dogs – who will be happy in their profession.”

While they do tend to train larger dogs, some of the Medical Mutts dogs are smaller than you might think.

“We do have some smaller dogs for psychiatric patients for people with PTSD, anxiety, or autism,” Boskovich said. “But the larger the dog then the more they can do, particularly if someone has mobility issues. If someone has a seizure or someone has epilepsy, they can get to them faster and do more things like call for help. If somebody has a button that is attached to 911, any size dog could do that.”

For people who might need emergency medication, only the larger dogs will do, though.

“It would be hard for a smaller dog to get into the refrigerator and get the insulin that someone would need because they probably can't reach the door,” Boskovich said. “There's a rag on the handle that we use and train them to go open the door when somebody's in distress, having an episode, or about to have an episode, to get their insulin or other medicines. It doesn't have to be just for diabetics. It could be for any medicine that's in the fridge.”

Perhaps the most surprising thing Medical Mutts does is train dogs to alert their humans before an episode begins.

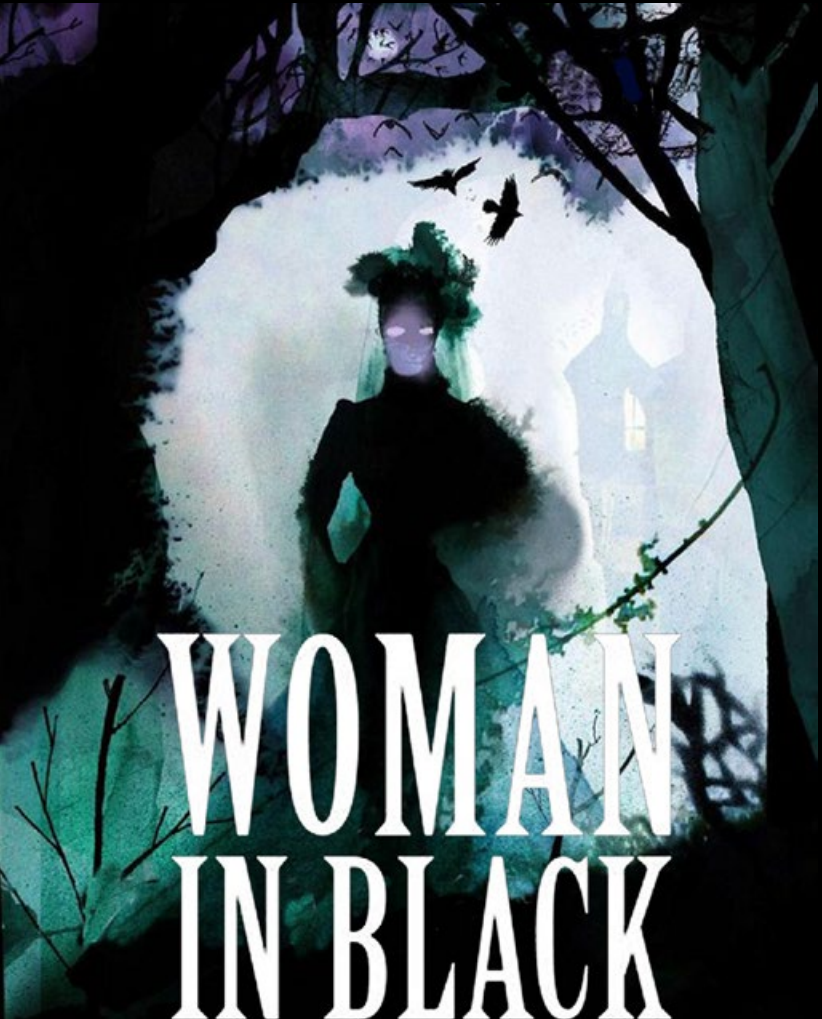

“We actually have a dog here now that can sense a seizure up to an hour before the person has it,” Boskovich said. “It's all scent-based work. President, Founder and CEO Dr. Jennifer Catet was able to work with a group in Europe to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that before somebody has a seizure, they let off a scent. Just like somebody lets off a scent when their glucose drops or it gets too high or someone's about to have a panic attack. It's a universal scent that someone lets off.”

