company in Muncie, serves as culinary services director at Woodland Terrace of Carmel, a senior living facility at 689 Pro-Med Lane. He oversees four kitchens in the Woodland Terrace main dining room, ballroom, bistro, and fine dining restaurant.

“We don’t have commercial kitchens at the high school yet, but the kids needed a place to practice,” CHS Culinary Instructor Nick Carter said.

When Carter reached out to Williams about allowing several students to come into one of the Woodland Terrace kitchens to practice preparing recipes, Williams didn’t hesitate to offer up his space.

“For us to be able to offer our kitchen up to them is huge,” Woodland Terrace Executive Director Nick Halstead said. “A lot of people have this stereotype of senior living that the food isn’t great. But Woodland Terrace really takes pride in the food we offer.”

CHS juniors Rylynn Garner and Elizabeth Siders and senior Julia Hohne gathered in the main kitchen at Woodland Terrace on Wednesday, June 19. Garner and Siders, who will compete in the culinary arts category, prepared medallion pork with quinoa, mushroom sauce, sauteed vegetables, and salad. Hohne, who will compete in the baking and pastry category, baked blueberry muffins, chocolate chip cookies, and cream puffs.

Williams is no stranger to working alongside CHS students as he has participated in Cheftacular, an event which Carter helped start six years ago. Cheftacular pairs CHS culinary students with local professional chefs for a charity tasting event and culinary competition that raises money for the CHS culinary arts, the Cheftacular scholarship, and the Hamilton County Harvest Food Bank.

In May, Williams and his student partner, 2024 graduate Korede Igbalaye, took first place from among 18 chef-student teams. Williams said residents at Woodland Terrace not only taste-tested and helped select the smoked duck on crostini with peach goat cheese mousse, whiskey cherries, and thyme as their Cheftacular entry, some of the residents even showed up to support Igbalaye in the competition. Williams also said that Igbalaye still shadows him in the kitchen about once a week.

Williams likes having students in his kitchen.

“It brings a new atmosphere,” he said. “Plus, I get to see who’s coming up and maybe I can hire one of them.”

Emily Daily placed second at FCCLA nationals prior to graduating from CHS several years ago. A graduate of Sullivan University, Daily now works at Le Petit Gateau in Carmel and returned to Cheftacular this year as a mentor chef.

“The gift that I’ve had watching her go to a confident professional chef is priceless,” Carter said.

Carter taught biology and chemistry in high school and at Ivy Tech before going to culinary school. He helped open the culinary kitchens at Pike High School and will be doing the same at CHS in the near future.

“Part of what I enjoy about teaching culinary is that it’s really a life skill,”

Carter said. “Even if they don’t go into restaurants, it’s helping kids learn to cook for themselves. There is no situation where you don’t need to eat for the rest of your life. I find that it is not only a valuable thing, but it also gives students the opportunity to explore a career option without investing in schooling.”

Garner, Honhe, and Siders, along with 2024 CHS graduate Scout Phillips will compete in Seattle June 29 to July 3.

“Everyone wants to see these kids do great at nationals, but it’s not just about competition,” Reich said. “The Carmel culinary community actively supports culinary education in Carmel, believing that these kids, with support and guidance, can and will do amazing things.”

The other programs Ben’s Ranch offers are Small Groups and Internships. Small Groups are run continuously and encourage the youth to get outside, interact with nature and animals, and engage in physical outdoor labor. Unlike the Small Groups, the Internships are paid. These part time jobs take place on farms on the 15 various locations in central Indiana, including the Koteewi Stables and Trails.

While the Boot Camp ended last Saturday, work continued throughout the week until the project was finished. Youth and volunteers from the Small Groups and Internships helped with the project in an ongoing opportunity.

Building fences expands the Koteewi Stables and Trails and, in turn, expands the opportunities that Ben’s Ranch can offer the youth.

Around 30 people worked on the project. McVey said he is thankful for all the volunteers and youth who worked hard under the hot sun. They put their sweat into the fences, but had fun, gathered experience, and met new people along the way.

“Our youth that we work with as part of our programs are invited and encouraged to come out and be part of that process so they learn about measuring and tools,” McVey said. “It’s kind of a satisfying process to actually build something, and so it gives us not only an opportunity to expand our capacity out there and our platform, but also to get the kids involved.”

Ben’s Ranch does more than build fences, though. McVey said they strive to have creative topics and different settings. They design their experiences so the youth can have fun and learn all at the same time.

While the skills the students learn and the work they do looks good on a resume, the real value is in helping their mental health.

The ranch’s mission is stated on their website: “Ben’s Ranch seeks to improve the lives of youth struggling with mental health issues by connecting them to jobs and experiences on farms, at stables and in other natural and agricultural settings.”

McVey started the ranch because of his son Ben and dedicated it to his memory. Ben was diagnosed with Bipolar Disorder when he was 14. Hoping to save his son’s crumbling mental health and their struggling family relationships, McVey enrolled Ben on a ranch.

Ben’s mental health improved. He found drive and confidence, and from the talks he shared with his father, he sounded happier. Although Ben died at 24, he died with a job and with friends. McVey saw the positive impact the ranch had on his son and dedicated himself to try and provide that hope and healing to other people.

