between Hamilton Southeastern and Fishers was almost like a bowling competition.

Why? Because there were pins all over the place.

That may qualify as a “dad joke,” but there is a solid amount of truth to it. Twelve of the 14 matches between the Royals and the Tigers were decided by fall. Southeastern got more pins, and thus won the meet, 48-30 in a loud, competitive dual at the Tiger Den.

The Royals picked up seven falls, while Fishers got five pins. Southeastern also won the two bouts that were not decided by fall; both of those were hard-fought decisions. That gave the Royals a total of nine victories; they clinched the meet by winning four matches in a row late in the meet.

“It’s very emotional,” said Southeastern coach Nick Brobst. “It’s like wrestling your brother. Like I say every year, I hope that Fishers wins every other dual except for this one.”

Both teams had several talented wrestlers in their lineup for the Mudsock trophy. The meet started at 126 pounds, and the Tigers’ Griffin Ingalls, No. 7 in Indiana-Mat.com’s state rankings, got a pin just 35 seconds into the first period.

Fishers’ Quenton Riley won at 132 by fall, giving his team an early 12-0 lead. The Royals came back to take the next three matches, starting with the two decisions. Chris Casler won the 138-pound bout 5-0, while Adam Gerstner was a 4-1 winner at 145 pounds.

After that, everything else was a pin. HSE’s 12th-ranked Zach Lang tied the meet at 12-12 with a pin at 152, getting the call with one second left in the period.

moved his team ahead 18-12 with a second-period pin at 160 pounds. Southeastern won the next two matches, with Zack Wagner taking the 170-pound bout and Said Soufiane winning at 182.

Fishers’ Chris Quarles tied the meet again with a quick pin at 195, making the score 24-24. But the Royals took care of business by winning the next four matches. Jackson Goodyear was the 220-pound winner, No. 4-ranked Dom Burgett got a first-period fall at 285, Aidan Smalley won at 106 and Tyler Jackson had a first-period pin at 113.

“It’s all about just being consistent and mentally staying strong,” said Burgett, who is undefeated for the season. “If you see your teammate going out there and getting pinned, it’s knowing that it’s an individual thing, and no one’s out there but you, so you got to do your Fishers.

“Our kids that were expected to win came out and did their job,” said Tigers coach Frank Ingalls. Fishers got all of their wins by pin, but the Royals got more pins, and that made the difference.

“If we would’ve got some guys to fight a little harder and just lose by decision as opposed to getting pinned, it would’ve been a much better outcome,” said Ingalls. “That’s just something we got to keep working on.”

Both teams are back in action Saturday. Southeastern will wrestle at the Paul Loggan Memorial Invitational at North Central, while Fishers travels to Zionsville for the Mike Fendley Hall of Fame tournament.

best. And also, there is a team aspect. We have to rally behind each other, too. I think we did a good job of doing that.”

Basketball— Westfield girls easily beat Bishop Chatard

The REPORTER

The Westfield girls basketball team put together a superior defensive effort on Wednesday.

The Shamrocks beat Bishop Chatard 41-13 in a home game at CSI Gymnasium. Westfield was in control from the beginning, leading the Trojans 11-1 after one quarter and 22-4 at halftime.

The Rocks never allowed Chatard more than five points in one period. Those 13 total points were the lowest total a Westfield team allowed an opponent since Nov. 28, 2009, when the Shamrocks beat Harrison 40-12.

Lindsey Van Dyke scored 13 points to lead the Westfield scoring. Ellie Kelleher had an outstanding all-around game with eight rebounds, eight assists and seven points. Kiki Loveless collected six rebounds, while Aubrey Crockett pulled five rebounds; both Loveless and Crockett blocked two shots.

The Shamrocks are 10-7. Westfield’s Saturday game with Hamilton Heights is postponed; the Rocks are next scheduled to play Jan. 13 at Hamilton Southeastern.

Guerin Catholic girls score away victory against Park Tudor

The REPORTER

Guerin Catholic’s girls basketball team got a road win at Park Tudor Wednesday, 29-23.

The Golden Eagles led 8-6 after the first quarter, with Megan Cobb scoring four points. The Panthers cut that lead to 17-16 by halftime, and were still within 21-20 after three periods. But Guerin Cath-olic’s defense held Park Tudor to three points in the fourth.

Natalie Fernandez and Cobb both had 10 points for the Golden Eagles, with Fernandez scoring four in the fourth quarter.

Guerin Catholic is 6-8 and hosts Bishop Chatard on Friday as part of a Circle City Conference girls-boys doubleheader.

Carmel takes victory lap against Fishers in all-county swim meet

The REPORTER

The Carmel swim teams swept an all-county dual meet with Fishers Tuesday at the Greyhounds’ aquatic center.

In the girls meet, Carmel won 114.5-71.5. The Greyhounds took 10 of the 12 events, with double victories for Alex Shackell in the 200 freestyle and butterfly, and Molly Sweeney in the individual medley and breaststroke. Berit Berglund was first in the 100 free, Lynsey Bowen took the 500 free, Grace Dougherty won the backstroke, and Carmel swept all three relays. The Tigers’ two wins came from Addison Carlile in the 50 free and Gretchen Osmun in diving.

The Hounds won the boys meet 108-78, taking nine events. Aaron Shackell was victorious in the 50 and 100 freestyles, while Gregg Enoch was first in the 200 free and breaststroke. Sean Sullivan won the IM, Andrew Shackell paced the butterfly and Carmel swept all three relays. Fishers got wins from Jacob Schade in diving, Jonny Hines in the 500 free and Tommy Johanneman in the backstroke.