According to Boskovich, shelter dogs are in no way inferior to an expensive pure-bred animal when it comes to this kind of work.

“We've gotten a lot of pushback saying, ‘You know these shelter dogs;

we saw multiple police officers arrive,” Bagwell said.

Bagwell says he didn't hear the gunshots or the suspect's vehicle ramming into a police car.

Indiana State Police said Carmel officers went to the garage on Old Meridian Street after getting a call about a stalker. They quickly found the suspect, who refused to get out of his car. He instead drove his blue Dodge Charger car into a police SUV. That's when one officer fired shots through the windshield of the man's car.

No officers were inside the SUV.

Police says the man continued to spin his tires while hitting the police car. Officers later broke out a window of the Charger to pull the man out.

“No officer wants to discharge their firearm in the line of duty or get in that situation,” said Sgt. John Perrine of Indiana State Police.

Police says officers administered medical aid to Castillo. No police officers were seriously injured.

The parking garage is for residents, but, Bagwell says, it was reported broken last week and allowed anyone to have access to the parking lot. Despite the police shooting, he says, he still feels safe in the neighborhood and is happy that police responded quickly.

“Early reports kept saying police shooting, and I think one of the things missed is this is not situation where police went out and shot someone,” Bagwell said. “It was literally an individual who rammed the car and put an officer at risk. There's a lot of action to avoid this and deescalate that, and, unfortunately, put the officer's life at risk and the officer's response is appropriate.”

Castillo is incarcerated in the Hamilton County Jail and faces these preliminary charges:

- Attempted Aggravated Battery
- Resisting Law Enforcement
- Criminal Recklessness with a Deadly Weapon

HEY SoHa!

My wife and I were also lucky enough to be able to go there for a long weekend for our anniversary as well, which got me thinking ... vacations are different without the kids. Very, very different. So, please indulge me while I share all the differences I noticed.

Packing

I am a self-admitted over-packer. I always bring way more stuff than any human could ever possibly need, because one never knows when a winter coat and extra lightbulbs might come in handy while sunbathing.

But even so, packing is completely different when a three- and five-year-old are hitching a ride. There are clothes, pull-ups, wipes, tablets, snacks and oh, so many beach toys. By the time we pack the minivan, I'm holding my own bags on my lap while I drive. Possibly not the safest of situations, but we get there. Since the car is so full, I can't really see anyone else along for the ride, so I pray the whole trip that we didn't forget anything ... like the kids.

Shopping

I don't mind poking around all the shops with Megan. We find some cool shirts, trinkets, and bobbles. Shopping with the kids is a whole different animal. We allotted both Mary and Pat a certain amount that they could spend each day on toys and candy. Naturally, if we didn't go to the toy store first, we were responsible for ruining two young lives.

It's such a joy to watch them touch every single toy in the entire store, one thing at a time, only to finally land on a final decision to buy a 40-cent sticker. Six hours well spent.

Dining

Eating is my favorite thing to do on any vacation, and there is no shortage of good food in South Haven.

Since becoming a parent, I learned eating out takes preparation. Always look up the menu beforehand so you can find something your kids will actually eat and then order for them the second the server steps within a 10-yard perimeter. Be ready to explain that gummy bears are not on the menu. And if your kids are tired and starting to show signs of crankiness, for the love of God have tablets on hand with pre-downloaded shows, just in case the internet isn't working.

I just saved your life. You're welcome.

Beach

What beach town vacation is complete without making several trips to ... well you know ... the beach? The days of just bringing a beach chair, a radio, and a cooler are long gone, my friends. And since the local authorities won't let me park a 6-by-8-foot U-Haul cargo trailer on the sand (prudes), a wagon is a must.

Well, actually two wagons are a must, because when kids see a wagon, they sit in it. Please listen to me when I tell you, if you don't want to look like a weatherman broadcasting during a hurricane while pulling the wagon on the beach, buy one with big treaded wheels that are made for just such an occasion. You will need the extra traction while hauling four beach chairs, two umbrellas, towels, sunscreen, a cooler, a radio, 14 buckets of sand toys, several bags of snacks and eight tons of lake rocks that your daughter put in the wagon so she can take them home.