Volunteer opportunities can also be found on the website. Ben’s Ranch Foundation can be flexible with people’s schedules. They always appreciate the special skills people can bring to the table, or in this case, fences.

“We’ll always welcome folks that want to help with stuff like that,” McVey said. “But also our volunteer opportunities span a wide range of roles and ways that people can help. Again, even if they have to do it from a home office or if they have to restrict their role to one they can do once in awhile or on an ongoing basis for us. So there’s just a lot of ways to get involved if you’re interested.”

At Koteewi Stables and Trails, they are starting new small groups in July, and they are hosting Boot Camps on July 13 and Aug. 3. McVey continues to work full time at the ranch. He said they are also working with schools, specifically Sheridan and Hamilton Heights. McVey said they will continue to deepen their relationships with schools as they expand Ben’s Ranch and reach more youth.

Hamilton County Leadership Academy names 2024 graduates

The REPORTER

Earlier this month, the Hamilton County Leadership Academy (HCLA) added 35 community leaders to their alumni ranks. With this graduating class, HCLA's more than 30-year legacy grew to nearly 900 alumni who have and continue to make their mark in Hamilton County.

"As my time as Dean comes to an end, I can't help but wonder what the future holds for this remarkable group of individuals," said Patrick Propst, who served as the Class of 2024 Dean. "While I may not know exactly what is in store, one thing is certain: they are equipped with the knowledge, resources, and network provided by HCLA to make a significant impact in their respective spheres of influence – be it individually, family, career, or community."

Lowry cites “greedflation” as Duke Energy’s reason for rate increase request

Dear Editor:

Do you have an extra $504 that I can take from you and put into my bank account? That is exactly what Duke Energy is asking Hoosiers.

Our energy utility corporation has requested to increase our rates by 16.2 percent while providing the same services. At a time when our paychecks are stretched further than ever, Duke Energy wants to increase your utilities bill by an average of $504 per year.

I strongly oppose this rate hike and ask that you join me in asking the Indiana Utility Regulatory Committee to reject this unreasonable rate hike.

For a massive rate increase, you would think Duke is struggling, right? WRONG. Last year, the North Carolina-based company made $2.87 BILLION in pure profit, with $497 million coming from Hoosiers.

This price hike isn't a partisan issue. I applaud Westfield Mayor Scott Willis for publicly opposing the rate hike, and I hope other elected officials will be brave enough to speak out as well.

Duke claims the rate hike is for improvements to the grid. But, Duke is also asking to have its profit margin increased from 9.7 percent to 10.5 percent. When corporations pass their business costs onto consumers, THAT is what causes inflation. Or, more appropriately ... greed-flation. Investments in infrastructure are necessary, but our bank accounts shouldn't suffer for Duke Energy to do their job when they already profit billions each year.

Greedflation is not new, but now it has shifted into overdrive. From 1980 to 2020, profits accounted for 11 percent of inflation; in 2023, corporate profits caused inflation to spike more than 50 percent!

It's time we take action. Let the IURC know that Duke's 16.2 percent rate hike is unacceptable.

Submit a written comment, by July 5, to the Indiana Office of Utility Consumer Counselor, the state agency that represents all consumers in cases before the IURC at in.gov/oucc or by email to uccinfo@oucc.in.gov.

Our collective voices are more powerful than ever. So, send a message to the IURC, Duke Energy, and all big corporations that we won't stand for putting profits over people.

Jumpstart your July 4th celebration with ATI & CSO

The REPORTER

Actors Theatre of Indiana is joining forces once again with the Carmel Symphony Orchestra. Bring your friends and family and join ATI and CSO on Wednesday, July 3 as they celebrate the country's independence in the best way – with live music.

From 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., ATI will kick off the celebration with a patriotic tribute of George M. Cohan medleys.

Cohan was an American entertainer, playwright, composer, actor, singer, and dancer. He wrote more than 50 shows and published more than 300 songs during his lifetime, including "Over There," "Give My Regards to Broadway," "The Yankee Doodle Boy" and "You're a Grand Old Flag."

Joining ATI for this patriotic performance will be Jacob Butler, Cynthia Collins, Judy Fitzgerald, and Darrin Murrell.

This delightful evening will continue as the CSO presents the second in the Summer Concert Series. This concert, featuring Serpentine Fire, a tribute to the music of Earth, Wind & Fire, begins at 8:30 p.m., immediately following a performance by Indianapolis' own Bashiri Asad.

The Centerpiece Amphitheater at Coxhall Gardens is an exceptional venue for creating memories for your family, friends, or associates. Bring a picnic and spread out on the lawn or buy seats in the Terrace and VIP sections for a more comfortable evening and better views.

Food trucks will be available throughout the night, along with stations featuring Sugar Creek Winery and Bier Brewery. CSO is partnering with Artomobilia this year, so you can also enjoy strolling along and looking at some of the special automobiles that will be on display.

Spreading joy to your customers: knock their socks off thank yous

We're continuing our discussion about how to spread joy to customers by being creative when thanking them. Last week I covered thank you notes. This week I'll highlight other, simple things we can do to make a customer's day.

This thank you method is probably the simplest of all, but it is my favorite way to show appreciation to customers – or really, anyone. When I worked for the City of Noblesville, I ordered a large "thank you" sign from our Logan Street Signs and Banners. At the time it cost $30.

Whenever we received a grant for a piece of equipment, project, or program, I would gather the appropriate staff to have them hold that sign and take their picture. This was fun for both us and the recipient!

Show Versus Tell

If there's any way to show a customer how much of an impact they're making versus just telling them, take advantage of it. Here are some ideas:

1. If you're a nonprof-

AMY SHANKLAND

Perfectly Imperfect

it, host an open house one day where your donors can see programs they helped fund in action.

2. Perhaps your business has experienced tremendous growth. Give your existing customers the chance to have a "sneak preview" one evening of, for example, the new physical therapy wing in your building.

3. Customer site visits for a variety of places can be fun for everyone involved. If you manufacture a product, open your door once a month for some guided public tours.

News Releases & Social Media

This thank you method might be appropriate for only specific types of industries or organizations, but it's a simple one if you have a public relations person or department.

Mention Customers in an Annual Report or Newsletter

Some of us might remember the excitement of seeing our photo and an article about us in the local paper growing up. It was always a thrill to open the newspaper and see myself on stage in my high school play, on the tennis court during an intense match, or leading a fundraiser in college.

Why not feature customers in your annual report or newsletter? If you have way too many customers to mention them all, you can do a "customer of the year" or "customer of the month" corner with a photo and brief paragraph.

Artwork/Thank You from Children or Clients Served

Once again, this may only work for certain workplaces, but sharing artwork or thank you notes from children or clients served all because of your customers is one of the most memorable ways to show appreciation.

Tree or Shrub Planting

If you do any sort of yearly improvements for your landscaping, this is almost a no-brainer. When you plant that new tree or shrub, why not order a durable outdoor plaque recognizing an outstanding customer to be placed in front of it?

Next week we'll wrap up how to spread joy to customers through "thank yous" with some ideas that take a bit more effort but offer tremendous benefits!

Carmel Jazz Fest puts focus on youth & education for 2024

The REPORTER

The second annual Carmel Jazz Fest (CJF) returns Aug. 9 and 10.

In addition to Carmel Jazz Fest featuring top international, regional, and local acts in jazz, blues and R&B, CJF will shine a spotlight on emerging artists from local high schools and Indiana colleges.

This year, CJF welcomes high school-level performers from Carmel High School, Zionsville High School, and The Classical Academy in Indianapolis. Europa – a high school jazz quintet – will perform with special guest high school vocalist Delila Seal from 9 to 9:30 p.m. on Aug. 10 on the Carter Green Stage.

Teliah McClung, a senior at The Classical Academy in Indianapolis, is a rising vocalist who has lent her voice to studio recordings for Plank Road Publishing, participated in Midtown's Got Talent, and has performed at Feinstein's in Carmel. McClung will perform at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. Aug. 10 at the Rotary Amphitheater at Carter Green.

Carmel Jazz Fest also welcomes four Indiana universities to the weekend event. CJF's organizers say they believe featuring university talent allows guests and students to be educated and inspired by experiencing the best of Indiana collegiate musical programs. The Studio Theatre will host the University of Indianapolis, Butler University, Indiana University, and Ball State University on Aug. 9 and 10. Please see the schedule at carmeljazzfest.org for performance times and tickets.

CJF will also feature a special collaborative musical ensemble: The College Professors, comprising four university professors performing together. Mark Buselli of Ball State University, Mark O'Connor of University of Indianapolis, Matt Pivec of Butler University, and Tom Walsh of Indiana University will perform together at 9:30 p.m. on Aug. 10 at 9:30 p.m. on the Carter Green stage.

Also on Aug. 10 will be the CJF Music Education Panel from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Studio Theater. The CJF Music Education Panel allows festival patrons and students the opportunity to learn about music education. Guests will have the opportunity to participate in a question-and-answer session with university music educators and collegiate musicians.

Carmel plans for district that allows carrying alcohol outdoors

By CHRISTOPHER CLAFFEY & GREGG MONTGOMERY
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

The Carmel city government is looking to establish a Designated Outdoor Recreational Area.

Established by state law in 2023, DORAs allow alcohol to be carried outdoors in designated containers from designated businesses.