When you finally collapse at your chosen spot, three miles from your parked car, you'll most likely be told by one of the children that they forgot a toy in the car, and if you don't go back to get it, you will suffer toddler wrath. Since you'd probably rather contract SARS than deal with a beach tantrum, you will make the trek. When you return and your knees buckle, you finally black out face down in the sand and get that sweet rest and relaxation you've been longing for. The best part of it all is waking up with the best vacation souvenir of all ... a water blister sunburn. Hooray!

Sure, vacations can be a lot of work when kids are involved, but would you have it any other way? I have many memories of the trips I took with my family as a kid, and I want the same for my children. Through all the disorder, remember to smile at the chaos. They won't be little forever, but they'll always remember these times. And so will I.

The moral of the story is ... Even if your yearly respite seems a bit disorderly ... Say Hey SoHa!

Northbrook will be serving food and drinks at the event and there will be live music from the Aura Ray & Sean Noel Singing Duo. There will also be facepainting and other activities for children. "We have been wanting to launch a signature fundraising event for a couple of years, but hadn't found the right place," according to Leachia Kern, co-executive director of Secret Families. "Northbrook saw one of our social media posts and invited us up to talk. We were so impressed with the space and their willingness to partner with us – we knew it was the right place to launch our event."

Over 14,000 people fall below the poverty line in Hamilton County. This is larger than the entire populations of 11 Indiana counties. Since 2014, Secret Families of Hamilton County has worked with local elementary schools and Hamilton County Youth Assistance to identify and support these families in need. This may be due to the illness or death of a parent, loss of a job, natural disaster, or any other number of circumstances.

On the second Saturday of December, months of planning and fundraising culminate in a highly orchestrated, single-day event with hundreds of Hamilton County volunteers shopping, wrapping and delivering presents to their neighbors in need, along with a fully decorated tree, a Bible, toiletries/ personal care items and a gift card for Christmas dinner. In 2023, Secret Families served over 60 families and almost 300 individuals, and the goal is to serve 100 families and 600 individuals in 2024.

Secret Families spends approximately $550 on each family supported by the organization, which would not be possible without generous donations from the community. Learn how to get involved at secretfamilieshc.org.

Indiana homeland security leader to serve as Carmel fire chief

The REPORTER
One of the state's leading authorities on public safety is joining the City of Carmel as fire chief, Mayor Sue Finkam announced Monday.
Joel Thacker will assume the role Sept. 3, providing the leadership and direction necessary to enable members of the Carmel Fire Department to deliver the highest level of fire prevention, EMS and response services to the community.
Currently executive director of the Indiana Department of Homeland Security, Thacker was appointed to the position by Gov. Eric J. Holcomb in 2022, having previously served as state fire marshal and director of the state's fire and building safety division.
"Joel has been repeatedly called upon at both local and state levels for his leadership and knowledge in public safety," Finkam said. "I am thrilled to have his expertise focused on our community, leading an impressive team that is committed to the safety of our residents, businesses and visitors."

With more than 30 years of public service experience, Thacker served as fire chief of the Plainfield Fire Territory prior to his appointment as state fire marshal. His public safety career began as a volunteer firefighter and EMT in Johnson County. Throughout his leadership roles, he has overseen firefighting and emergency medical services training, fire investigations, cybersecurity preparedness, emergency management response and recovery.

Mayor Finkam involved fire safety peers and community members in the selection process for the chief. The selection process included extensive meetings and interviews to support the final decision.
"On behalf of the State of Indiana, I want to thank Joel for his years of service to Hoosier taxpayers," Governor Eric J. Holcomb said. "I am personally grateful for his commitment to public safety and constant collaboration with the Cabinet. The City of Carmel and Mayor Finkam are fortunate to have him."

A public swearing-in ceremony with be held for Chief Thacker with details announced at a later date.

"It is an honor to serve the firefighters and people of Carmel and to support Mayor Finkam's vision," Thacker said. "Preparedness is crucial for the success of Hoosier families, communities and the state, and I look forward to advancing training, while supporting all partners in ensuring the safety of the Carmel community."