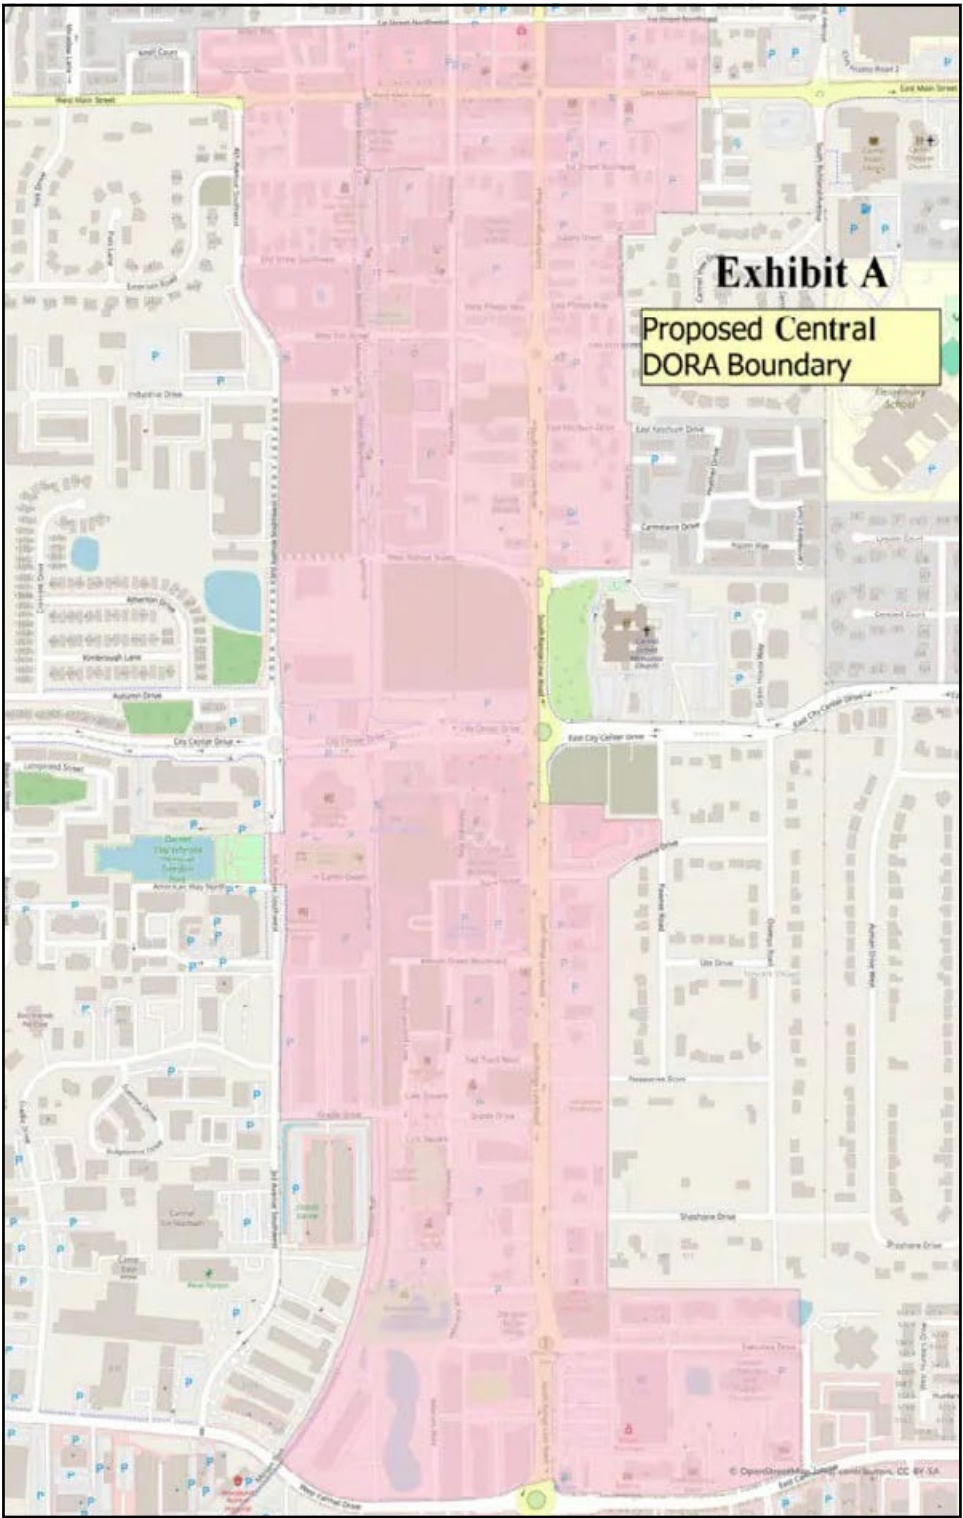

City Councilor Matthew Snyder, one of three sponsors of an ordinance to create the district, is supporting the proposal. The Republican says the upsides outweigh the downsides, and says it has support.

“There is a huge amount of support from the business owners around,” Snyder said. “In fact, I haven’t spoken with one against it yet. Our chamber of commerce, OneZone, has come out formally and in great support of this. We have not heard of anybody against it yet. We’ve had a few questions that people have wanted clarified, and, once they were, they were supportive.”

The ordinance will be introduced to the City Council at its next meeting at 6 p.m. Monday at City Hall, 1 Civic Square.

A map in the ordinance shows the district roughly bordered on the north by First Street Northwest; on the west by Fourth Avenue Southwest and Third Avenue Southwest; on the south by West Carmel Drive; and on the east by Executive Drive, the businesses along both sides of Range Line Road, and First Avenue Southeast. The Carmel Arts & Design District and The Center for the Performing Arts would be within the district.

It’s not clear if the ordinance will be voted on at

Graphic provided by City of Carmel

Monday’s meeting or sent to a committee for further review.

According to the Indiana Alcohol and Tobacco Commission, these cities and towns have active DORAs: Batesville, Fort Wayne (it has two DORAs), Greensburg, Hunting-burg, Jasper, Jeffersonville, Kirklín, Lawrenceburg, Logansport, Shelbyville, Warsaw, Winona Lake, and Yorktown.