Thacker is a licensed paramedic and holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Indiana Wesleyan University and a master's degree in criminal justice and public safety from Indiana University.

Soil & Water adds native flowers to tree & shrub sale fundraiser

The REPORTER

Spring blooms, shade on a sunny summer day, crisp fall colors – trees are the essence of our seasons and their growth is the benchmark of passing time. The Hamilton County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) recognizes the value of trees in the community and is making quality native tree and shrub stock available via the annual native tree and shrub fundraiser. New this year, a selection of native flowers and vines are also available. Over 40 species of trees and shrubs are available in three-gallon containers for just $30 each. One-gallon flowers are $12.50. Pre-orders are required before Sept. 19. Orders can be picked up Friday, Sept. 27 in Noblesville. Details on species and growing conditions, as well as online ordering, are available at hamiltonswcd.org. This tree sale focuses on species native to Indiana. These trees are uniquely suited to Hoosier soil and weather, but most importantly, they are uniquely suited to support native wildlife – especially birds, insects, and other pollinators. Three-gallon trees are a great choice as they are easy to maneuver and plant, economical, and will grow quickly. In addition to native trees, 15-gallon watering bags are also available in this year's sale. The tree sale is the district's largest annual fundraiser. All proceeds go back into conservation and education in Hamilton County.

Examples of native flora you can purchase include the Butterfly milkweed (top) and the Shumard oak (above). Photos provided

Omnibus takes a deep dive into life and times of Rep. Jerry Torr

The REPORTER

This week's episode of The Omnibus Show featured Indiana State Representative Jerry Torr from House District 39 in Hamilton County. Torr has been a member of the Indiana House of Representatives since 1996. He spoke about his experiences in the House as he served on the committees of Employment, Labor, and Pensions; Rules and Legislative Procedures; Vice Chair of Joint Rules; and Vice Chair of the Judiciary. Torr, a sixth-generation Hoosier, grew up in Putnam County and moved to Carmel in 1987. He is a graduate of Hanover College and attended the Musicians Institute in Hollywood, Calif. Torr discussed issues important to him over his years in public service, including: creating jobs in the Hoosier state, the Health Insurance Waiver Act, the Daylight Saving Time Bill, and finding ways to halt gerrymandering in Indiana. Torr also spoke about his musical journey. In October 2017, he conducted his original composition, "Fanfare for a New Era," which was performed by the Carmel Symphony Orchestra at the Palladium in Carmel.

Before joining Near North Title Group, formerly known as Hamilton National Title, in 2014, Torr was a Client Executive at the Hylant Group, and prior to that a Commercial Casualty General Adjuster with FCCI Insurance Company in Carmel. He was previously a member of the Central Indiana Claims Association and the National Society of Professional Insurance Investors. Noblesville adult baby store forced to close again

By ADAM PINSKER
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

A Hamilton County judge ruled that the adult baby store My Inner Baby must close its new retail store immediately. The judge ruled the store is violating the city's zoning ordinance. In 2022, My Inner Baby opened its original location at 15480 Herriman Blvd. The city sent the store a letter saying it was violating the Unified Development Ordinance because it was operating as a sex shop in an area zoned as industrial. The Board of Zoning Appeal (BZA) rejected My Inner Baby's appeal, and owner Ryan Polokoff closed the store. The shop sells adult diapers for people with incontinence, along with onezees and baby accessories people can use for role-play. Polokoff told News 8 military veterans and others suffering from trauma use role-play as a form of stress relief. My Inner Baby appealed the BZA's decision in Hamilton County Court, but the case was dismissed after My Inner Baby did not file a copy of the hearing record in time.