Noblesville City Council in April approved the startup of a DORA, and Westfield City Council on Monday approved one of its own.

Hallowell Consulting, LLC hires Luke Thomas as Director of Government Relations and Communications

The REPORTER

Indianapolis-based Hallowell Consulting, LLC, a government relations and consulting firm, has hired southern Indiana native Luke Thomas as director of government relations and communications. He brings additional statewide relationships and experience to the company.

Thomas formerly served as press secretary and digital director for the Indiana Republican Party and Eric Holcomb for Indiana. He also gained experience as the communications director for Chambers for Indiana.

For three years, Thomas served on the Perry County Council as both vice president and president. He also served as the chairman of the Perry County Republican Party.

“Luke’s communications and public relations skills, combined with his background in government, make him a strong asset to our team,” Hallowell Consulting, LLC President Jennifer Hallowell said. “We’re thrilled to have him on board as we continue to grow our communications and government relations work and better serve our clients.”

Thomas earned his Master of Public Policy from Liberty University and his Bachelor of Science in applied geography with a concentration in urban and regional analysis from the University of Louisville.

Governor Eric J. Holcomb & Attorney General Todd Rokita seek execution date for convicted murderer

The REPORTER

Governor Eric J. Holcomb announced Wednesday that he and Attorney General Todd Rokita are seeking the resumption of executions in Indiana prisons – starting with a convicted murderer responsible for the deaths of four people.

“After years of effort, the Indiana Department of Correction has acquired a drug – pentobarbital – which can be used to carry out executions,” Gov. Holcomb said. “Accordingly, I am fulfilling my duties as governor to follow the law and move forward appropriately in this matter.”

Joseph Corcoran was found guilty of the 1997 murders of four people. He exhausted his appeals in 2016 and has been awaiting execution.

“In Indiana, state law authorizes the death penalty as a means of providing justice for victims of society’s most heinous crimes and holding perpetrators accountable,” AG Rokita said. “Further, it serves as an effective deterrent for certain offenders who might otherwise commit similar extreme crimes of violence. Now that the Indiana Department of Correction is prepared to carry out the lawfully imposed sentence, it’s incumbent on our justice system to immediately enable executions in our prisons to resume. Today, I am filing a motion asking the Indiana Supreme Court to set a date for the execution of Joseph Corcoran.”

Holcomb

“Creative Aging” supported at 36 libraries across Indiana

Anderson & Westfield Washington public libraries will offer programming

The REPORTER

The Indiana Arts Commission (IAC) announced Thursday that 36 libraries have received training and grant funding through Lifelong Arts Indiana, a program that promotes arts and creativity services for adults ages 65 and older.

• Westfield Washington Public Library: “Harp Exploration with Melissa Gallant of Tuneful Harps” and “Sizzling with the Steel-band: An interactive exploration of the Steel Drum”

• Anderson Public Library in Madison County: “Creative Aging: Art Workshop for Older Adults”

Click here to learn more about each of the projects, including dates.

Participating libraries were identified through a partnership with the Indiana State Library and were offered an opportunity to attend a training on creative aging best practices and apply for an early action grant to deploy their learnings in their own communities.

Each library will receive up to $5,000 to host programming for older adults, supported by the Indiana Arts Commission in partnership with the Family and Social Services Administration.

Funded programming will take place now through Dec. 13.

Families to lose access to key Medicaid program in Indiana

By GARRETT BERGQUIST
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Families and advocates for medically complex children on Monday said Indiana officials did not clearly communicate who would qualify for a pair of cost-reimbursement programs through Medicaid.

Beginning July 1, parents will no longer be eligible to take part in the attendant care program, which reimburses caregivers of people with serious disabilities at a rate of $34 per hour. If parents wish to continue to be reimbursed directly for caring for their medically complex children, they will have to sign up for the structured family caregiving program, which pays up to $133 per day.

Jennifer DeWitt, whose son has several severe medical conditions and who has become a key advocate for such families, said some families also have begun signing up for the state's home health aide program. Then last week, the state Family and Social Services Administration (FSSA) issued guidance that clarified one person can't participate in both programs.

"For a family that already has a whole lot of anxiety due to their kid's medical conditions in their life, to have this additional anxiety put in there of not every knowing when FSSA is going to pull the proverbial rug out from underneath them, you know, it's not necessary," DeWitt said. "They should have had their plans specified when they made these changes."

FSSA officials said their agency has never allowed one person to sign up for both structured family caregiving and the home health aide program. The same family can receive both programs, but the same person cannot be signed up to be the designated caregiver for both. Officials said they updated the FAQs on their website last week to better communicate that in response to families' questions.

DeWitt said agency officials should have made that clearer to families. She said the rule makes things especially difficult for single parents, who have to choose which program best fits their child's needs and their financial situation.

Even families who do have both programs say it will be a struggle. Susan Graham's daughter, Paisley, has several conditions including cerebral palsy and intractable epilepsy. She still uses a feeding tube. Graham said her husband signed up for home health aide while she signed up for structured family caregiving. Still, she said, the loss of the attendant care program will hurt her ability to save for college for her two older children. It also will make it harder to buy Paisley a new wheelchair. Graham said the current one doesn't fit her daughter well, and Medicaid only covers one new wheelchair every five years.