On June 3, My Inner Baby opened a new location at 15529 Stony Creek Way, a mile from its old location. Polokoff told News 8 the city considered his business a sex shop because it used the hashtag "ABDL," or Adult Baby Diaper Lovers. Polokoff dropped the moniker when he opened at his new location. In his ruling, Judge Michael Casati said My Inner Baby's second store is also located in an industrial area, and Polokoff should have asked the city for a zoning variance before opening. Polokoff told News 8 via text he will appeal Judge Casati's ruling. "The City of Noblesville appreciates the prompt ruling by the court that affirms the position regarding zoning violations that the city has maintained in three separate legal proceedings," Noblesville City Attorney Jonathan Hughes said. "To our knowledge, the company is complying with the decision. We will continue to monitor for ongoing compliance." 2024 Indiana Agriculture Photo Contest winners announced

Last week, Lt. Gov. Suzanne Crouch and the Indiana State Department of Agriculture (ISDA) announced the winners of the 2024 Indiana Agriculture Photo Contest. The winning photographs will be displayed in the lieutenant governor's Family of Business offices in Indianapolis throughout the next year.

Register for seminar on semitruck wrecks

The REPORTER

Attorneys, paralegals and members of the Indiana Trial Lawyers Association will convene Monday, Aug. 19 in Noblesville for the "Winning Truck Wreck Cases" seminar. The seminar is chaired by David W. Craig and Scott A. Faultless of the Indianapolis-based personal injury law firm, Craig, Kelley & Faultless.

Attendees must register for the event ahead of time. It will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Aug. 19 at Embassy Suites Noblesville. David Craig and Scott Faultless, two of the founding partners at Craig, Kelley & Faultless, look forward to hosting legal professionals from across the state.

Craig and Faultless are both on the Board of Regents of the Academy of Truck Accident Attorneys, which requires board certification in Truck Accident Law by the National Board of Trial Advocacy. They have been honored in the past several editions of The Best Lawyers in America and named as Indiana Super Lawyer honorees, an achievement awarded to only 5 percent of the state's attorneys, for the past several years.

For over 25 years, their firm has represented victims of personal injury and wrongful death caused by large-truck and commercial motor vehicle wrecks. With this seminar, Craig and Faultless hope to further their peers' understanding of truck accident law and truck wrecks.

They will be joined by seven other speakers:

- Bryan Bradley, Allen Law Group
- Andy Young, The Law Firm for Truck Safety
- Daniel Buba, Doehrman Buba Ring
- Eric Oliver, National Trial Consultant, Metasystems Consulting
- Kevin Johnson, Crash Consulting Services, LLC

- Ben Phelps, Crash Consulting Services, LLC
- Harry Adler, Institute for Safer Trucking

These speakers will discuss truck safety, the steps taken in truck-wreck cases, air brakes, depositions, insurance coverage, data collection, trial strategy, and more. Guests will have the opportunity to get an up-close look at two semi-trucks. The seminar will close with an "ask-a-lawyer" panel, where the speakers will answer attendees' specific truck-accident questions.

Beyond this seminar, managing partner David Craig seeks to educate the public with his podcast, After the Crash, and in his book Semitruck Wreck: A Guide for Victims and their Families, published in 2020.

Indiana truck wrecks are deadlier and more frequent than ever. Data from NHTSA collected over the past 10 years follows the increase of fatalities from heavy-truck wrecks. In 2013, 99 people in Indiana died in truck wrecks. In 2022, the most recent year with available data, 157 died.

Distracted, impaired, and drowsy driving; inadequate training; and lack of supervision are all issues plaguing the trucking industry and contributing to the growing number of fatalities. This seminar and the lawyers involved are pushing for change to save lives.

IU Health finally takes necessary steps to protect patients’ privacy

Submitted by Office of the Attorney General

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita’s office secured another win for medical privacy, ensuring through court-directed discovery that IU Health has proper privacy controls and training in place to protect Hoosier patients’ private health information.

IU Health management initially denied allegations that Dr. Caitlin Bernard violated a patient’s privacy at a political rally.

IU Health officials even continued those denials after that same doctor’s peers serving on the Indiana Medical Licensing Board found that she did, in fact, violate privacy laws. This repeated refusal by IU Health to even acknowledge a violation of patient privacy prompted the Office of Attorney General to probe whether and how IU Health was conducting patient privacy training in light of its mishandling of the Bernard matter.

When IU Health officials refused to answer questions, the Office of the Attorney General had no choice but to file a lawsuit to require their cooperation and answers.

“This is a win for patients, but also for the group’s 36,000 health care providers who can now trust they’ve received accurate training that is consistent with HIPAA privacy laws and Indiana patient confidentiality rules,” AG Rokita said. “One of my office’s main priorities is to protect patient privacy because when it’s not, we no longer have reliable, honest healthcare.”

The Sept. 15, 2023, lawsuit was filed on behalf of the people of Indiana against IU Health and IU Healthcare Associates for their failure to properly report, review and enforce HIPAA and Indiana law violations. Attorney General Rokita and his team verified through discovery in this case that IU Health has now taken necessary actions to better train employees to help protect the medical privacy of Indiana residents.

Rokita

Through this lawsuit, Attorney General Rokita’s office confirmed IU Health has undertaken the following actions:

- Trained employees to specifically avoid talking about patients in public areas;
- Informed its employees they are required to notify public relations staff prior to any communication so that management can verify patient authorization; and
- Conducted employee training on what constitutes Protected Health Information.

On June 30, 2022, Dr. Caitlin Bernard spoke with an IndyStar reporter at a political rally about her 10-year-old patient. IU Health later issued a media statement on July 13, 2022, that said Dr. Bernard had not violated privacy laws. After hearing over a dozen hours of testimony, the Indiana Medical Licensing Board, which is comprised of doctors, voted 5-1 that Dr. Bernard violated HIPAA.

IU Health issued another statement on May 26, 2023, claiming it disagreed with the board’s decision and believed Dr. Bernard had not violated any privacy laws.

“IU Health rejected the best interest of patients and taxpayers alike when they set the tone by initially refusing to cooperate with our office,” AG Rokita said. “We are pleased the information this office sought over two years ago has finally been provided and the necessary steps have been taken to accurately and consistently train their workforce to protect patients and their health care workers.”

Though voluntarily dismissing it without prejudice, Attorney General Rokita said they could always refile at a later date if necessary. As a government regulator responsible for HIPAA compliance, the State anticipates and expects hospitals and covered entities to continue significant and continual training to physicians and staff that addresses the importance of patient and data privacy.

Nora Lee Kerry

February 23, 1938 – July 30, 2024

Nora Lee Kerry, 86, went home to be with her Lord on July 30, 2024, at Prairie Lakes Health Campus in Noblesville. This loving, creative, and spunky woman loved her family and friends, ice cream, and the color purple.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Cyril and Roma (Rubright) Pflugh, and siblings Mary Blanche Kind, LaVerne Pflugh, and Reese Pflugh, and she is survived by Roy, her husband of almost 64 years; children Patti Ordower, Cheryl Kerry, Roger (Lora) Kerry, and Ryan (Erin) Kerry; grandchildren Rachel (Scott) Heck, Joe Ordower, Brennen (Nicole) Kerry, Brontë Giardina, Joshua Kerry, Sierra Kerry, Leah Kerry, and Madeline Kerry; great-granddaughter Evelyn Kerry; as well as adopted kids Seth Beloff and Jean Leather and many other family members and friends.

Born on February 23, 1938, in Harmony, Pa., Nora Lee grew up on her parents’ farm, learning to work hard with her family and have fun doing it – playing practical jokes on each other and doing flips down the staircase. Along with her parents, she and her siblings milked the cows, fed the chickens, tended the garden, and baled hay. They also cooked meals – but when she and Blanche dyed the mashed potatoes bright green for St. Patrick’s Day, the hired hands were very suspicious and refused to eat them. In the evenings, Nora Lee developed a serious competitive streak by playing games such as Crokinole (a.k.a. Carroms) with her family. One Easter, she and her siblings were given three bunnies that were supposed to be the same sex. They ended up with 158 rabbits that they raised in an empty chicken coop as a business.