"I really feel that FSSA has harmed my family. They've harmed my daughter by adding that stress that we don't need," she said.

Graham said she plans to continue to lobby lawmakers to make changes to the program. Lawmakers return to the Statehouse in January for the 2025 legislative session. The session will include the state budget.

Rep. Banks introduces Conscience Protection Act

The REPORTER

Congressman Jim Banks (R-Ind.-03) introduced the Conscience Protection Act, which would protect health care providers from being forced to participate in induced abortions or similar procedures that violate their sincerely held beliefs.

More specifically, the Conscience Protection Act would prevent any federal, state, or local government from penalizing or discriminating against a health care entity that does not facilitate, perform, refer, pay, participate, or provide abortion or abortion coverage. Those whose conscience rights are violated will be provided a civil right of action.

In January 2024, the Biden administration rescinded and replaced President Trump's 2019 Conscience Rule, which expanded the conscience rights of health care providers and other individuals.

Rep. Banks said Congress must act to protect Americans who have a religious or moral objection to being complicit in abortion.

"Forcing someone to choose between their career or their conscience is un-American and should be illegal," Rep. Banks said. "My bill ensures health care providers that value the sanctity of life will not be punished for their deeply held beliefs."

Senator James Lankford (R-Okla.) introduced the Senate companion to this bill earlier this month. Rep. Banks's legislation has 36 original cosponsors.

Organizations supporting this legislation include Susan B. Anthony Pro-Life America, American Association of Pro-Life Obstetricians and Gynecologists, US Conference of Catholic Bishops, Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention, Alliance Defending Freedom, National Right to Life Committee, EPPC's HHS Accountability Project, Heritage Action, CatholicVote, Americans United for Life, Concerned Women of America Legislative Action Committee, Family Policy Alliance, and March for Life.

ISP asks for public's help in cold case

The REPORTER

In January 1998, a state highway employee found skeletal remains along Fruitridge Avenue near the Interstate 70 overpass in Vigo County.

Over the past 26 years, several investigative techniques and many hours have been spent trying to identify the skeletal remains, without success. Details of the case were entered into the National Missing and Unidentified Persons System (NamUs) and were sent to LSU (Louisiana State University) where they developed a forensic facial reconstruction and released it to the public in hopes the remains could be identified.

In 2023, the Vigo County Coroner's Office in conjunction with Indiana State Police and the University of Indianapolis, submitted forensic evidence to Othram, a corporation specializing in forensic genetic genealogy, in hopes that advanced DNA would assist in identification of the unknown skeletal remains. Othram was able to develop a DNA profile producing new investigative leads.

Detectives with the Indiana State Police Cold Case

Team contacted potential family members of the unidentified human remains. Additional DNA testing and investigative efforts have now identified the skeletal remains as Mitchell Preston of Anderson, Ind. He was last seen in August 1997 in Anderson and was 47 years old at the time of his disappearance. He was on foot and traveling to California.

Although Indiana State Police Detectives are pleased to bring some closure to Preston's family, they are asking for the public's assistance for anyone who may have seen him or have any knowledge of what might have happened to him.

Anyone with information should call Indiana State Police Cold Case Team Trooper Detective Brad Miller at 1-800-225-8576. This is an active investigation, and all tips will be investigated and can remain anonymous.

Lebanon insurance broker sentenced to over seven years in federal prison for stealing nearly $4 million from clients, friends & family

The REPORTER

Brian Simms, 46, Lebanon, has been sentenced to 90 months in federal prison, followed by three years of supervised release, after pleading guilty to wire fraud.

According to court documents, between 2012 and 2020, Simms was a licensed insurance broker and registered agent at Brendanwood Brokerage.

Beginning in 2013, and continuing through Aug. 4, 2021, Simms defrauded at least 22 victims by promoting investment services to current Brendanwood insurance clients and others. During that period, neither Simms nor Brendanwood were registered through the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority to provide financial advising services, or by the Indiana Securities Division or licensed to sell securities.

As part of his scheme, Simms advised victims to liquidate their traditional and long-term insurance investments, such as 401(k)-retirement savings accounts and life insurance policies. He encouraged the victims to reinvest the funds with him at Brendanwood. In exchange, Simms told victims he would invest their money on their behalf and yield higher rates of return than their current investments. He directed them to deposit those liquidated funds into their personal bank accounts and wire transfer or make checks payable to Brendanwood.

Instead of investing clients' money as promised, Simms took it for his own personal benefit, such as paying Brendanwood's payroll and other business expenses, and for his own personal expenditures including credit card payments, Amazon purchases, and other personal expenses.

Simms concealed the scheme through Ponzi-scheme type payments – using funds wrongfully taken from some investors to pay purported returns to others. He also falsified financial reports and made it appear that the victims' funds were earning an increased rate of return and properly invested in traditional, legitimate investment products.

In total, Simms' scheme caused 200 fraudulent deposits of client funds into Brendanwood's accounts, totaling approximately $3,995,535.46 from at least 22 victim investors from Indiana, Ohio, and elsewhere. He stole significant portions of victims' life savings, including six who lost over six-figure amounts, and two who lost over $1 million.

"This fraudster targeted those closest to him – friends, family, current customers, even widows and the elderly – folks relying on their savings to fund retirement, send kids to school, or simply live their lives with dignity," said Zachary A. Myers, U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Indiana. "He stole his victims' financial security and damaged or derailed their plans for the future. Fraudsters and Ponzi-schemers cause tremendous harm to the public, and their crimes merit serious punishment like the federal sentence imposed against Mr. Simms. Working closely with our partners at the FBI and the Indiana Securities Division, our federal prosecutors will continue to seek accountability for financial crimes and justice for victims."

"Simms' sentence reflects the ongoing efforts of collaboration between law enforcement agencies to protect Hoosier investors," Indiana Secretary of State Diego Morales. "The Securities Division will continue to work with our partner agencies to investigate these types of crime and ensure investment fraud is investigated and disrupted."

"The victims placed their trust in Mr. Simms with the expectation he would manage and invest their money for their future needs and not exploit that trust through lies and deceit," FBI Indianapolis Special Agent in Charge Herbert J. Stapleton said. "The FBI and our partners are committed to investigating these types of crimes to protect Hoosiers from swindlers such as the defendant."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and Indiana Secretary of State investigated this case. The sentence was imposed by U.S. District Judge Sarah Evans Barker. Judge Barker also ordered that Simms must pay $2,617,028.36 in restitution.

U.S. Attorney Myers thanked Assistant U.S. Attorney Tiffany J. Preston, who prosecuted this case.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

MOSES FLEES TO MIDIAN

One day, after Moses had grown up, he went out to where his own people were and watched them at their hard labor. He saw an Egyptian beating a Hebrew, one of his own people. Looking this way and that and seeing no one, he killed the Egyptian and hid him in the sand. The next day he went out and saw two Hebrews fighting. He asked the one in the wrong, "Why are you hitting your fellow Hebrew?"

The man said, "Who made you ruler and judge over us? Are you thinking of killing me as you killed the Egyptian?" Then Moses was afraid and thought, "What I did must have become known."

When Pharaoh heard of this, he tried to kill Moses, but Moses fled from Pharaoh and went to live in Midian, where he sat down by a well. Now a priest of Midian had seven daughters, and they came to draw water and fill the troughs to water their father's flock. Some shepherds came along and drove them away, but Moses got up and came to their rescue and watered their flock.

When the girls returned to Reuel their father, he asked them, "Why have you returned so early today?"

They answered, "An Egyptian rescued us from the shepherds. He even drew water for us and watered the flock."

"And where is he?" Reuel asked his daughters. "Why did you leave him? Invite him to have something to eat."

Moses agreed to stay with the man, who gave his daughter Zipporah to Moses in marriage. Zipporah gave birth to a son, and Moses named him Gershom, saying, "I have become a foreigner in a foreign land."

During that long period, the king of Egypt died. The Israelites groaned in their slavery and cried out, and their cry for help because of their slavery went up to God. God heard their groaning and he remembered his covenant with Abraham, with Isaac and with Jacob. So God looked on the Israelites and was concerned about them.

Reporter names all-county teams

HSE’s Grace Swedarsky named Hamilton County Player of the Year

The REPORTER

The Reporter is announcing its All-County softball team, and there was no shortage of talent from which to choose.

It was a memorable season in the county, with Hamilton Southeastern winning the Class 4A state championship for the third time in school history. The Royals finished with a 25-4 record, culminating in a walk off win over New Palestine for the 4A trophy.

Hamilton Heights defended its sectional title from last season, and added a regional title as well, the Huskies’ first since 2016. An experienced pitcher teamed up with some young players, and they worked together to help Heights compile a 22-8 record.

Here’s a list of this year’s First Team honorees.

Grace Swedarsky, Hamilton Southeastern. Swedarsky is the Reporter’s Player of the Year. Swedarsky was unstoppable in the circle, tossing 270 strikeouts and putting together a 1.05 earned run average while finishing the season 18-2. Swedarsky was also named the Max Preps Indiana softball player of the year.

Gabby Fowler, Noblesville. The big-hitting Miller senior led the county in the batting average statistic with a .506 and was named as an Indiana All-Star. Fowler also was on top of the county list with 37 runs batted in and 11 home runs.

Lily Roush, Hamilton Heights. The IU Indianapolis commit was a leader whether pitching the ball or facing the ball. Roush tossed 160 strikeouts and compiled a 2.24 ERA. At the same time, she batted .360 and drove in 19 runs.

Addy Justice, Hamilton Southeastern. The Royals senior who scored the winning run in the state championship game, Justice hit .480 for the season and was a perfect 3-for-3 at state. She led the county in total hits with 48.

Shiny, new schedule for Huskies, Greyhounds & Rocks to face off in Week 2

The REPORTER

There has been some rearranging going on with the Hamilton Heights football schedule.

With the changes in the Hoosier Conference, the Huskies will be facing some new teams, as well as moving some familiar teams to different spots on the calendar. The conference is switching from West and East divisions to Big School and Small School division, with the Huskies in the Big School division.