Her family attended First Church of God in Ellwood City at the time of her birth, and that’s where she met Roy Kerry, her husband-to-be, and they began dating at age 16. After graduating from Zelenople High School, Nora Lee took nurses training at Butler County Memorial Hospital and became a registered nurse in 1959, first working at John Kane Memorial Hospital and then at Children’s Hospital, both in Pittsburgh. She and Roy married in August 1960 at Ellwood City Church of God and lived first in Pittsburgh and then in Washington, Pa., and they attended the Greenfield Avenue Church of God in Pittsburgh. In 1964, she left nursing to create an amazing childhood for their four children, with many pets and adventures. She also started and ran a preschool at the church for a number of years.

The family moved to Sharon, Pa., in 1970 and began attending the Valley Church in Hermitage, where she played the piano and organ and taught Sunday School. Nora Lee was a Girl Scout Leader, and she was active in the Parent-Teacher Association for her children’s schools. With Roy, she was a member of The Gideons International for several decades, and Nora Lee specialized in distributing Bibles to the offices of doctors and attorneys. They also went on mission trips to Kenya, Tanzania, and Honduras with church groups.

Nora Lee enjoyed many activities at home, from tending her flower and vegetable gardens to supporting and facilitating all kinds of crazy escapades with her kids. They made ice cream every summer in their cabin at Whitehall Camp, and she created wonderful Halloween costumes – from basic cardboard contraptions to a full-on upright piano (Cheryl) and colonial belle dresses complete with shawls and bonnets (Patti and Cheryl). She passed on her love of games to her family, teaching them to play Crokinole, Pit, Buttons, and Spoons. (Ask us why it’s not called “Forks”!) When her children grew more independent, Nora Lee ran a health food store called Harmony Whole Foods in Sharon, Pa. Following that, she returned to nursing and worked with Roy at his medical practice until their retirement.

Together with Roger, Lora, Patti and several grandchildren, Roy and Nora Lee moved to Noblesville in 2019, and they all managed to live successfully in the same house with three generations! For the past four years Nora Lee has been a member of Bethel Lutheran Church of Noblesville. When her dementia became too much to care for at home in 2021, she moved to Prairie Lakes Health Campus where she received excellent and loving care, and the family is grateful to her wonderful caregivers there.

Visitation will be from 2 to 3 p.m., with a memorial service at 3 p.m., on Saturday, August 17, 2024, at Bethel Lutheran Church, 20650 Cumberland Road, Noblesville. Pastor Doug Gast will officiate.

Following the service, the family is hosting a dinner in the Fellowship Hall at Bethel where we can share stories of Nora Lee.

The service will be livestreamed on Bethel’s Facebook page for those who cannot attend, (facebook.com/Bethel-LutheranChurchNoblesville), and will be available sometime after the service on Vimeo.

If you wish to remember Nora Lee with a donation, she suggested giving in her memory to The Gideons International (gideons.org/donate).

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

THE PLAGUE OF FLIES

Then Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron and said, "Go, sacrifice to your God here in the land." But Moses said, "That would not be right. The sacrifices we offer the Lord our God would be detestable to the Egyptians. And if we offer sacrifices that are detestable in their eyes, will they not stone us? We must take a three-day journey into the wilderness to offer sacrifices to the Lord our God, as he commands us."

Pharaoh said, "I will let you go to offer sacrifices to the Lord your God in the wilderness, but you must not go very far. Now pray for me."

Moses answered, "As soon as I leave you, I will pray to the Lord, and tomorrow the flies will leave Pharaoh and his officials and his people. Only let Pharaoh be sure that he does not act deceitfully again by not letting the people go to offer sacrifices to the Lord."

Then Moses left Pharaoh and prayed to the Lord, and the Lord did what Moses asked. The flies left Pharaoh and his officials and his people; not a fly remained. But this time also Pharaoh hardened his heart and would not let the people go.

Royals aim to build on playoff success

By CRAIG ADKINS
For The Reporter

The Hamilton Southeastern football team has itself in a pretty good spot with fifth-year head coach Michael Kelly (35-10). He was also 14-16 in from 2017-2019 at Seymour.

Last season, the Royals were 9-3, winning five of their last seven before losing their regional battle with Westfield, 24-21. HSE is back to their winning ways the last four seasons, including two consecutive sectional crowns and a trip to the semi-state in 2022.