Heights is playing with familiar opponents in the Big School league. Twin Lakes, West Lafayette and Western are also in that group, while Logansport, a longtime member of the North Central Conference, is joining the Hoosier Big School division this season.

The only games that are the same this season for the Huskies are Lapel for Week 1, Western for Week 5 and West Lafayette for Week 9, although the Week 9 game is now a regular-season contest and not for the conference championship. Heights is still playing Twin Lakes and Tipton, but both games are a week later: the Huskies play Twin Lakes during Week 7 and Tipton during Week 8. The Blue Devils are no longer a division opponent; they will play in the Small School league.

Heights will play at new division opponent Logansport for Week 6. The other new games for the Huskies are all non-division: Triton Central for Week 2, McCutcheon for Week 3 and Danville for Week 4.

Pacers draft Newton & Freeman

Team agrees in principle to acquire draft rights to Furphy

The REPORTER

As part of the 2024 NBA Draft, the Indiana Pacers selected Tristen Newton with the 49th pick and Enrique Freeman with the 50th pick in the second round. The team also agreed in principle to acquire the draft rights to Johnny Furphy from the San Antonio Spurs in a trade that is not yet final.

Johnny Furphy, the 35th pick in the draft, is a 6-8, 189-pound guard/forward from the University of Kansas. Originally from Melbourne, Australia; Furphy was named to the Big 12 All-Freshman team for the 2023-24 season.

With the 49th pick in the draft, the Pacers selected two-time National Champion Tristen Newton from the University of Connecticut. Newton, a 6-3, 192-pound guard, was named to the 2023 NCAA Final Four All-Tournament Team and was named the Most Outstanding Player of the 2024 NCAA Tournament. For the 2023-24 season he also won the Bob Cousy Award and was an All-American First Team selection.

Freeman, the 50th pick in the draft, is 6-7, 212-pound forward from the University of Akron. He was a four-time MAC All-Defensive team member, two-time First-Team All-MAC member, two-time MAC Tournament MVP (2022, 2024) and won 2022 MAC Defensive Player of the Year.

SOFTBALL

Ava Kainrath, Westfield. A Shamrocks junior that can always be counted on for a hit, Kainrath was .462 at the plate, driving in 22 runs. She also hit four homers.

Jayden Kleiner, Carmel. Kleiner was another powerful hitter in the county, blasting six home runs as part of a 36-RBI season. She could also score, with 35 runs to her credit, and batted .438.

Hannah Dent, Hamilton Heights. One of many talented freshmen that played for the Huskies, Dent smacked 41 hits and finished with a .414 average. She drove in 23 runs for the season.

Delaney Rundle, Noblesville. Rundle knew how to run: she led the county in runs scored this

Westfield's Cesare headed to Boys State Junior semifinals

The REPORTER

Westfield's Jake Cesare has reached the semifinals of the Indiana Golf Foundation's Boys State Junior Championship at Purdue's Ackerman-Allen course.

The Shamrocks' senior-to-be won two matches on Thursday to advance to the final four. In the Round of 16, Cesare beat Guerin Catholic graduate Leo Wessel 2 Up. That sent Cesare into the quarterfinals, where he cruised to victory against Fort Wayne's Alex Holder 6 & 5.

Cesare will take on Goshen's Brayden Miller in the second semifinal, which begins at 8:08 a.m. Their match follows the first semifinal between Fort Wayne's Justin Hicks and Lafayette's Sam Peter, which starts at 8 a.m. The championship match will take place later that afternoon.

Ralston & Longstreth tie for 6th at Indiana PGA Women's Open

The REPORTER

Two Hamilton County golfers tied for sixth place after the second and final round of the Indiana PGA Women's Open, which finished Thursday at Orchard Ridge in Fort Wayne.

Yanah Ralston, a 2022 Hamilton Southeastern graduate, finished with a two-day score of 147. Ralston improved her Wednesday first-round score by five strokes, carding a 71 on the second day, including three birdies.

Carmel's Sydney Longstreth also made an improvement, dropping three strokes for her second day to score a 72. Longstreth had four birdies in her second round.

Here is a list of players with Hamilton County ties.

FOOTBALL

Carmel, as the Greyhounds will have two new early-season opponents. Carmel does have the same opening-week opponent, hosting Homestead for its opener.

In Week 2, the Greyhounds will travel to Westfield. The Shamrocks have been a consistent post-season opponent for Carmel, as the two teams have played each other four times in the sectional since 2019. The 'Hounds will make another road trip for Week 3, heading east to new opponent Centerville, Ohio.

Westfield will also have a new opponent for its opener. The Rocks and new head coach Josh Miracle to Center Grove for a re-match of the Class 6A state championship games in 2020 and 2021.

Guerin Catholic has added a new team to its schedule. The Golden Eagles will welcome Lebanon to the Eagles Nest for their Week 2 game. That moves Guerin Catholic's annual Bishop's Cup game to Week 9; replacing the Golden Eagles' game with Culver Academies.

The schedules for Fishers, Hamilton Southeastern, Noblesville and Sheridan are all unchanged from last season.

Games kick off at 7 p.m.