Senior quarterback Chandler Weston returns from a productive junior season. Weston threw for 1,415 yards and 18 touchdowns as a junior and ran for 295 yards and four TDs.

Southeastern graduated two of the more talented skilled players in the area in Jalen Alexander (1,444 rushing yards, 17 TDs) and 2022-23 Hamilton County Reporter Player of the Year Donovan Hamilton (934 receiving yards, 11 TDs).

Senior AZ Wallace is back from a junior year when he gained 595 yards for a 5.7 average and nine TDs on the ground. Fellow senior Brennan Baker (121 yards, TD) will be another important piece to HSE's offense this year.

Seniors Dylan James (110 yards, two TDs) and Liam Boyd (105) return at wide receiver for HSE. Along with juniors Kendrick Pennybaker and Graham Toner, the Royals WR corps looks to make a name for themselves.

On the defensive side, the Royals graduated many players that contributed to their 2023 success, but still have a lot coming back. Senior Michael Hoog brings his 64 tackles (2.5 for a loss, 1.5 sacks) back and fellow senior Mason Alexander leads the secondary with three interceptions, eight pass deflections and added 39 tackles.

HSE continues its series with Fort Wayne Carroll to begin the season on Aug. 23. They began a series with the Chargers following their 2022 semi-state playoff matchup.

The Royals' home opener is in Week 2 against North Central on Aug. 30. Hoosier Crossroads Conference play starts on Sept. 6 at Avon. The Battle for the Mudsock continues at home on Sept. 13 versus Fishers. On Sept. 20, Southeastern heads to Westfield and hosts Zionsville to end the month on Sept. 27.

A road trip to Noblesville starts October off on Oct. 4, with the final two regular season games being at Franklin Central on Oct. 11 and at home against Brownsburg on Oct. 18.

Hamilton Heights has sights set high after historic '23

By CRAIG ADKINS
For The Reporter

Hamilton Heights head football coach Jon Kirschner enters his seventh season (33-30) leading the Huskies this year and his teams keep getting better.

Last season, Heights started off 11-0, including five straight shutouts and ended the regular season winning the outright Hoosier Conference title at West Lafayette. The 2023 campaign was a dream season for the Huskies that unfortunately came to an end in the sectional championship game at home to eventual Class 3A state champion Bishop Chatard, 28-8.

Heights will have a new quarterback this year, with Bodie Derrer (1,911 yards and 16 TDs), Owen VanHaaren (865 yards) and Eric Balcom (490) all graduating, leaving a hole in the rushing game. The trio also combined to score 24 touchdowns.

The Huskies have two quarterbacks that are in competition for the starting nod to replace the graduated Derrer, who's now a Ball State Cardinal.

"Right now, there looks to be a competition between sophomore Drew Woodruff and senior Joey Sigler," said head coach Jon Kirschner.

Senior Logan Hickman (74 yards and a TD) and junior Nathan Flanders (37 yards and a TD) both saw time as backups and are the lone running backs returning with experience.

season after 12 sacks, 43 tackles (13 for a loss) and a fumble recovery. Nick Hulen comes back as a senior from a junior season with 37 tackles (five for a loss) and a pass deflection.

"Overall, our team's success will be dependent on the leadership and play of guys like seniors Tyler Champion, Keaton Weaver, Michael Cain, two-way lineman Drew Laitas and Kendall Flanders. We feel we have a strong nucleus of newcomers and younger players who will do a phenomenal job filling the voids left by last year's graduating seniors," added Kirschner.

Starting this season off on the road at Lapel on Aug. 23, Hamilton Heights hosts Triton Central on Aug. 30 for its home opener. Sept. 6 puts Heights on the road at 4A McCutcheon and they'll stay on the road at Danville on Sept. 13.

The Western Panthers come to town from Russiaville for a Hoosier Conference Big School division opener on Sept. 20 and then face league newcomer Logansport on the road on Sept. 27. Twin Lakes comes to Arcadia on Oct. 4, then the Huskies head just north to face the Tipton Blue Devils on Oct. 11 and conclude the regular season at home on Oct. 18 against West Lafayette.
